15 OF SITTING JUDGES WIN O. K. IN BAR PRIMARY

Gemmill and David Only Ones to Lose.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Fifteen of the seventeen sitting Superior judges won in the primaries held among members of the Chicago bar association, results of which were compiled and issued at midnight. Judge John P. McGoorty ran high man with a total of 2,678 and Judge Oscar Habel came second. Judges William N. Gemmill and Joseph B. David, both of whom had been subjected to mild criticism in the association's report, just failed to land among the high twenty for the twenty Superior court places.

The People's Ticket Against Coalition—the Brundage group—landed four of its twelve nominees among the twenty high candidates. Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes ran fourth, Municipal Judge C. F. McKinley ran 11th. Samuel Adams and Municipal Judge Harry F. Hamlin also won.

Isaacs Is Winner.

M. J. Isaacs, Democrat, was the fifth nominee outside the sitting judges to win.

The Republicans failed to land any of their candidates among the bar primary winners. For the Circuit court vacancy, Philip J. Finnegan, Democrat, ran ahead of George Curran, Republican, and Daniel P. Trude, Republican in the Democratic ticket, disposed Edgar A. Jonas, Republican.

The results are as follows, names of the winners in caps. The tickets they are running on being designated, D. by Democrat, P. for Peoples, R. for Republican, and I. for Independents.

In the bar primaries, which are a mere gage of sentiment among the lawyer members of the association, 3,065 votes were cast from a membership of 4,500.

Judges Appear Together.

The seventeen sitting Superior judges appeared on the platform yesterday at a meeting of 3,500 Democratic workers at the Hotel Sherman. Speeches were made by A. J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman; County Clerk Sweitzer, Ald. John Clark, the burden of which was, "Vote the Democratic ticket straight."

"There is no party politics in this campaign," said Michael L. Igoe, minority leader at Springfield. "There is no politics in the courts and there should be none in the election. The only political fight is one between two Republican factions, who are fighting each other. Instead of picking a judicial election, which should be nonpartisan, as a battleground they might more properly have waited and made their fight at the primaries next April."

Kavanagh and Others Indorsed.

At a meeting of the service men's judiciary committee at the Hotel La Salle all service men on the judicial tickets were indorsed. This list includes Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, Republican, running on the Democratic ticket; Henry T. Chace, one

STATE MAY RULE MEDICINE, FRANK WARNS DOCTORS

Appeals to Surgeons for Health Drive.

With a billion dollars a year at stake, state medicine or its equivalent, directed by industries and insurance companies, will inevitably come in the United States unless the physicians forestall it by some adequate action of their own.

That was the warning given last night by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, to 3,000 members of the American College of Surgeons, closing their annual clinical congress in the Stevens hotel. The address was delivered just after fellowships had been conferred by the president, Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, surgeon general of the army, on 600 new members of the organization, which numbers approximately 9,000.

Visions State Control.

Speaking as a layman, Dr. Frank visualized the medicine and surgery of the country entirely directed by the government or under the control of the vast insurance companies and industries. He said he considered such a thing "bound to come."

"As a general principle I dislike to see any activity fall into the hands of the government," Dr. Frank said. "That applies to an activity if such can be administered equally well or better by the trade or profession to which the activity logically belongs.

"Society never faces the dilemma of choice between an inner or outer control of its fundamental services. I prefer inner control for the reason that, as modern society becomes increasingly complex and technical, the man on the job should be better equipped for the job than the man on the sidelines.

As a Last Resort.

"It is, I think, an intelligently progressive policy to consider government control of fundamental services only when inner control breaks down or plays truant to its responsibility. In the light of this principle, I raise the question: Is private medicine to be superseded by state medicine or its equivalent?

"The answer to this question will, I think, depend entirely upon the quality of medical statesmanship displayed by the medical profession during the years immediately ahead."

Dr. Frank had preceded these remarks by a statement that a medical revolution started in this country about 1875 is just coming to a culmination.

"Today," he had said, "the study of disease is slowly but surely transforming the world of medicine."

Like Old Craftsmen.

Dr. Frank likened the medical revolution to the industrial revolution which in years past supplanted man power with machinery. He compared the private practitioner of medicine and surgery of today to the handcraftsman of a few years back.

"It may happen," he said, "that a vast high-powered medical machine, under the sponsorship of industries, insurance companies and governments, will enter the field and subject the private practitioners to a ruinous competition they will be unable to meet.

"A growing determination to rid society of the waste and inefficiency due to disease is becoming one of the social passions of the period. This determination is heading up into certain very definite public and quasi-public movements that have intimate implications for the medical profession.

Lose 350 Million Days.

"Three years ago, 42,000,000 persons were classed as gainfully employed in the United States. When these lose something over eight days each year from illness, and non-industrial as well as industrial accidents, it means that they face an annual loss of $50,000,000 working days."

Dr. Frank showed that "the economic loss from preventable disease and postponable death reached a total of one billion eight hundred million dollars, borne annually by those gainfully employed in the United States." And he continued:

"It is estimated that this loss could be cut to a point where, over and above the costs of prevention, a balance of something like one billion dollars annually could be left in the pockets of the working population and the industries."

Warns Medical Men.

He then pointed out that labor, industry and the insurance companies must certainly act to effect this reduction.

"And you may be certain that none

NEW REJUVENATION OPERATION IS DONE BY DR. LESPINASSE

It was disclosed yesterday at the sessions of the American College of Surgeons in the Stevens hotel that Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse, recipient of publicity in connection with his gland operations of a few years ago, had performed another operation for rejuvenation. This was said to have been performed in a clinic at the Wesley Memorial hospital on last Wednesday, and while it created some discussion among the members of the college, the officials of the organization withheld their approval of Dr. Lespinasse's method pending, they said, evidence of its efficacy.

Dr. Lespinasse himself called the operation a phlebophlebostomy, which, it was explained, consisted of a non-dangerous operation in which two veins were joined to improve the blood supply in some localized region. The patient in the operation was said to have been a wealthy and prominent citizen of 65 years.

CUBA JAILS 4 IN PLOT; PROMINENT MEN INVOLVED

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Four men were arrested on charges of conspiracy against the Cuban government and 14 others, several of them former senators and cabinet members, face possible federal charges as the result of a police raid today. Manifestoes of an alleged revolutionary character were seized.

The arrested men are Alfredo Avila, plantation owner of Santiago de Las Vegas; Pedro Valdez Fernandez, attorney; Dr. Antonio Beruff y Mendieta, Havana attorney, and Sexto Aguiro Padron.

Secret police agents who made the raid said the names of the following were signed to seditious manifestoes: Col. Carlos Mendieta, presidential candidate of the Nationalista party two years ago; Juan Gualberto Gomez, former senator; Aurelio Hevia, former secretary of the interior; Roberto Mendez Penate, former governor of Pinar del Rio province; Aurelio Alvarez, former president of the senate, and Alejandro Vergara, newspaper man.

VINCENT HEALY INJURED BY FALL IN SWIFT HOME

Vincent E. Healy, son of the late P. J. Healy, founder of the music house of Lyon & Healy, was reported in a serious condition at the Passavant hospital early this morning. Mr. Healy was injured on Thursday when he fell two stories in an elevator shaft at the home of Gustavus F. Swift, a vice president of Swift & Co., at 1551 Astor street.

Mr. Healy was a dinner guest in the Swift home when the accident occurred. Mistaking the second floor door of the elevator for the door of another room, he opened it and fell to the basement. According to hospital attendants, he suffered six fractured ribs, an injury to his spine, and internal shock.

Belgians Riot as Princess Plans to Wed

BRUSSELS, Oct. 18.—Five revolver shots were fired and many stones were thrown at the third floor dining room windows of the Italian embassy in Brussels tonight as a protest against the engagement of Princess Marie-José of Belgium, King Albert's only daughter, to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Marquis Carlo Durozzo, Italian ambassador to Belgium, and his family were in the dining room when the attack of the hundred or more young Belgians occurred. The riot was started after the news came out that Crown Prince Humbert would arrive in Brussels on Tuesday, that the engagement would be officially announced on Thursday, and that the wedding is to take place in Rome next January. The rioters were only dispersed by the police firing over their heads. Though doors and windows of the legation were smashed no arrests were made.

Think Marie-José Condescends.

The whole Belgian population disapproves of the marriage of the Princess Marie-José to the Italian prince. The chief reason is that Premier Mussolini is disliked here. The people also consider the Italian king as a mere figurehead. They think that their pretty, tall, blonde princess is entitled to a more glorious destiny than that of a queen at the mercy of dictatorial politicians.

But another reason which may thwart Marie-José's Italian romance is the spectral memory of the fate of the insane ex-empress of Mexico, Princess Charlotte, daughter of the first Belgian king, who urged and coaxed her Austrian husband, Maximilian, into accepting the shaky throne of Mexico. When Mexican rebels shot the young emperor Charlotte went insane and spent the rest of her life playing with dolls amid physicians and nurses in a secluded, iron barred castle near Brussels.

"Remember Mexico," Belgian statesmen are said to have intimated to King Albert these days. "Will Italy's monarchy outlast Mussolini's reign? Is our princess safe in Italy?" people ask worriedly.

Cupid Takes a Hand.

There's just one simple fact working in favor of Marie-José's union with Prince Humbert—the princess is obviously in love with Italy's Prince Charming.

I have been able to watch Princess Marie-José rather closely in the last five years. First, I was introduced to the princess, when she was 18, in a Brussels college where she attended some classes I happened to take. Princess Marie-José was probably the shyest and most serious minded girl in that school. She used to dress like a young girl of the middle classes. As a matter of fact, I often thought her lady in waiting was ever so much smarter looking than she. There wasn't a trace of rouge or lipstick on Marie-José's face and she never wore any jewelry.

Marie-José met Humbert in the girlhood years when love strikes like lightning. She was not interested in men. But meeting the prince changed her visibly. Love turned her into a woman. Today, Marie-Jose, at 23, is graceful and lovely. She adores dancing and music, does use some make-up, and dresses with taste to match her mermaid eyes and blonde, naturally curly, bobbed hair. Her figure is perfect, slender without being lean.

Since then Marie-José attended the wedding of her cousin, Anne of France, in Naples and has taken her Italian lessons more ardently than ever before. She has registered a sudden passionate interest in skiing. It happens to be Humbert's favorite sport.

I am told Marie-José has always got what she wanted. She is the only daughter and youngest child of her "Dad," and King Albert just could not resist her begging when she was a baby. If she still has that childhood tenacity of hers, there'll be wedding bells ringing in Rome soon.

Chicago Sends Half Million to Taylorville

Taylorville, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The melodramatic arrival of federal reserve bank officers by airplane from Chicago at 1:45 p. m. today with $500,000 in cash halted an all day run on the only one of four Taylorville banks remaining and was believed to have broken the back of a money scare that has caused the closing of six Christian county banks in the last week.

The money was dispatched from Chicago in response to a phone call for help from J. J. Adams, president of the Farmers' National bank here, after an all day run had threatened to eat up all the bank's available cash.

The run on the Farmers' National was precipitated when the First National, the Taylorville National, and the Turner State bank at Edinburg, near here, posted notices this morning that they had voluntarily decided to close their doors to "protect depositors."

Three Other Banks Closed.

The closing of these three banks was a direct result of the closing of the J. B. Colegrove State bank in Taylorville Thursday of last week, followed by that of the Farmers' State bank at Bulpitt on the following day, and the closing of the Farmers' State bank at Edinburg yesterday.

The resulting scare caused the most serious bank run in the history of central Illinois.

From 9 o'clock this morning, when the Farmers' National opened its doors, a line gathered and withdrawals began. The run continued unabated and at noon today $80,000 had been withdrawn.

Currency Nearly Exhausted.

A large supply of currency had been secured by Mr. Adams in anticipation of heavy withdrawals, but at noon, with over 250 persons lined up before the paying teller's window, fighting for positions, Adams realized that the available currency would not be sufficient and appealed to Chicago federal reserve officials.

The airplane bearing the money arrived at the local airport in 1 hour and 50 minutes after the call for help was received in Chicago. A squad of deputy sheriffs and police escorted the money to the local bank. Depositors who were in the line were shoved aside with shotguns as the guards entered the bank with the two sacks containing the currency.

With the entry of the guards and money the waiting line, that extended into the street, melted away and the crisis was over. Soon those who had been the first to demand their money were scrambling to redeposit it.

Closed Banks May Merge.

Directors of the First National and Taylorville National banks today were considering a merger of the two institutions. It is believed that the consolidation will be effected within the next week and the new bank opened. State auditors will complete their audit of the J. B. Colegrove bank here tomorrow, it was said, and a statement will be issued.

The failure of the Colegrove bank was the first in the history of this city and was caused by a slump in the coal business, together with the extreme lateness of this year's corn crop.

"Too Many Autos" Blamed.

Merchants tonight were a chastened but optimistic air. Some were inclined to blame the local money panic entirely on the late corn crop, but others diagnosed the trouble as "too much fake prosperity in Christian county, too many installment plan cars, and too much high spending by people unable to afford it."

But the consensus was that Taylorville will come back strong. Many townsmen placed their hopes for a quick upturn on the valuable soy bean crop which will be sold within the next week, and which is counted on to bring a flood of ready cash into the town.

Taylorville, besides being a farming and mining center, has big railroad shops and a paper mill.

WASHINGTON—Skipper of Canadian rum runner Shawnee indicted in connection with Atlantic rum syndicate.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A many-month investigation by picked prohibition agents reached its climax today when a federal grand jury indicted 42 men, members of two huge syndicates, on charges they conspired to ship Canadian liquor from Detroit to widely separated parts of the nation.

Thirty-four of those indicted are Detroiters and eight live in Chicago and other cities. So far only 15 have been arraigned. The jury returned its findings after hearing testimony for several days. The special agents testified how they enlisted in one or the other of two rum syndicates, worked as regular members and at the same time gathered damaging evidence. It was reported the agents even testified that they had given the runners government trucks, representing them as their own.

Two indictments naming the members of the two gangs were returned. The two rings are designated as the Sam Rosenfield and Sam Miller syndicates. Sam Miller is now at liberty under bond of $25,000 pending trial. Rosenfield has furnished bond for $20,000.

Others in Custody.

Members of the so-called "Miller ring" now under arrest are Miller, the reputed leader; Paul Hiller, Skipper Carson, Carlo Nebiolo, Joseph La Pot, and John Gump, all under $10,000 bond; John Linaugh, William Boyle, and William N. Retell, a township constable in Macomb county, all under $5,000 bond each.

The United States marshal has warrants for the arrest of the other alleged members of this syndicate; Harry Brooks, Eddie Long, Leo Pollock, Billy Sullivan, Flakey Lee, Eddie Hutchinson, James Oaks, George Link, Nell Connors, Ray Hoffner, and "one other."

Those held as members of the so-called "Rosenfield ring" are: Rosenfield; Sam Mouncey, bond $20,000; John Thorman, Walter Jusewick, $10,000 each; Raymond H. Moore, $5,000. Federal offices also are seeking Frank Brown, Albert Mathews, Joseph Mathews, Oscar Suravitz, Max Metal, Thomas Gulzski, Newton Mizar, and "two others."

The indictments charge conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law and conspiracy to violate the federal laws. Each charge carries a maximum sentence of two years.

Huge Shipment Charged.

From Jan. 8 to Sept. 18, the government will attempt to prove, the syndicates shipped thousands of cases of beer, whisky and other intoxicants, brought from Canada, to New York and other eastern cities, to Toledo and many small Ohio towns, and west to Chicago and other cities.

The story the agents told the grand jury was one of working with the rum runners month after month that they might get positive evidence on the leaders, as well as the underlings. In this way, government officers have helped to ship untold quantities of wet goods to the country's speakeasies.

The Canadian bases of the gangs were located at Goderich, Ont., and Riverside, Ont., the agents said. From these towns large "luggers" carrying liquors of various kinds would put out for Santiac, on Lake Huron. Trucks picked up the cargo and took it to farm barns used for storage places. Experts would then go to work in these storage places and disguise the liquor, usually as merchandise. It then would be ready for shipment.

By Auto, Truck and Freight.

Conveyances sometimes were small automobiles and again freight cars. Sometimes trucks were used. In what best suiting its bulk, the liquor was sent to various points. It is known that liquor shipped from Detroit has been found as far west as Colorado.

The chief destination of beer was Chicago, while eastern cities took mostly whiskies and wines. Usually the beer was not shipped over 500 miles.

The testifying agents had thrilling tales of narrow escapes in encounters with the government forces. On several occasions they lost cargoes to the dry fleet.

Many of the men wanted have fled to Canada, it is believed, but more arrests are expected.

CAPONE CHECK RUMORED

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The name and bank account of Al Capone, Chicago's master racketeer, now in jail in Philadelphia, figured today in the federal authorities' continued investigation of the huge liquor ring whose wide operations were halted abruptly Wednesday by thirty-five simultaneous raids in New Jersey and New York. A check for $1,500, reported made out by Capone to one of the indicted heads of the syndicate, but on which payment was stopped before it was cashed, was being sought among the seized records.

Announcement of the existence of the check was made by Assistant United States Attorney James E. Wilkinson in Brooklyn. Mr. Wilkinson said the check was sent last month but he was unable to explain how Capone had been able to send it from his Philadelphia cell.

Denied by Higher Official.

United States Attorney Philip M. Forman of the Trenton, N. J., area, the official in charge of the entire case, said he had no evidence of any connection between Capone and the syndicate. Neither would he substantiate the Brooklyn official's assertions that a number of New Jersey banks had been indirectly concerned in the financial operations of the rum ring and that one carried a large amount of the bootlegger's money in an account that was hidden under the code letters "X L."

"If I had such evidence, those concerned would have been indicted along with the other thirty-four," Mr. Forman added.

He likewise contradicted the New York rumors that a firm of attorneys had been found heavily implicated in the liquor operations of the ring, which yielded an average gross return estimated at $1,250,000 a week.

Prohibition Administrator William J. Calhoun, in Newark, who led the raids which broke up the combine, was busy today studying the two black account books seized at the syndicate headquarters.

$30,000 a Week "Protection."

It was reported a New Jersey mayor was listed among those to whom bribes were paid. Minor officials, both state and federal, were said to be among the listed recipients of "protection money" aggregating $30,000 a week.

Meanwhile prohibition agents were concentrating upon the effort to arrest the twenty-one members still at large in the group of thirty-four indicted. Some are believed to have fled the United States, but the majority are thought to be hiding near at hand.

"They will be captured in a reasonable time," Mr. Forman said. "They won't get away. Our forces are all around them."

The coast guard forces likewise continued their search for the ships and speed boats of the syndicate, which are thought to be in the vicinity. The speed boat Victory, said to have belonged to the ring, was seized in Brooklyn.

It was reported tonight that a band of forty pretty and flirty girl agents had been used by the government last summer as under cover agents to trap the leaders of the syndicate, and had played no small part in working up the government's case.

SMASH BUFFALO RING

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A double blow was struck by the government against Lake Erie rum smuggling in this district today.

While coast guards were rounding up members of an alleged liquor running syndicate said to do a weekly traffic of 4,000 cases of booze, the federal grand jury reported a number of indictments charging rum smuggling. Among those named in the indictments was Lloyd Brace, prominent Buffalo business man.

Six men were arrested in the coast guard drive. They are alleged to be members of a group which has been landing cargoes of liquor from Canada on the lake shore near Dunkirk, N. Y., 50 miles west of Buffalo. Arrangements had been made, it is said, with several farmers whose properties embraced stretches of beach to land the liquor on a payment of 50 cents per case. Several of the farmers face arrest.

RUM SHIPPER INDICTED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of dry enforcement, announced today that among those indicted in connection with the raids on the big Atlantic coast bootleg ring, which utilized the radio to control its rum fleet on the high seas, was John Macleod, master of the Canadian ship Shawnee, which was fired upon by the coast guard on Sept. 11. The Canadian government later requested the American authorities for a report on this shooting and the subject is now engaging the attention of the state department.

Mr. Lowman revealed that every effort was made by federal agents, who had seized the rum ring's radio station, to lure the Shawnee within the twelve mile limit, so coast guard vessels could take the ship into custody. At one time, he said, four coast guard vessels surrounded the Canadian ship, but the captain eluded them.

Capone Seeks Habeas Corpus.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Al Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, Chicago gangsters, today began another legal fight to win freedom before serving out their sentence of one year each for carrying concealed weapons.

Attorneys for Capone and Cline today petitioned the Superior court for the discharge of the two from the Eastern penitentiary on writs of habeas corpus. The court summoned Warden Herbert Smith and District Attorney John Monahan to appear before it Oct. 28 to show cause why the writs should not be granted.

It is contended in today's petition that the transfer of Capone and Cline from the county prison, to which they were sentenced May 17, to the penitentiary places them under the provisions of the indeterminate sentence law and entitles them to a minimum sentence of one-half the original sentence, or six months. It is argued that since they already have served more than five months, they should be freed in about mid-November.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Two telephone calls made to friends from whom he had borrowed money were the main leads followed today by detectives on the trail of Raymond H. Gallagher, chauffeur for the Brinks Express company, who disappeared on Thursday from in front of the Chemical National bank with an armored truck containing ten pay rolls totaling $63,000.

Gallagher was in telephone communication with his creditors, whose names are withheld, several hours after he left the other two members of the truck crew at the bank, which they had entered to deposit $22,000. The missing armored car chauffeur owed one of his friends $100 and the other $160.

"I've just made a killing in Wall street," Gallagher is reported to have said over the telephone. "You're going to get all your money back tomorrow, plus a little token of gratitude."

Whether the money was sent as the chauffeur promised, detectives who questioned the two friends refused to say.

NEW YORK CITY BUDGET FOR 1930 IS $564,773,252

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The 1930 city budget as proposed for adoption was fixed by the board of estimate today at $564,773,252.23, an increase of $2,695,029.23 over the total of the tentative budget presented for consideration last week. It is $25,844,555.09 in excess of the final budget for 1929, the total of which was $538,928,697.14.

In the increase allowed the police department gains an added increment of $1,210,700 over the total allowed in the tentative budget. Of the additional sum granted, $1,061,400 is to provide 800 new policemen for patrol and traffic duty, and $50,000 is for a "secret service squad," providing an added $500 a year to pay each of the 100 men selected for that special service.

State to Spend 300 Million.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The next state budget, work on which will be started Oct. 26, is expected to amount to more than three hundred million dollars, it was learned at the capitol today.

DOODY CALM AS STATE DEMANDS DEATH PENALTY

Events of Trial Fail to Move "Babyface."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lee Taylor, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; E. R. Douglas, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; John Campbell, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge William N. Gemmill.

John Mikolajczak, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Jacob Haskins.

Robert Lee, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Julius Brown, Therron Davis, and Ernest Rogers, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Louis Ruiz, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

"Babyface" Willie Doody was a two gun terror when the police captured him after a summer's search, but he was a Sunday school boy with a tea table manner, mild as a May morning at the opening of evidence yesterday in his trial for the murder of Police Chief Charles Levy of Berwyn. Judge Otto Kerner's courtroom in the Criminal court building was crowded with spectators.

There was progress but little action in the day's doings. Court and counsel reflected almost as serene a propriety as the defendant, who remained statuelike in his chair throughout the day, scarcely moving or speaking. Nothing in the procedure struck legal fire from either Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, chief prosecutor, or the defense attorney, William Scott Stewart.

State Demands Death.

Doody, who walked hopelessly of suicide after his long delayed capture, did not even cringe perceptibly as Ditchburne besought the twelve men in the jury box to consider the evidence he would present and if they found Doody guilty of murder to fix his penalty at death.

Nothing sensational transpired in the courtroom as the little scene in the corridor outside at the noon recess, where Mrs. Emily Levy, widow of the police chief, gathered her five fatherless boys about her as she talked with friends. She testified at the morning session.

"Feel?" she repeated a question. "I feel badly, but I'm going to be here till this trial is over. I want to see that man get the chair. Yes, I do."

Tells Fatal Night.

She was a pathetic figure in black as she walked to the witness stand, the first to be called by the state after the opening statement. Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler questioned her about the events of the night her husband was shot. Her story was short—that he had been home for the evening meal and left with his brother-in-law, Edward E. Rathburn, for his usual tour of the town. It was Saturday night, May 25, 1929.

"Do you recognize this article?" she was asked. He husband's police star was handed her.

"Yes, I do," she answered, bowing her head as tears started. She wiped them away and continued with an effort. "He was wearing it that night."

Saw Him Next at Hospital.

"When did you see him next after he left the house that night?"

"It was the next morning, at the Berwyn hospital."

"And the next time?"

Mrs. Levy was crying openly now. She barely managed to reply.

"Two days later, the 28th of May. That was the morning he died."

As Attorney Stewart rose, expressing his willingness for a recess to be taken, Ditchburne signified that he had finished with the witness. Stewart promptly returned, "No cross-examination," and she was assisted from the stand. Two of the small boys were shedding tears as she sat down beside them again. Mrs. Levy put an arm about each of them and patted their shoulders comfortingly.

There was more of detail and of interest for Doody in the recital of Capt James Mikes, whose story, prompted by Ditchburne, ran the gamut of the entire tragedy from the time Chief Levy left his own home. Mikes is acting chief of police at Berwyn.

"We called for Chief Levy at his house," he told the jury. "Sergt. Robert Soldat was with me, Sergt. Thomas Bastunek and the chief's brother-in-law, Edward Rathburne. We drove south first on our regular Saturday night tour. Then we came back toward the station and I made a pull [called the station]. I went back to the car and told the chief a stolen car was reported in front of an apartment building at 21st and Clarence, so we drove over there.

Drive Up to Car.

"A man who had done some work on the car for its owner had recognized it in Chicago and had followed it to this address, then called the station to report it. Two men who were inside, one in a brown suit and one in a gray, had disappeared.

"We stopped beside the car, but no one was visible. We left Chief Levy and Bastunek there and the rest of us drove around the block in the police car. We got Sergt. Soldat's car, which was parked not far away, and came back and parked it about thirty feet behind the stolen coupe. Both cars faced west.

"Sergt. Soldat and Chief Levy stayed in Soldat's car. Rathburne Bastunek and myself drove around the block again and parked the Cadillac in the alley south of 21st street, heading north, so that we were about 150 feet away from the stolen car and almost directly south of it.

Many Shots Are Fired.

"About forty minutes later we saw two figures silhouetted in the light from the doorway of the apartment building, standing close together. Next moment there was a lot of shots. We saw the flashes. A man ran across the street toward us, fell down, and fired again as he lay there. Then he jumped up and ran toward us, shooting at me as I yelled to him to halt. He fired twice, then leaped the fence on the east side of the alley and disappeared. I thought he looked like a fellow about 5 feet 4, with a brown suit—any way it was dark."

"What did you do then?" queried Ditchburne.

"I heard the chief call, so I went back and he was lying there on the parking. He said, 'They got me, Jim.' We put him in the Cadillac and took him to the hospital."

"Was any one else in the car?"

"Yes, this Eddie Mack that Sergt. Soldat had arrested."

Eddie Maciejewski, alias Eddie Mack, was the man who was already seated in the stolen car when Sergt. Soldat on one side and Chief Levy on the other stepped up to the driver's seat and showed stars and revolvers with an order to the two inside to throw up their hands. Mack was brought into court yesterday and identified by Capt. Mikes as the prisoner. Mack told police Doody was his companion of that night.

As the handcuffed man was ushered in, "Babyface" flicked a glance toward him and away again. He was no more interested in this feature of the proceedings than in the previous ones. And Mack was led back to his cell. He will stand trial separately.

Testimony is Corroborated.

Edward Rathburne corroborated the testimony of Capt. Nikes in all particulars except the description of the man who ran toward them. He could not see clearly because of the dusk, he said, and could not describe the man except that he was short and wore a darkish suit.

Attorney Stewart yesterday asserted he has not decided what line the defense will take, except that he will not allow his client to plead insanity. He waived his privilege of making an opening statement to the jury, and also waived cross examination of all witnesses except Captain Mikes and Rathburne.

Prosecutor Ditchburne will produce his star witness, Sergt. Soldat, today. It is expected that the latter's positive identification of Doody as the second man in the stolen coupe will constitute the strongest link in the state's chain of evidence against him. The defense is expected to challenge the identification on the grounds that it was too dark to see clearly.

Mrs. Lillian Kahler, in whose flat at 5504 Jackson boulevard Doody remained hidden for weeks while police searched the country for him, is also expected to be a witness.

BOB WOMAN'S STORE.

Three young men, armed with revolvers, stole $15 from the cash register of Mrs. Mary Lax's grocery store at 1445 Cornell street yesterday afternoon.

Reveal 3 Big Rum Plots in Northern Indiana; 200 Defendants Charged with 3,285 Offenses

Details of the northern Indiana rum conspiracies for which 300 persons were indicted two weeks ago became known yesterday in Gary. A total of 3,285 offenses against the dry law are charged against some 200 of the defendants in three major conspiracies, the offenses ranging from the wholesale importation of liquor from Canada and seven European countries down through the entire list of prohibition counts, exportation excepted. From 25 to 500 charges are placed under each count.

Gary is the seat of two of the alleged conspiracies and East Chicago of the third. The remaining 100 defendants are scattered over the northern district district of the state and are principally from South Bend and Fort Wayne. They were indicted on minor charges.

Officials Named in Both Cases.

Policemen, city officials, politicians and alleged bootleggers are named in connection with both Gary conspiracies, forty of them having been arrested thus far. One group committed 1,500 offenses, according to the indictments, and the other 1,200.

One hundred and thirty-six persons are named in East Chicago, including Mayor Raleigh P. Hale and Chief of Police James W. Regan. The 136 are accused of 1,125 offenses. Several other defendants remain to be arrested both in East Chicago and in Gary.

One of the Gary conspiracies is alleged to have been headed by the following principal defendants: Ald. A. B. Whitlock, colored; Police Captain John R. Smith; Ald. S. R. Blackwell, a colored physician; Lieut. Matt Leech, Sergt. James Sherman, Sergt. Frank Cook, Sergt. Nathan Potts, Sergt. John Bolden, and Attorneys Roger Woodfolk and Lewis Sperling.

1,500 Offenses Charged.

With others, this group is alleged to have committed 1,500 offenses, conspiring with Detective Sergeant C. C. Diehl, Patrolman Joe Klimek, and John "Boots" Lewis, Negro bootlegger. The last three were not indicted. The offenses are divided under the following headings:

1. Fifty offenses of importing intoxicating liquor from Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Italy, and Spain.
2. Fifty offenses of manufacturing intoxicating liquor to sell.
3. Three hundred offenses of possessing intoxicating liquor to the extent of ten or more gallons.
4. Five hundred offenses of selling intoxicating liquor in ten gallon lots.
5. One hundred offenses of transporting intoxicating liquor.
6. Four hundred offenses of maintaining bootleg resorts.
7. Fifty offenses of facilitating the transportation of liquor.

Seven Overt Acts Alleged.

Seven overt acts are alleged in a partial list of particulars against the Whitlock group. While most of the statements are worded to conceal definite charges, the following, thought to refer to the so called "Carling incident," wherein a confiscated truckload of beer fell into the hands of the police, are included:

That Lieut. Leech took a quantity of Black label beer from the police station on Feb. 10, 1929.

That Sergt. Bolden accepted $100 from an unnamed person on Nov. 16, 1927.

That Patrolman Mike Yanitor took two cases of beer from the station.

That Sergt. James Sherman left a case of beer at the De Luxe restaurant in Gary on Feb. 8, 1929.

Details on Second Conspiracy.

The second Gary conspiracy allegations are headed by the name of Detective Sergeant Robert Bock. Others named are Special City Judge Thomas Galasini, Police Captain James R. Vodicka, Lieut. Frank Galloway, Sergt. Roy Keele, Sergt. Irl Kidwell, Sergt. Carl Ingersoll, Sergt. John Papps, Sergt. Frank Prohl, and Sergt. Oscar Salzman. They are accused of 1,200 offenses, in the following groups, alleged to have been committed from April 21, 1928, to the time of the indictments:

1. Seventy-five offenses of importing liquor from Canada and the same countries of Europe named in connection with the Whitlock group.
2. Twenty-five offenses of manufacturing liquor.
3. Three hundred offenses of possession of liquor.
4. Three hundred offenses of sale of liquor.
5. Fifty offenses of transportation of liquor.
6. Four hundred offenses of maintaining bootleg resorts.
7. Fifty offenses of facilitating the transportation of liquor.

Eight Overt Acts Listed.

The bill of particulars available in regard to the Bock group lists eight overt acts. The following are excerpts:

That Sergt. Keele assisted in loading an automobile with Black label beer at the police station on Feb. 7, 1929.

That Sergt. Salzman apprehended a man by the name of Metcalf in the act of transporting intoxicating liquor to 1708 Delaware street, Gary, last June and that Salzman released Metcalf after receiving $25.

The East Chicago Cases.

Named with Mayor Hale and Chief Regan in the East Chicago cases are Police Captain Edward Knight, Chief of Detectives Martin Zarkovich, and Edward Higgins, chairman of the board of safety.

Except for the importation offenses, which were given as 500, the list was not complete, but contained counts similar to those in the other conspiracy indictments. They totaled 1,125.

The bill of particulars, however, included these statements:

That Chief Regan instructed his police in 1926 not to enter any soft drink parlors.

That Chief Zarkovich talked with Nick Marovich [an important government witness, now in Leavenworth penitentiary] in the East Chicago police station in May, 1927.

MOVE TO KEEP M. E. PASTORS OUT OF POLITICS

Virginia Laymen Put It Up to Conference.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—In a resolution offered today a move to restrict future political activities of ministers was launched before the 147th annual Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session here. If the resolution is adopted it will be forwarded to the general conference for action.

Fred C. Abbott of Norfolk, Va., offered the resolution dealing with political activities of churchmen. The resolution goes to the committee on morals and will not be reported on before Monday, the Rev. J. B. Winn, the chairman, announced.

Aloof from the World.

The resolution declares the traditional policy of the church since its foundation, has been to instruct its ministers to hold aloof from worldly affairs and to particularly eschew and abstain from political interests and activities. It recites that there is an increasing tendency for preachers to take an active part in partisan politics "frequently to the extent of inducing the discussion of political subjects into the church itself."

These practices, the resolution recites, "tend to engender strife, promote disorder and dissension and often to the disruption of the church."

Declare Future Policy.

The Virginia conference is asked to go on record that it vigorously disapproves and protests against such practices and earnestly admonishes its members hereafter to refrain from taking part in public political controversies and contests. The general conference is asked officially to declare the future policy of the church in regards to the subject and to take "such further remedial action" as it may deem expedient and proper.

Although the resolution did not mention any names, political circles and certain church elements see in it a rebuke to Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for his activities in presidential and gubernatorial campaigns. Bishop Collins Denny of the same church is known to oppose and deplore Cannon's activities in politics.

Only a few days ago Bishop Collins Denny of Virginia, declared that he was receiving hundreds of letters from Methodists threatening to quit the church if the pastors did not keep out of politics. He repeatedly has warned that it is "not within the sphere of the church to meddle in politics."

7 BANK BANDITS GET AWAY WITH $60,000 IN LOOT

Desperadoes Shoot Two as They Escape.

Peru, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Seven heavily armed bandits who held up and robbed the First National bank of Peru of more than $60,000 today were still at large tonight.

A Claypool vigilante's bullet punctured the gasoline tank of the bandits' automobile in the course of a running gun battle, but the car sped away.

An airplane scouted the country for miles around Peru today and automobile posses combed the territory, but no trace of the robber band was found.

Bandits Fired On.

Edward Alexander was the man who fired on the bandit car. He began shooting after the desperadoes had halted their automobile at Silver Lake to ask directions to Chicago.

Tom Deveny, policeman, and J. L. Howenstein, pedestrian, of Michigan City, Ind., were shot in the foot and leg respectively as the bandits started firing at random as they left the bank. Howenstein's leg was broken.

Three bandits entered the bank, the fourth guarded the front door, and the fifth was stationed at the side door. The others remained in the bandit car, on which were mounted two machine guns. Those in the bank commanded the fifteen employés and eight customers to lie on the floor while the bandits ransacked the money drawer and counter. An employé then was compelled to open the vault.

The robbers looted the bank of all its currency but spurned a large amount of silver.

Fail to Heed Alarm.

The bank alarm was sounded by one of the employés, but the police for some reason asserting they thought it a false alarm, telephoned the bank to inquire what was wrong. One of the bandits ordered a woman employé to answer and, holding a revolver close to her, told her to say everything was "O. K."

DOHENY SHOWS STRAIN UNDER LAWYER'S FIRE

Oil Man's Second Story of Fall Loan Clouded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Government counsel in the Fall $100,000 bribery trial played a final trump card today when by cross-examination they succeeded in casting a cloud of doubt over E. L. Doheny's story of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve lease negotiations and his financial dealings with the former secretary of the interior.

Before the 74 year old millionaire left the stand, flushed of face, perspiring and highly agitated, he had contradicted much of his testimony before the senate oil scandals investigating committee and had admitted that Fall, being "only human," might have been influenced in favor of Doheny's company by what he termed an "innocent loan," but which the government charges was an outright bribe.

Glancing frequently at the crushed and physically broken Fall, slumped down in an easy chair at the prisoner's rail, Doheny, in direct testimony, retold the story which proved so effective in December, 1926, when both were acquitted of conspiracy to defraud the United States and loot the navy's emergency oil reserves.

Sketches Life Friendship.

He sketched the meeting with Fall in New Mexico more than forty years ago when both were prospecting for gold and the beginning of a friendship which lasted through the years during which one became an immensely wealthy oil magnate and the other entered a presidential cabinet.

By the merest of coincidences he discovered, Doheny testified, during the early stages of the negotiations which finally resulted in a lease of Elk Hills reserve to his company, that Fall was in desperate need of money. Inspired by the memories of their desert days together and grateful for the signal service given his Mexican investments by Fall, as chairman of a senate investigating committee, Doheny said he volunteered to lend the former $100,000 on an unsecured promissory note.

He told how, fearing that in event of his accidental death, the executors of his estate might press Fall for payment, he had torn the latter's signature from the note and gave that portion of the note to Mrs. Doheny, who placed it for safe keeping in the family safe deposit box in Los Angeles, Cal.

Weeps as He Talks of Son.

Here, at the mention of his son, who loaned the $100,000 to Fall in the "little black bag," and who was accidentally killed by his secretary last February, Doheny broke down and wept. He had been telling how the then Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, chief of the bureau of engineering, in 1921, had so impressed him with the navy's fear of a Japanese invasion that he promised to undertake construction of fuel oil storage tanks for the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Frank J. Hogan, Fall's counsel, asked him how Robison, now retired, happened to come to him with the appeal for assistance in the navy's project.

"I had known him when he was commander of the U. S. S. Huntington, when—" Doheny began as the tears ran down his cheeks and he struggled to regain his composure. Young Doheny was an officer on the Huntington during the world war. A hush, broken only by the repressed sobbing of Mrs. Doheny, sitting among the spectators, fell over the courtroom and for nearly a full minute Doheny was unable to continue.

"I knew him through an officer on his ship," Doheny finally managed to say and Hogan quickly shifted the question to another subject.

Defiant in Cross-Examination.

Refreshed by the noon hour recess, Doheny resumed the stand and in a few minutes was fighting desperately to stay clear of the traps into which Owen J. Roberts, government counsel, sought to lead him. Several times he leaned forward to shout his denials, only to be confronted with the testimony he gave on the same points when he appeared before the senate committee at the height of the oil scandal investigation.

"Did you ever expect repayment of this note by Fall?" demanded Roberts during the cross-examination.

"Certainly, I did," answered Doheny, with a show of anger.

Roberts recalled that before the senate committee the oil man said that if Fall failed to repay the loan before leaving the cabinet, he would be employed by a Doheny company at a salary large enough to permit him to repay the loan.

Carried Around a $100,000 Note.

"Well, Mr. Doheny," continued Mr. Roberts, "you say you had this note in your wallet for two years and two months. Is it your custom to carry notes for one hundred thousand dollars about in your wallet?"

"It is my custom to carry any notes for any amount as long as I please in my wallet," answered Doheny. "I have carried them for longer than that."

"And when you came before the committee on the first occasion in the spring of 1924 you told the committee you did not have the note—that it was at home?" asked Mr. Roberts.

"Yes," answered Doheny.

"Whereas it was in your pocket?" continued Mr. Roberts.

"No," declared Doheny emphatically. "There was a part of the note in my pocket. I went over that argument before and I am telling you now in all good faith that I do not recognize a part of the note as being the note, no matter what juries or courts may decide. In my mind the note is the whole thing. Without that part it is only a part of the note."

The signature torn from the Fall note was never produced by Doheny, it was pointed out by Mr. Roberts, until it was offered by the defense in the conspiracy trial.

Didn't Fear "Embarrassment."

Doheny admitted that he never told Fall until "years afterward" that the signature had been torn from the note and that as a result its legality might be questioned.

"Now," asked Mr. Roberts, "during that two years you had considerable business with the government and with his department of the government, hadn't you?"

"Yes," answered Doheny.

"And you know as a business man that Secretary Fall would necessarily be embarrassed by knowing that that note was outstanding and might be demanded at any moment, didn't you?"

"I didn't think that he would feel embarrassed at owing me $100,000."

"You didn't think it would embarrass him to have it known publicly?"

"I was not thinking about what he might think. His embarrassment is a matter of his own thoughts."

"I am asking you what your experience tells you as a business man dealing with governmental officers. You do not know that it would be embarrassing to a governmental officer to be under an obligation to a contractor with the government?"

"I don't know whether it would or not."

Doheny admitted that no record had been made of the loan and insisted that it was a personal transaction which ordinarily would never have become public, even if entered in his accounts.

"Do not government auditors go over those accounts for income tax purposes?" asked Mr. Roberts.

"Yes," answered Doheny.

Couldn't Affect Lease.

When Doheny persisted in his contention that the loan could have had no effect upon Fall's decision in the lease negotiations, Mr. Roberts read again from the oil man's senate committee testimony, showing that at that time he admitted, "I don't think Fall im more than human, and I am perfectly willing to admit that it probably caused him to have such a feeling that he would have been willing to favor me, but under the circumstances he did not have a chance.

"I would be willing to testify to that today," asserted Doheny.

Pinned down by Mr. Roberts, Doheny admitted that he had "voluntarily" appeared before the senate committee after Fall's first story that he secured the $100,000 from E. B. McLean, the Washington publisher, was denied by McLean's testimony. Doheny also admitted that when he appeared before the committe Fall had written to the senators that he had never approached either Doheny nor H. F. Sinclair for money, saying, "nor have I ever received from either of said parties one cent on account of any oil lease or upon any other account whatsoever."

After declaring that his only interest in the Pearl Harbor Elk Hills project was a patriotic interest, "to see our boundary extended 2,000 miles farther west," and that he never examined the specifications, bids or ultimate contracts, Doheny admitted that he "blurted out" to the senate committee his expectations of a $100,000,000 or more profit from the transaction.

Saw Real Yellow Peril.

During his direct examination Doheny described the "yellow peril" which moved him to undertake the drilling and tank construction projects as a national defense measure, and turning to the jury he said emphatically, "it was a real menace, too." Robison told him, Doheny continued, that Japan had millions of barrels of fuel in storage at the time.

"It was fortunate for us that the Japanese earthquake destroyed this oil," Doheny assured the jury. The earthquake occurred in 1923, two years after the negotiations were begun.

Mrs. Doheny, a brief witness, told how Doheny had torn the Fall note in her presence and had given her the signature, warning her that it should be carefully guarded against the time Fall would repay the loan and demand the note.

Seeking Eve's Title

Nominees for the title of "Eve" in the Illinois Women's Athletic club "Garden of Eden" popularity contest passed in review yesterday in the club dining room, displaying the latest fashions. The keynote of the fashion parade was the evidence of bustles, high waistlines, molded hips, and the total absence of any suggestion of girth. The successful candidate will reign as "Eve" in the "Garden of Eden," a show which will be staged from Nov. 12 to Nov. 16.

SHUBERT THEATER STRIKE SETTLED BY WAGE DEAL

Philadelphia Accord Ends Danger Here.

The threat of a strike in the Shubert and Erlanger theaters in a number of cities, including eight houses in Chicago, was removed last night when theater managers and representatives of the musicians' union in Philadelphia reached an amicable settlement of their controversy. The settlement, it was said, would automatically end all possibility of a strike of musicians and stage hands in Chicago and other cities, which had been scheduled to start tonight.

Immediately after the signing of the new Philadelphia agreement, which will be effective until the Saturday before Labor day, 1930, Joseph N. Weber, international president of the musicians' union, was notified in Toronto, where the American Federation of Labor has just closed its convention. He said that it had been agreed that the Philadelphia musicians involved will receive $8 a day, but no pay for what he termed the "dark days."

Eight Shubert Theaters Here.

The threatened walkout of the stage hands and musicians would have involved eight Shubert theaters in Chicago. They are the Harris, the Majestic, Apollo, Woods, Great Northern, Selwyn, Princess, and Grand Opera house. It is said there are approximately 150 stage hands and about 200 musicians employed in the Shubert theaters here, and between 3,000 and 4,000 theatrical workers employed in the eighty Shubert theaters in the country.

Call to Petrillo.

The Philadelphia musicians have been on strike since Labor day and efforts to settle the dispute have proved futile. Earlyyesterday the Shuberts communicated with John J. Garrity, their Chicago representative, and requested him to persuade James Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, to hurry east and officiate as umpire in the Philadelphia dispute. The Shuberts said they were willing to accept his findings.

After declining the offer at noon yesterday, Mr. Petrillo made arrangements to make the trip to Philadelphia last evening when he received word that an agreement virtually had been reached.

START WITH TEST BORE FOR OUTER BOULEVARD SPAN

Preparing the way for the new outer drive link bridge that will span the Chicago river at its mouth, the fourth test boring was started yesterday by the Artesian Well company. Test borings for the south half of the river and the Grant park approaches to the bridge will be started next week, according to Linn White, chief engineer of the south park board.

The borings on the north side have penetrated between 110 and 112 feet beneath the earth's surface before striking limestone bed rock. The foundations for the bridge and its approaches will rest on the rock. The eight test borings between the north bank of the river and Grand avenue are expected to be finished within a month.

2 BOYS FOUND DROWNED; HUNT AUTO JAUNT PAL

The bodies of two boys, who set out in their brother's flivver a week ago to celebrate his wedding, were found in the Chicago river last night by Hudson avenue police. Police were searching for a third boy who may have been in the car with them. No trace of the automobile was found and the manner in which the boys went to their death was a mystery.

The two drowned boys were Bruno Mikolajczak, 16 years old, of 6645 Albion avenue, and his brother, Teddy, 13 years old. The boy who is hunted is John Rudecki, 17 years old, whose home is in New Buffalo, Mich.

According to Frank Mikolajczak, 25 years old, 1639 Dixon street, Bruno and Teddy left his home last Saturday shortly after his wedding dinner, with the remark that they were going to look for the Rudecki boy. Later he discovered that his car was gone and knowing that neither brother could drive, assumed that Rudecki had driven it away.

The bodies were recovered near the spot where Dolly Moore, 30 years old, 1050 Hillgrove avenue, La Grange, was killed three weeks ago when an automobile plunged down a steep embankment into the river.

BISHOP CAREY NAMED IN JOB BRIBE INQUIRY

Accused by Ex-Bailiff; Denies Charge.

Bishop Archibald Carey of the African Methodist Episcopal church, a member of the city civil service commission, is named in a confession made to Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin as the recipient of bribe money ranging from $100 to $300 on fifteen different occasions. The details of the investigation, which was being secretly conducted by the prosecutor, became public yesterday when Bishop Carey asked an audience with State's Attorney Swanson.

BISHOP CAREY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bishop Carey declared his innocence of the charges and asked to be given a hearing should the investigation reach the grand jury stage. Prosecutor Swanson told him that before the matter was taken before the jury, if it should reach that stage, he would give him an opportunity to tell his side of the story.

Accused by Ex-Bailiff.

Loyal E. McGill of the Miramar hotel, 63d street and Woodlawn avenue, former Municipal court bailiff, is the man who accuses Carey of receiving money to get jobs for applicants for civil service posts with the city.

McGill's story is that he was introduced to Bishop Carey by the late Dan Jackson, colored leader of the 2d ward. He said he became friendly with Jackson after he had obtained the withdrawal from the race for ward committeeman of a man named Harris, who was Jackson's chief opponent. Jackson then in turn introduced him to Bishop Carey and they established friendly relations, McGill said. No charge is made against Jackson or his motives in introducing the two men.

McGill said he first approached Carey with friendly requests for civil service preference for certain friends and that he was given to understand that this was possible only when the proper financial arrangements accompanied the requests.

The former bailiff in his confession relates some fifteen separate cases in which he received money and in turn gave it to Bishop Carey. Some of these payments were made as late as last month and all were within the last year, it is charged.

Bishop Issues Statement.

Bishop Carey last night issued a statement declaring his innocence.

"I never saw that man [McGill] until he was brought to my office approximately two weeks ago, nor did he ever pay me a dime. The first I knew about him was when his wife called and asked if she could see me.

"When she came to my office she said she had come about the financial arrangements that her husband had with me. I told her that I knew nothing about her husband and had no arrangement with him. She then wanted me to see him and I refused, telling her that I did not wish to have anything to do with any one who would make such false representations.

"I was advised that I had better follow this thing up, as some one might be trying to put something over on me. I had McGill brought to my office and I tried to get one of the persons who had given him money to prefer charges against him, but the person refused, saying he would have a better chance of getting his money back if McGill was out of jail. It is a confidence game pure and simple. I am absolutely innocent of any such charges."

Bishop Carey was the first man appointed to office by Mayor Thompson after the latter's election in 1927. At the time of his appointment Bishop Carey said he has known Mayor Thompson for 30 years, and helped to elect him alderman for the first time.

Mr. Taylor suffered a fracture of the skull and was taken to the Iroquois hospital and later to the Jefferson Park hospital, where his son, Dr. Ray Taylor, is a staff physician. He rallied when another son, Dr. C. Frank Taylor Jr., head of the Iowa state tuberculosis hospital, flew from Oakdale, Ia., to his father's bedside. With this improvement he was removed to the Illinois Masonic hospital, where he died after three weeks.

Mr. Taylor was president of the Windsor-Wilson Real Estate company. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

A coroner's jury yesterday held Alex Mitchell, 21 years old, 3227 South Park way, to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Bruce Uphaus, 2150 North Springfield avenue. Uphaus was fatally injured by Mitchell's automobile on Oct. 8.

Mrs. Vera Hamilton, Mishawaka, Ind., was killed, and her husband, Joseph Hamilton, and two small children were seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck and demolished by a Chicago bound Chicago, South Shore and South Bend electric train at a crossing off the Dunes highway, near Gary, yesterday.

STATE MAY RULE MEDICINE, FRANK WARNS SURGEONS

Tells Doctors to Cut Sickness.

of these forces," he said, "will be concerned at all with the effect of their program on the private practice of medicine."

Dr. Frank then proceeded to answer the question he had raised. He told the medical men that to offset the vast impending programs they must "excel the industries, insurance companies and governments in their zeal for the promotion of preventive medicine.

Must Educate People.

"Until the American people are educated out of an attitude that obliges the doctors to make the major part of their incomes from attending cases of sickness," he asserted, "our only hope of a healthier nation, unless we go bag and baggage to state medicine, lies with the unselfish doctor who will consciously reduce his income by foisting upon sick patients health advice that may keep them from falling sick again.

"If the American mind could be so changed that the average American would look to his doctor for the care of health rather than for the cure of disease, a wholly new order could be established in the world of medicine. This transformation is bound to come. If the medical profession does not display adequate sensitiveness to social values and adequate statesmanship in meeting social issues and itself lead and administer this transformation, it will inevitably be led and administered by industries, insurance companies and governments."

Plan Clinics for Injured.

The earlier sessions yesterday were given over to a symposium of traumatic surgery in which leading surgeons, heads of railroads and industries and insurance men met to discuss means of providing better care for the injured. This session was in line with the college program for a group of centralized hospitals for the care of the injured only, and it was said Chicago might be the first of a number of cities to get such an institution.

Dr. Frederic A. Beasley, chairman of the board of traumatic surgery of the college and professor of surgery at Northwestern university, leader in the movement, explained the project.

"Ordinary injuries and fractures have been neglected for a number of years," Dr. Beasley said. "As a result we have developed no technique for surgery of the injured and made few advancements. The new institutions we have in mind would be in the nature of hospitals, clinics, and teaching centers, where surgeons, graduates in medicine and surgery, and students could watch the work of the best men."

Among the many clinics held by the surgeons during the day, one at the School for Crippled Children at 1628 Washington boulevard held the most attention. The doctors gathered there for operations by outstanding specialists during the morning session.

Three Shot as Bandits Seize Pay Roll and Escape

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Three persons were wounded tonight by robbers who seized a pay roll and escaped in an automobile. Arthur J. Bryan, pay roll messenger, was shot twice in the thigh and William Stefanyk and W. Major, bystanders, were less seriously wounded.

HUSBAND, 92, DIES; WIDOW WONDERS IF SHE CAN FIND WORK

All the hardships of supporting by odd jobs her 92 year old husband and her 9 year old daughter, Gertrude, for the last eight years, were forgotten yesterday by Mrs. Frances Bergstrom, 49, in her grief over the sudden death of John Bergstrom.

In their meager home at 1520 North Paulina street, lighted by a single oil lamp, the widow, to whom work has added another 20 years in appearance, wondered wearily what would become of her family now that John was dead. The fact that her husband had been a burden for years and had at last died of old age seemed only to have augmented her devotion.

"Nenick, he's our calico cat, cried all night, and Dingdove, the pigeon, was restless. But I didn't dream that those were signs that John was dead," Mrs. Bergstrom related. "I called him this morning when I was making the fire. He didn't answer. Then I found him—dead.

"I don't know what I'll do now. I can't work as well as I once did at scrubbing and cleaning whenever I could find the work. John has been right here with me ever since he was run over by a truck at the shops where he was a stone carver. Life won't be the same, now."

John Bergstrom will have to be buried by the county, his widow said, because funds are low in the household.

BOY, TREATED BY RONGETTI, WORSE; QUIZ IS ORDERED

Dr. Amante Rongetti, once sentenced to the gallows for murder by abortion, tried again and convicted, and now at liberty awaiting a third trial, has resumed surgical practice.

As a result of his ministrations to 7 year old Karl Kraemer, 841 Gilpin place, who was bitten last Saturday by a dog, the child is now in the University hospital, suffering a malignant scalp infection, and is under observation for hydrophobia.

The dog belonged to Mrs. Florence Palumbo, 825 Gilpin place, and she agreed to pay for treatment, provided Rongetti took the case. The latter, contrary to a regulation of the health department, made no report of the dog's attack, but had the animal sent to a veterinary hospital at 1514 West Van Buren street the Maxwell police learned. He called three times on the boy, whose condition steadily grew worse.

Yesterday Earl's parents summoned Dr. Samuel J. Hoffman, who ordered the boy taken to the hospital. Rongetti had sewn three stitches in his scalp to close the infected wound from the dog's teeth.

Clyde I. Backus, assistant director of the state department of registration and education, announced he would investigate the case today. A hearing on a revocation of Rongetti's medical license is scheduled for early next month, Mr. Backus said.

6 Mexican Train Bandits to Die for 1921 Crime

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The supreme court today confirmed the death sentences on six bandits who held up and robbed a Mexico City-Laredo train in 1921, killing several members of the military escort. Eight members of the band were captured soon after the holdup but the case has dragged out for so long that two of the prisoners have meanwhile died.

4 CHARGED WITH GRANADY KILLING ARE GIVEN BOND

Four men who are named co-defendants with Lieut. Phillip Carroll and his detective bureau squad were allowed bonds of $40,000 each yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David. The men are charged with the murder of Octavius Granady, colored opponent of Morris Eller for Republican ward committeeman of the 20th ward at the April, 1928, primary.

Lieut. Carroll and his squad members were admitted to bail earlier in the week, but Judge David indicated that he would refuse bond for the co-defendants because of their records as hoodlums. The state, however, refused to put any witnesses on the stand to justify the no bail order of the grand jury and the judge said he was forced to grant bond under the circumstances.

The four men are: James Belcastro, John Armondo, Louis Clement, and Thomas Somnerio.

Finds Serum to Take Place of Blood Transfusions

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The efficacy of a new serum which takes the place of a blood transfusion was demonstrated at the Pean hospital where the life of a motorcyclist, victim of a serious accident, was saved. The serum is the discovery of a young military doctor attached to the Pasteur institute in Hanoi, Indo-China. In experiments conducted here at the Pasteur institute, the serum was injected in a dog from which most of the blood had been drained and the animal was immediately revived and took food. The motorcyclist was successfully treated after he had already lost nearly two quarts of blood when the serum was injected.

PLASTIC SURGEON AND HIS INSTITUTE ARE SUED BY GIRL

Says Treatments Periled Her Life; Asks $10,000

Miss Sarah Landman, 22 years old, a stenographer residing at 3440 16th place, yesterday filed a $10,000 malpractice suit in the Superior court against Dr. Theodore Burstein, a plastic surgeon with offices in the State-Lake building. Miss Landman charges that she almost lost her life from an infection contracted while she was undergoing treatments for enlarged pores.

Dr. Burstein, who says he is a former major in the medical department of the United States army, is head of the American Institute of Plastic and Facial Rejuvenation. The institute is manned by a staff of three doctors who solicit patients through advertising folders which picture the institute as the modern fountain of youth. The establishment has been frequently attacked by the American Medical association in a campaign against quacks.

Girl Tells of Treatments.

Miss Landman, through her attorney, Henry J. Goldberger, says that she went to the institute after receiving a folder which declared that women need no longer suffer from the blemish of enlarged pores. She was examined by Dr. Burstein, who suggested a course of electrical treatment. He prescribed two treatments a week under an electrical apparatus which was adjusted as a mask over her face, she says.

The treatments began in July and continued through September, according to Miss Landman. During that time she received approximately twenty treatments, her attorney says. Early in these applications a growth appeared on her face. Dr. Burnstein diagnosed this as a temporary reaction due to the stimulus and assured her it should disappear as the treatments progressed, Miss Landman says.

Given Narcotics, She Says.

Instead, she declares, the irritation became greater as she continued the treatments and pained greatly during the electrical application. At that time Dr. Burnstein is said to have diagnosed the growth as a pimple. Later he gave her narcotics to ease her pain, she avers. Throughout, she says, he insisted that the condition would disappear as soon as the new skin to be developed by the apparatus appeared.

Several weeks ago she became alarmed and sought the services of another physician. This doctor declared that she was being poisoned by an abscess and advised an immediate operation. The operation was performed at the Michael Reese hospital. Miss Landman declares that had she continued the treatment prescribed by Dr. Burnstein she would have lost her life.

Her suit is also brought against the institute which was recently incorporated for $20,000. The institution has been in operation for approximately five years.

Fisher Asks Elimination of Intangibles in Transit Account

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher suggested the elimination of a large sum—perhaps $13,000,000—from the capital account of the Chicago Surface Lines yesterday morning when the drafting of the transportation franchise was resumed in his office after a layoff since Aug. 15.

In the proposed ordinance for the new consolidated transit company Mr. Fisher desires a provision which will wipe out "intangible physical" property as well as the intangible value of the franchises allowed in the 1907 franchises. "Intangible physical property" is defined as property which has been discarded without corresponding decrease in the capital account.

Cable Cars Are Cited.

The best illustration of this is the old cable car tracks which were torn up and sold for scrap. So anxious were the city officials for improved transportation in 1907 that they required that electric cars be substituted at once for cable cars. A three year period was designated for rehabilitation. The city agreed that the cost of the new electric tracks and trolleys should be added to capital account during the rehabilitation period, so that the capital account contains the discarded cable tracks as well as the trolley tracks.

While no detailed survey has been made, it is roughly estimated that the "intangible physical property" totals more than $15,000,000. Of this sum a very large part is said to be tracks. The valuation of the approximately 587 miles of track, when the 1907 ordinance was passed, was $13,128,542. It has been estimated that 95 per cent of that track has been replaced, but some of it has been replaced after the three year rehabilitation period, and a proper part of that has been paid for from the renewal fund. However, the annual report of 1909 shows 1,081 miles of track, so that during the rehabilitation period there was an increase of 494 miles of tracks in addition to the rehabilitation of trackage.

Objects to Grant Value.

Another intangible to which Mr. Fisher raised a question, according to the gossip of the meeting, from which reporters were barred, was the franchise value in the capital account allowed in 1907. The valuation finally agreed upon in 1907 was an item of $3,851,456 for "organization," which is now said to represent franchise values.

The purchase price of the Surface lines, which the aldermen have agreed shall be the valuation placed in the franchise for the consolidated company, is approximately $164,000,000.

According to the reports of the discussion, which is said to have extended for nearly two hours yesterday morning, Mr. Fisher is willing that this amount be the sum at which the surface lines be permitted to consolidate with the elevated lines, but that the capital be later reduced by the agreed amount of the "intangibles." He suggested that the amount be amortized over a series of years, so that eventually the transit property will represent actual cost.

No Decision Reached.

No decision was reached by the conferees on the suggestion. If it is applied to the surface lines, probably an attempt will be made later to utilize it with reference to the elevated lines on which the agreed valuation is $95,500,000.

It is uncertain where the idea will end. The more vigorous critics of the 1907 franchises have protested against the agreement of allowing the companies 5 per cent as the cost of new money. It has been claimed by the companies that the cost has actually been much larger. Also there has been criticism of permitting a charge of 10 per cent for a contractor's profit where the companies themselves performed the construction work. This 15 per cent was agreed to in the 1907 franchises, but critics have asserted that the 15 per cent should be eliminated as not representing actual cash put into new cars, tracks and other equipment.

Amounts to $15,000,000.

This 15 per cent in the last 22 years properly totals $15,000,000, although some part of this sum is represented in the estimate of $15,000,000 in connection with "intangible physical property."

Still others have questioned the cost of paving. Under the 1907 ordinances the company was required to pave the streets between its car tracks. When those ordinances were passed the value of paving done by the companies was $1,295,673. Now this item runs $12,112,214. The paving is owned by the city. It was paid for by the companies; but certain critics assert that it should not be a part of the capital account of the companies.

The discussion yesterday morning on the elimination of "intangibles" arose when the definitions of terms to be used in the ordinance were read at the beginning of the proposed grant. It apparently was a new idea so far as the aldermen present; E. I. Frankhauser [49th] and Oscar F. Nelson [46th], and the city lawyers, John J. Drennan and E. C. Higgins, were concerned. While Ald. Frankhauser asked a number of questions the city's representatives did not take a major part in the discussion.

Harry P. Weber for the Surface lines asserted that the companies would insist upon the agreed valuation without any of the suggested deductions. Other companies' representatives talked along the same line.

U. OF C. STUDENT ENDS LIFE HE CALLS USELESS

Takes Poison in Room; Was Star Scholar.

Why a college student who apparently had no worries, who was considered a brilliant scholar and whose parents were moderately wealthy, should commit suicide was a problem at the University of Chicago yesterday when the body of William Anton Benes, 20 years old, a junior, was found in his room in Gates Hall.

A bottle of poison was found under the body, which lay face down on the bed. A caretaker had seen the body in that position Thursday morning, but did nothing till he saw it again in the same position yesterday morning. The university issued the following statement:

"No cause is known for Benes' act. He had a brilliant record as a student with an 'A minus' average for his work. His instructors in his current courses said he was doing good work and was an able student."

Had No Close Friends.

"Students in the dormitory said Benes was reserved and studious, with no close friends. He was not interested in the usual amusements, they said, and had no interest in girls.

"He went home each week-end. He had won a minor award on the wrestling team last year, and, though he had drawn a suit this season, never reported again. Benes had just started to major in mathematics, which he intended to teach, but in his first two years he had taken various science and literature courses.

"A dormitory acquaintance, Louis Schwartz, said Benes had threatened within the last week to take his life. 'Come down to my room and I'll show you something to extinguish life,' he told Schwartz earlier in the week, but Schwartz, thinking he was joking, paid no attention. Benes could talk interestingly and with authority, particularly on mathematical subjects, when he so desired, according to Schwartz."

Finds Life "Useless."

Schwartz and Benjamin Landis, another student, told the police Benes had been acting strangely and appeared to be thoughtful and absent-minded. The "uselessness of life" seemed his favorite topic, they said, and he talked of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche as philosophers of self-destruction, but, though he was well versed in philosophy, he was not a deep student of it.

"I'm tired of living," Schwartz quoted himself as saying in a joking manner to Benes.

"I guess you're right about that. What is the use of living?" Benes replied seriously, according to Schwartz, who said he replied:

"What's the use of dying? What would your parents think?"

Fermino Zancanaro of Benid, Ill., Benes' most intimate friend at the university, said he had dinner with Benes Monday evening and saw him for the last time Tuesday morning. He seemed to be in good spirits on both occasions, Zancanaro said.

Benes' parents live at 2224 South Austin boulevard, Cicero. The father, Joseph Benes, is a contractor. He and the mother said they never suspected their son was contemplating death. He was happy when he was home last Sunday, they stated, and had promised to be home after the football game today.

They said he didn't care much for social life and he did not have a sweetheart. A friend, Roy Burgess, was killed a year ago in an automobile accident and Benes seemed to be affected by his friend's death, the parents said.

An inquest will be held today.

CHEERS OF CLANS ROCK COURT IN FIGHT FOR CHILD

2 Families Seek Custody of Heiress, Aged 6.

The Bloom and Tiger clans gathered yesterday in the court of Judge John R. Prichard of Bureau county, who is assisting Probate Judge Horner of Cook county, to contest the custody of 6 year old Rosalyn Bloom, orphaned by the suicide of her mother and mysterious murder of her father. More than 100 witnesses appeared to testify in what promises to be the longest and most hotly contested case of its kind in the history of the county.

Rosalyn, who is in the first grade and can write her name, was left in the custody of her great aunt, Mrs. Louis Tiger, 2641 Ainslie street, five years ago when her mother, Katherine Bloom, committed suicide. On June 3 of this year her father, Herman Bloom, a painter, was shot and killed by mysterious assailants in front of his home at 8125 Drexel avenue.

Girl Heiress to $25,000.

Under her father's will Rosalyn was made heiress of an estate of $25,000. Her uncle, George Bloom, 7717 Phillips avenue, was declared her guardian. When Mrs. Tiger refused to give up the girl, the uncle kidnaped her early last August, it is charged. Mrs. Tiger sought a writ of habeas corpus from Superior Judge Steffen and the court battle for the child's custody opened.

Judge Steffen refused to decide the case, holding that it was in the jurisdiction of the Probate court. He awarded temporary custody of Rosalyn to Mrs. Tiger. This precipitated a fi fight between the opposing clans ou side the courtroom on Aug. 7.

Clans Cheer in Court.

Yesterday both factions came out numbers. George Bloom was suppo ed by five brothers and their familie totaling 32 witnesses. Mrs. Tiger r cruited her family and neighbors swell her supporters to more tha twice that number. Each faction fo lowed the legal battle closely, givin cheers with the zest of spectators a a football game when their side score a point in argument. They were quie ed only when Clerk Kearns threat ened to clear the courtroom.

Attorney Daniel Gombiner, repre senting the Tigers, offered to wai the inheritance for custody of Rosaly This offer was refused by Attorne Irving S. Abrams, representing th Blooms. Judge Prichard instructe the attorneys to attempt to work ou a part time sharing of the girl. It believed that this will also be fruit less, as each contestant asks that th other be sentenced for contempt o court and wishes unconditional guar dianship.

POTEL INDICTED; HE EXPECTS TO PLEAD GUILTY

William F. Potel, swindler of women, was named in five true bills charging embezzlement and forgery voted yesterday afternoon by the grand jury. The bond salesman, whose peculations ran somewhere around $500,000, will plead guilty and go direct to the penitentiary, according to information given to First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup.

"I was told that as soon as the grand jury returns the indictments voted today Potel will be turned over to the sheriff and will make a request to be taken immediately into court," Northup said. "His desire, I was informed, is to plead guilty at once and take his medicine."

M. H. Oglesby, treasurer of S. W. Straus & Co., was the chief witness against Potel.

The indictments will not be returned until Monday or possibly Tuesday.

Mrs. Potel, at home with her three daughters in the unostentatious apartment at 684 Irving Park boulevard last night, declared that she would stick by her husband to the end.

"I am utterly heartsick over the whole affair," she said. "No one knows what I have been through. I am ill and completely exhausted. But I am crazy about my husband and I shall stick with him through whatever comes. I cannot help it. That is all I have to say."

Suggests Using Old Jail to Lodge the Unemployed

A plan to utilize the old county jail at Dearborn and Illinois streets as a free lodging house and soup kitchen for the unemployed was proposed yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Henry Balaban. Mr. Balaban said he has enlisted the sympathies of several wealthy men, who agree with him that the unused building, already equipped with beds and ample kitchen facilities, should be put to some charitable use. He plans to lay his project before the city council, which now has jurisdiction over the building.

LOUVAIN GIVEN HOOVER SUPPORT IN CONTROVERSY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.] — President Hoover today hastened to the support of the Louvain university authorities in Belgium, who have been fighting the efforts of Whitney Warren, American architect, to place the inscription "destroyed by Teutonic fury, restored by American generosity" on the balustrade over the new university library.

Responding to an inquiry prompted by the decision of the Louvain court which upheld Mr. Warren's right to erect the balustrade carrying the disputed inscription, President Hoover emphatically disclaimed any approval of the architect's action. Ranging himself with the university authorities, Mr. Hoover characterized the inscription as "offensive" and said he had supported the action of the university authorities three years ago when they had refused to permit the objectionable wording to remain on the library.

TRIBUNE WRITERS FROM ENGLAND, CHINA MEET HERE

Representatives of The Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service from opposite sides of the globe met by chance yesterday in the home office.

One was Charles Dailey, far eastern representative whose base of operations for years was Peking but whose assignments carry him to many parts of the orient and who recently has been stationed in the Philippines. The other was John Steele, chief of the London office. They sat near each other at luncheon in The Tribune Tower.

It was Mr. Dailey's second visit to the United States in nearly ten years, his last visit having been in 1925, when he spent two months in the United States. Mr. Steele has spent twenty-four years in London, the last ten of them as the chief correspondent of THE TRIBUNE, but he has had four visits to this country in the last two years. This time he came over with Prime Minister MacDonald and he will return to England with the premier.

Established 1857

When CHICAGO was given its first PASTEURIZED Milk

In the early days of Chicago's history, this rapidly growing frontier city had no health department strong enough to enforce health upon the community. In those days every dairyman was the guardian of his own conscience. He enforced his own health measures.

With the gradual growth and strengthening of the City Health Department, measures to require certain standards were passed. Yet it was 1908, under Dr. W. A. Evans' administration, before milk pasteurization was required by law.

It is significant that Sidney Wanzer and Sons, established in 1857, gave Chicago its first pasteurized milk, several years before the pasteurization ordinance was passed—in fact, in the face of strong opposition from many quarters.

This was one way in which Sidney Wanzer and Sons, in growing up with Chicago, served the community well. Its reward was a steadily growing business, which is still owned and operated by the Wanzers.

Today Wanzer milk, cream, butter and eggs are available to every Chicago home, and in many suburbs. Try this fine milk for yourself. Phone Boulevard 7900 for all branches, for immediate service.

STIMSON HEADS FIVE TO ATTEND LONDON PARLEY

Dawes and Gibson Held Likely Choices.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A delegation of five, headed by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, will represent the United States at the London conference on reduction of naval armament.

President Hoover continued conferences today on the personnel of the delegation, but has got no further, up to date, than the selection of Mr. Stimson, who, it has been known for a fortnight, would be the chief envoy. The President expects to announce the completed delegation in about ten days.

Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, is generally believed certain of choice to a place on the delegation. Whether Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, who headed the American delegation to the Coolidge conference at Geneva in 1927, is named a member, is said to depend on the state of his health, which is impaired.

Hale, Swanson Considered.

The senate is to be represented probably by two senators, a Republican and a Democrat. The two figuring most prominently in the speculation are Fred Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, and Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], ranking minority member of both the naval affairs and foreign relations committees.

As has become customary in such negotiations since Woodrow Wilson's costly mistake of ignoring the senate in negotiating the world war peace treaty, representation is to be accorded that body on the delegation with an eye to the ratification of any navy reduction agreement reached at the London conference. The advice of the senators as to what the senate would and would not be likely to approve will be of value to Mr. Stimson and after the championship for the agreement by the senatorial delegates will aid materially in procuring ratification.

Naval Officers Barred.

There will be no naval officers in the membership of the delegation. They are to be relegated to a strictly advisory status. Naval officers have been under a cloud ever since the Hoover administration addressed itself to the question of another navy limitation conference. Admirals were members of both the American and British delegations at the ill-fated Geneva conference of 1927 and have been widely blamed for the failure of that attempt at further navy limitation.

Ambassador Dawes, voicing the attitude of the Hoover administration, put the admirals in their places when he explained in London that their chief value is as expert advisers to the statesmen charged with the responsibility of negotiating an agreement.

The American advisory commission will be headed by Admiral William V. Pratt, commander of the United States fleet, and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired. Ambassador Gibson and Admiral Jones composed the American delegation at the Geneva conference.

In selecting Admiral Pratt to head the advisory commission the President has passed over the members of the general board of the navy, the repository of expert naval opinion, including its chairman, Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long, who is senior in service to Admiral Pratt. This circumstance is particularly interesting in view of the gossip in naval circles that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson have encountered considerable opposition among members of the general board to the concessions being made to the British in the negotiations for a basis of parity between the American and British navies.

Long for Tonnage Basis.

Admiral Long headed the commission of naval advisers at the Geneva conference. He holds to the belief that tonnage is the most satisfactory yardstick for measuring navies. At Geneva he contended for right of the United States to build as many big cruisers as it might require within the tonnage limitation agreed upon, a position abandoned by the Hoover administration, which has consented to the British proposal of limiting the number of big cruisers.

Admiral Jones is the author of the Hoover yardstick proposal, being the inventor of a yardstick to measure the power of ships, varying in size, age, speed, and armament. Admiral Pratt was a member of the advisory technical staff at the Washington conference of 1921-'22. He is one of the best informed men in the navy, not only on technical questions but on all aspects of modern sea power.

Japan Backs Hoover.

The Japanese acceptance of the invitation to the London conference, the text of which was made public today, is unconditional. The Japanese government squarely aligns itself with President Hoover in his plea for not only a further limitation but a reduction of naval armament.

The government of Japan, says the reply, desires to give assurance of "their cordial support to the principle that the treaty for the renunciation of war, signed at Paris in 1928, should be taken as the starting point for all discussions on disarmament. They feel confident that the sense of national security inspired by the provision of that treaty in the mutual relations of the contracting powers will pave the way for the final settlement of the outstanding questions relative to naval disarmament.

"In conclusion, I am instructed to express the sincere and earnest hope of the Japanese government that the conference will succeed in the adoption of plans calculated to promote international peace and good will, and to relieve humanity of the heavy burden of armament, whether existing or contemplated. It is not merely the limitations but also the reduction of armament that all nations should seek to attain."

MAC DONALD'S VISIT WORTH 40 YEARS OF DIPLOMACY—BUTLER

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, told the Institute of International Law tonight that President Hoover and Premier MacDonald in their recent conferences did more toward furthering an understanding between their nations than could have been accomplished by forty years of diplomatic procedure.

Their conference, he said, indicated the final breaking down of the old order of war and conflict and the clearing of the last stumbling block from the path of a "world that turns from war to peace."

"Ramsay MacDonald and Hoover at Washington have done the business for which the world was waiting with bated breath," the educator said. "Public opinion will do the rest."

MacDONALD MAY RETIRE? REPORT SHOCKS LONDON

Premier Says He's Tired, but Will "Carry On."

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Labor party circles were thrown into a commotion this afternoon by reports from Ottawa that Prime Minister MacDonald was contemplating an early retirement from public life.

These reports, however, were discredited by Mr. MacDonald's political associates, who said they were based on a misunderstanding of a stray remark in Mr. MacDonald's speech that he would soon leave matters in other hands. This merely means, they said, that he will leave them to be carried on through diplomatic channels.

London newspapers called Mr. MacDonald on the trans-Atlantic phone this afternoon and received assurance from his steward, J. Ruggles, that Mr. MacDonald had no thought of retirement. The message said the prime minister was well, but tired.

Son Discounts Report.

When the remark attributed to the prime minister was repeated to his son, Alister MacDonald, the latter said:

"It is extremely unlikely that the remark means he is going to retire."

Despite these denials, however, there appears to be an under-current of belief in London tonight that Mr. MacDonald's retirement may be contemplated. The extreme strain and fatigue that he has undergone since his arrival in America has been emphasized here, and it is pointed out that while he has an extremely tough constitution physically, the fatigue tells on him heavily.

Mr. MacDonald's phone message today said:

"Any reports from which inferences have been drawn that the prime minister proposes to resign or retire on account of his health when he returns to England may be firmly contradicted. There is no truth whatsoever in the suggestion that health or any other reasons have caused him to consider retirement."

Another Busy Day.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 18.—Another busy day for Prime Minister MacDonald began at seven o'clock this morning. From that early hour until nearly midnight the official program of the distinguished visitor was a strenuous one. He visited the National gallery in company with Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada, he lunched with Richard B. Bennett at the country club, and made a speech there; he was sworn a member of the privy council of Canada, an honor likewise conferred two years ago upon the prince of Wales; he visited the cabinet council chamber, and enjoyed another intimate chat with Premier King; he took tea with William Phillips, United States minister, and tonight he and his party dined as guests of Gov. Gen. and Viscountess Willingdon at government house.

A. F. OF L. ADOPTS BIG PROGRAM AND CLOSES SESSION

Goes Forth to Battle Use of Injunction.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Organized labor's views on a vast variety of issues of general and trade import were registered today at the concluding session of the American Federation of Labor's annual convention. It was well into the night when William Green, president, pronounced his benediction in adjournment, urging his auditors to center fire against use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Opposition to committee proposals on the injunction issue, though bitterly pressed in two days of debate, recorded almost no strength in the voting, and the federation was committed to willingness to see the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws repealed or amended and to the advocacy before congress of a measure limiting power of federal judges to issue restraining orders or injunctions in labor disputes.

Clash on Tariff.

The sharpest clash of the day was occasioned by a committee proposal to arm the executive council with authority to state trade union views on tariff matters. This roused Andrew Furuseth, seaman's union president, to declare himself "astounded at such a resolution," and to charge the executive council with "arming the most reactionary members of the United States" with tariff arguments.

Amidst much discussion but without a negative vote, the convention deplored the formation of the "so-called Catholic union in Quebec in opposition to the regular trades union movement of Canada and the United States," affirmed that "the unfortunate situation is serving to place the local church leaders in a position antagonistic to the general trades union movement," but specifically held that the Quebec church leaders did "not reflect the attitude of the Catholic church in general" in the matter.

Ask Capital Punishment Probe.

The executive council was instructed to seek for the "workers of Quebec the right to freely join trade unions connected with the federation."

Without dissent, the convention asked its executive council to investigate the merits of capital punishment, and indorsed proposals to have President Hoover summon a conference on Porto Rican affairs, and favoring reorganization of insular governments, with special reference to the Virgin islands.

The convention voted to keep the A. F. of L. outside of the international labor office of Geneva, which is a league of nations division. It empowered the executive council, however, to set up direct negotiations and interchange delegates with German trades unions if this seemed desirable, and it accepted a resolutions committee recommendation that the Pan-American Federation of Labor be counseled to set up a hemispheric labor central body for the Americas, with a similar assembly contemplated for European unions.

Czech Judge to Die for "Mercy" Killing of Wife

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Criminal court at Iglau today sentenced Judge Josef Odenhal to death for the murder of his wife. Judge Odenhal said in his defense that he had done it to shorten his wife's sufferings.

FRANCE MOVES TO STAMP OUT REDS; 60 INDICTED

Government Charges Plot Endangering Nation.

BY HENRY WALE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 18.—With dramatic suddenness, the government acted tonight to stamp out the last vestige of the French communist party. On the request of the government, the court indicted sixty Red party leaders, charged with plotting against the exterior security of the state. Most of them probably will be arrested within the next twenty-four hours.

This swift action came as a sequel to the recent move when the government indicted 100 French bolshevik leaders on grounds of plotting against the interior security of the state as the result of an abortive attempt to stage an uprising on Aug. 1.

An Unusual Charge.

The peculiar thing about today's indictments is the fact that they are based on the unusual charge of plotting against the exterior safety of the state. The ordinary charge against agitators is that of working against the "interior" safety of the nation.

This extraordinary move follows the recent events at the soviet embassy here which culminated in the acting chargé d'affaires, Comrade Bessedovsky, fleeing with a Russian secret police agent brandishing a revolver after him. Bessedovsky, it is understood, told the French police many interesting things about how the soviet embassy is linked up with the French communist party and how Moscow is directing the revolutionary movement here.

Embassy Under Surveillance.

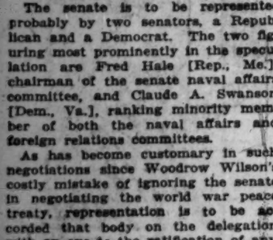
Certain French comrades who were recently kicked out of the party because Dictator Stalin of Russia thought they were getting a bit pink, are said to have corroborated Bessedovsky's evidence.

Close watch has been kept on the embassy and the movements of its officials. Last week, it is learned, certain Russian documents which might have been of an incriminating nature, were shipped to Berlin.

It is reported by the police that they have sufficient evidence to show, among other things, that the soviets have been hiring Red brothers here to provoke certain diplomatic incidents which would have proved unpleasant to France.

Two Policemen Suspended for Attempting Robbery

Two policemen, George Gorman and Paul Gholson, assigned to the Town Hall station, were suspended yesterday following charges preferred against them by Charles Saunder, 2253 Leland avenue, a driver employed by the Quinby Bell Conrad company, 417 West Ohio street. Saunder picked both patrolmen from a group and identified them as the men who had held him up and demanded five pounds of coffee.



Cheering news!

The proverbially reasonable prices of our Rogers Peet clothes are more reasonable than ever this Fall, with sack suits from $40 to $85 and topcoats starting at $35.

4-piece sports suits, from $50;

Tuxedos, $50 up;

Full dress, $60 up.

Need we add that though prices are less, there's been no diminution of Rogers Peet's quality in fabrics, style, fit and workmanship?

Or that our hats, shoes and furnishings are equally pleasing in their entirety?

For this afternoon's game: camel's hair coats, wool socks, Fall gloves and Scotch Mist* topcoats.

CHINESE TROOPS MUTINY; YANKEE RESIDENTS FLEE

British, Japanese Ships Save Foreign Dwellers.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18.—Japanese and British gunboats furnished sanctuary for foreign residents of Wuhu today when troops mutinied against Nanking and fought loyal forces for seven hours. The Yangtse city is only 120 miles from Nanking, which brings a new problem to the central government, which was not anticipating trouble so close to home.

Fifteen Americans reside at Wuhu. All but three missionaries who refused to leave sought safety on the British gunboat Cricket, which also took aboard other foreigners, except sixty-eight Japanese, who boarded two Japanese gunboats anchored there.

Troops Demand Bribe.

The mutiny began at 3 o'clock this morning following prolonged negotiations between the troops and the Chinese chamber of commerce over the price to prevent looting. The chamber met the first demands and paid $60,000 silver, whereupon the troops demanded an extra $100,000.

These forces are a part of Fang Chenwu's army, Fang Chenwu being now a prisoner at Nanking following the investigation of the Chiang Kai Shi assassination plot.

There is no American gunboat at Wuhu and it is not planned to send any, for the outbreak shows no evidence of being against foreigners. The mutineers seemingly did not resent a Japanese landing party sent to protect the consulate. A third Japanese and a second British gunboat are steaming to Wuhu.

See End of Civil War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18.—With a report from a reliable foreign source in Peiping confirming the Nanking announcement of Gen. Yen Hsi-shan's decision to cooperate with the central government in suppressing the rebel Kuominchun militarists, hopes for an early termination of the northwest civil war have increased.

Gen. Yen demanded of the rebel Kuominchun leaders that they disband their forces and apologize to Nanking. In turn Gen. Yen guarantees to secure nullification by the central government of the punitive campaign order.

In case of a refusal to comply with this request, Gen. Yen is prepared to lead a northern army from Shansi for the subjugation of the belligerents in Honan. Gen. Yen's decision is reported to have had a sobering effect on the Kuominchun general.

German Mediation Fails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 18. — Moscow has sent a flat refusal to Germany in reply to Germany's invitation for an exchange of prisoners-made in the Manchurian border fighting with China. The note was sent on Oct. 10. In her reply Russia asserts that the Chinese government's lack of good faith made an exchange impossible at present. China had previously agreed to the German suggestion.

CURB TAX WASTE TO EASE BURDEN, MALONE ADVISES

Says Personalty System Penalizes Realty.

Real estate can be relieved of its heavy burden of taxes only through curbing riotous spending by governmental agencies, Chairman William H. Malone of the state tax commission declared yesterday before the Chicago Real Estate board. He urged a more equitable distribution of the tax burden by tapping sources of revenue which he said now evade taxation under the personal property tax system.

"No fair minded person denies that real estate is paying more than its share toward the cost of government," Chairman Malone said. "But, regardless of what changes are made in the tax laws of our state, we will always have some form of a real property tax. Thus it becomes doubly necessary that uniformity in the assessment of real estate prevail.

"In the reassessment I believe we have come as close to uniformity as is humanly possible. The game preserve of an army of racketeers and tax fixers has been destroyed. It is to be expected that those who profited under the old order would not be pleased.

Urges Watch on Tax Spenders.

"While the reassessment brought relief to many there is a crying need for economy among our 418 tax spending bodies. I believe we have cleaned up the tax assessment branch of the county's government. Now is the time to watch the tax spending bodies so that we may get somewhere near a dollar's worth of benefit for every dollar spent.

"Padded pay rolls, waste, and extravagance must be abolished. This is a certain way to tax reduction and tax relief. If our municipal government had been administered with economy and efficiency there would be a comfortable reserve in the treasury and no need for the many schemes and devices to tide over tax spenders until new tax money offers additional opportunity for squandering.

"The public is getting tired of digging down in its pocket for more taxing districts out of their difficulties. More supervision, more watchfulness, on the part of the taxpaying public will eliminate the necessity for tax anticipation warrants and riotous living and spending such as uncovered in the sanitary district."

"Can't Enforce Personalty Tax."

Mr. Malone declared that it is absurd to attempt to enforce the present personal property taxing system. He is conducting an analysis of the situation by tax experts for the purpose of making recommendations for a change in present laws to relieve the tax burden on real estate.

Permission was granted by Chairman Malone to the board of review to conduct hearings on complaints against the reassessment by Rogers Park property owners under the old forms of complaint and record any reasons for adjustment on the new forms when these are completed.

The permission was granted to speed up the work of tax collection, as each day of delay is costing tax spending agencies $30,000 in interest charges. Hearings before the board will open on Monday. There are 554 complaints from this area on file. As many of these are not signed, Chairman Malone holds they should not be considered valid complaints.

JUSTICES OF PEACE IGNORE TAX EDICT, PROSECUTORS LEARN

Justices of the peace in the country towns of Cook county are continuing their efforts to collect personal property taxes in small amounts despite the announcement a month ago by State's Attorney Swanson that he would not sue in the country towns for amounts on which suits would not be brought in Chicago.

This was admitted yesterday in the prosecutor's office. It was said several of the justices did not respond to letters telling them to return to Swanson's office all bills under $10 and to come in and discuss the question of their fees with the prosecutor.

The practice of turning over delinquent tax bills to the justices for collection is an old one, assistant prosecutors said. They pointed out that it enables the justices to collect large amounts in fees each year.

Several of the notices sent out by the justices were displayed at Mr. Swanson's office and it was admitted that the bills are not what they purport to be—notices that suit has been filed. They are merely letters written in legal form and often deceive the recipient into believing that the suit has been filed, the prosecutor said.

50 LEGIONNAIRES SLAIN BY MOORS IN DESERT BATTLE

Wild Tribesmen Swoop Down from Mountains.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Moorish tribesmen have swooped down from the southern slopes of the Atlas mountains on a new raid against French troops.

Dispatches from Oran, Algeria, today said that fifty soldiers of the Foreign Legion and a Senegalese company had been killed in a pitched battle with raiders from the Tafilelt area, one of the most active dissident regions in northwest Africa.

The battle lasted several hours, with heavy casualties on the side of the tribesmen, who were driven off by the advance of a supporting column of the Legion.

Airplane Gives Warning.

A French airplane witnessed the beginning of the fight and went for reinforcements. French military authorities tonight attempted to locate and cut off the tribesmen before they could reach the safety of their mountain strongholds.

The fighting was the second worst struggle of the year. Eighty French soldiers were killed when a French column out for supplies was attacked at Ait Yacoub a few months ago.

Pressure is now being brought to bear on the ministry of war to launch the long talked of offensive against the dissident tribesmen, for which preparations have been made on a large scale.

Many Troops Needed.

This military operation has been studied by war ministry experts for several years, but since it would require the expenditure of millions of francs and a heavy concentration of troops, the ministry always has hesitated to undertake it.

It is estimated that at least six divisions of infantry, many batteries of artillery and a score of airplanes would be needed for such a "mopping up" campaign, which would be on the same scale as the expedition against Abd-El-Krim in the Riff.

Minister of War Painleve will make a statement on the subject when parliament meets next week.

JUDGE SAMUELL, NEW STATE SUPREME COURT JUSTICE, STARTS DUTIES

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Judge Paul Samuell of Jacksonville assumed his duties on the Illinois Supreme court bench today, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Cyrus Deitz of Moline. Judge Samuell was appointed by Gov. Emmerson. The unexpired term extends until next June, when a justice will be elected for a period of nine years.

Judge Samuell is a member of the law firm of Belatti, Samuell and Moriarity of Jacksonville. He was born in Mason county in 1886. He is a member of the Republican state central committee from the twentieth congressional district, which place he will resign. His successor as committee member will be elected next April.

Bandits Pose as Police; Take $1,928 in Holdup

Three highwaymen who posed as policemen were being sought by police last night after they had robbed Morris Weise, 26 years old, 3315 15th street, of $1,928 in cash and checks. Weise, a bookkeeper for the K. Handlesman department store at 1148 Chicago avenue, was riding to the Liberty Trust and Savings bank at Roosevelt road and Kedzie avenue in an automobile driven by William Gold, 3806 North Sawyer avenue. Near Chicago and Hoyne avenues, the bandit car pulled up beside Gold's and one of them displayed a star and forced Gold to pull to the curb.

GYPSY BARON

The New FLANUL FELT For Fall

From the provinces of Austria comes the muse to guide the hand of one of America's foremost hat geniuses in the creation of the Gypsy Baron, the new Flanul Felt Hat for Fall and Winter. It is an original creation, that will definitely influence the next headwear style cycle. It is a veritable paradox...gay as a Gypsy...dignified as a Baron. The crown is almost square. The brim is wider with a pronounced roll. The band is wide and is a shade lighter in color than the hat. The binding is thin and graceful and matches the band. Gypsy Baron is a sophisticated hat with a distinctive Continental flair that will grace smartly the head of any well dressed man. The hats run the gamut of colors for the season ...nine shades in all...to complete correctly any sartorial ensemble.

200 PLANES TO HELP DEDICATE CURTISS AIRPORT

Plans Completed for the Event Tomorrow.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Scores of workmen were busy yesterday giving the new Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview a vigorous brushing up in preparation for the aerial carnival which will mark the formal opening of the $8,000,000 air terminal, the largest in the middle west, tomorrow.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the mid-western activities of Curtiss Flying service, stated last night that 200 airplanes were expected to be here to take part in the sky show. Planes ranging in size from the small training planes to the large multi-motored transports will present a three-hour sky show for the crowd.

Tour Planes to Arrive.

The major event on the program will be the arrival here of the 26 planes flying in the national reliability tour which started from Detroit on Oct. 6 and since has visited a score of cities. The planes will be on their last lap when they reach Chicago, for the tour ends Monday in Detroit. The planes flying in the annual testing journey reached St. Paul, Minn., last night after a flight from Cedar Rapids. They will fly to Wausau and Milwaukee, Wis., today and Sunday will hop here from Moline, arriving at Curtiss field about 5 o'clock.

The advance ship of the tour, a fleet white Fairchild open plane, flew into Curtiss airport late last evening from Moline. The advance agents, Robert H. Reakirt and R. R. Blythe, came here to confer with Maj. Schroeder on plans for the reception of the air tourists.

Sunday's show will be the first large air exhibit held in Chicago since 1911, and some of the feats performed by the early birds who took part in the first show will be reenacted at the Curtiss opening. A replica of the old Curtiss "pusher," first put through its paces by Lincoln Beachey in the 1911 show, will be flown by John Livingston, Aurora pilot.

Naval Planes to Fly.

Service ships from the squadron at the Great Lakes naval training station will fly in formation. There will be stunts by commercial flyers, short races, parachute jumping, and an old time balloon ascension.

Society is showing great interest in the opening of the airport. Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are expected to attend, and the John J. Mitchells have invited them to be their house guests over the week-end.

The new airport is located a mile north of Glenview on Waukegan road and may be reached from Chicago by following Sheridan road into Wilmette and Lake avenue to Waukegan road. Waukegan road leads to the motor entrance to the airport.

Aviation Notes

Rumors that an agreement between officials of Universal Air Lines and Western Air Express, who meet today in Kansas City, will bring about an all plane 30 hour air passenger service between New York and Los Angeles via Chicago, developed yesterday at a meeting of the American Air Transport association in the Palmer house. Arrangements for the hook-up, it was said, would be completed today and the service will probably be opened this fall. The new Fokker four motored 32 passenger ship is expected to be used in the service. Western Air Express now operates between Los Angeles and Kansas City, and Universal flies passengers from Cleveland to Kansas City and Garden City, Kas.

Half of the mail cargo of a westbound Boeing mail plane was saved from destruction by fire yesterday by the quick action of C. V. Pickup, pilot of the plane. Pickup was flying over Elm Creek, Neb., when he noticed a leaking fuel line. He aimed for an emergency landing field and was within 150 feet of the ground when the plane caught fire. He circled the field and landed quickly. Half of the cargo was destroyed. Pickup was uninjured and there were no other passengers. A relief plane was flown from Omaha to pick up the mail which the pilot saved.

"Chicago's airport is a transportation mess. The city has the worst airport of any major city and the most carelessly managed. There is no passenger station and no hope of one. Planes with passengers circle the field as long as twenty minutes awaiting for student flyers to get out of the way." This was the declaration made yesterday by William B. Stout of the Stout Air Lines, designer of the Ford plane, who addressed members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce at the Palmer house. Mr. Stout predicted that 65 per cent of the travelers who now use the Pullman trains will soon use the airplane. He stated that 100,000 privately owned aircraft will be flown within the next ten years.

Several Chicagoans Picked for State Art Advisers

The appointment of eight members of the state board of art advisors, known as the Illinois art commission, was announced yesterday by Gov. Emmerson. The board's duties are to see that monuments and other structures erected on state land or in parks under the control of the state are of high artistic value. While the board has no veto power, it can voice a protest and offer criticism of public art work.

The personnel of the board follows: Thomas E. Tallmadge, Chicago, architect and president of the Evanston art commission; Lorado Taft of Chicago, sculptor; Edwin H. Clark, Winnetka, architect, designer of zoological gardens and buildings in Lincoln park; Rexford Newcomb, professor of architectural history at the University of Illinois; Albin Polasek, Chicago, sculptor and teacher of sculpture at the Art institute; John W. Norton, Chicago, painter; Otto Shaffer, Urbana, landscape architect and professor at the University of Illinois; Walter S. Brewster, Chicago, trustee of the Art institute and collector of rare books and etchings.

DEDICATE GROVE, PLACE TABLET TO HONOR WALLACE

Ames, Ia., Oct. 18.—(AP)—On a bowlder near a grove of hard maple trees on the Iowa State college campus was placed today a bronze tablet commemorating the life and service of Henry C. Wallace to American agriculture.

Ceremonies dedicating the grove and the bowlder to the memory of the Iowan who served as secretary of agriculture under Presidents Harding and Coolidge from 1921 to 1924, were held at the college where Wallace first was student and then professor, under the auspices of the American Country Life association.

Gathered to honor Wallace's life and pay respects to his memory were leaders in all phases of agriculture, headed by Frank O. Lowden, president of the association, and numbering hundreds of persons assembled here for the country life conference.

Voicing the sentiment which prompted placing of the memorial, Dr. Henry C. Taylor of Burlington, Vt., former head of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, said the example of Wallace "quickens our lives to greater service for mankind."

Dr. C. W. Pugsley, president of the South Dakota Agricultural college and assistant secretary of agriculture under Wallace, credited the inception of the current farm relief movement to the Iowan.

HELD FOR HERRIN DISORDERS.

Gulfport, Miss., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A man known here as Fred Randall and said by New Orleans authorities to fit the description of Connie Ritter, wanted in Benton county, Illinois, in connection with the Herrin disorders, was arrested today and held for identification by Illinois officers. Randall was under bond awaiting jury action for robbery.

Two Farmers Killed by Bolts of Lightning

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Late fall lightning storms in the northwest today killed two men and injured two other persons.

Reuben Dehne, 30, farmer, living north of Holloway, Minn., was struck by lightning while he was plowing near his home. Four plow horses also were killed.

Herman Johnson, 43, farmer, living near Grand Forks, N. D., was riding on a load of hay when a bolt fatally injured him.

FRANCE ACCEPTS ITALIAN BID TO PRIVATE PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 18.—France today accepted Italy's invitation to preliminary conversations to be held between now and the opening of the five power naval conference at London in January.

It is understood that negotiations will begin immediately, although it is not considered that there is any chance that the Italians will succeed in winning France to their viewpoint of parity between the two nations. If Italy persists in making equality of navies a basis for the conversations, France will abruptly break them off, but there is a feeling here that if the question of parity can be relegated to the sidelines, the two Latin nations might be able to develop a common front upon several points to combat the Anglo-American thesis.

They probably will reach an agreement to demand the question of abolishing the submarine be kept off the conference agenda.

AUSTIN-KINZIE HIGHWAY MADE STATE AID ROAD

500 West Side Citizens Indorse Project.

Chicago supporters of the proposed Austin-Kinzie superhighway to the city limits at Austin boulevard, considered the long discussed elevated boulevard a step nearer yesterday when the Illinois highway commission at Springfield approved it as a state aid project. The highway is one of three west side elevated boulevards which have been recommended by the west side committee of the Chicago plan commission. Its cost will be approximately $22,000,000.

Recently the west park board ordered that a $20,000,000 bond issue proposition for the project be placed on the ballot for the Nov. 5 election. Designation of the highway as a state aid route will make available $2,000,000 of state funds for its construction, according to Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of the west park board.

Action Called Encouraging.

Dr. Robertson referred to the state commission's action as "most encouraging" at a meeting of 500 citizens in the Austin town hall last night.

"All that is necessary now to make this great improvement a reality is the approval of our bond issue by the voters on Nov. 5," he said. The meeting voted an indorsement of the superhighway project.

Several civic organizations of the west side have also gone on record for the highway, which will eliminate 13 cross streets between the west city limits and Clinton street. At least 80,000 automobiles a day will be taken off west side surface streets, leaving those streets for local traffic, upon completion of the superhighway, according to Dr. Robertson.

Suggests Circular Terminal.

A circular traffic terminal at the eastern end of the proposed Monroe street super-highway would allow a continuous flow of automobiles without control by automatic signals, Hugh E. Young, engineer of the Chicago Plan commission, declared yesterday. The Monroe street elevated road is another of the three superhighways recommended by the plan commission's subcommittee. The third is proposed for Polk street.

Eastbound traffic in Monroe street, according to Mr. Young's plan, could be dispersed from the upper level to an elevated Clinton street to detour north and south around the loop. It could also be shunted on to Canal street. Ramps to the lower level would be provided also, and traffic into the loop would follow Wacker drive or Monroe street.

The recommendation of the subcommittee has not been acted upon by the executive board of the plan commission or by the commission as a whole.

IRISH LEADERS IN CITY TODAY; PLAN WELCOME

Nearly 100 leading Irish-American citizens, as well as officials of the city and county, will welcome three Irish visitors today at a luncheon of the Irish Fellowship club in the La Salle hotel.

The visitors, Desmond Fitzgerald, minister for defense of the Irish Free State, Dr. T. O'Higgins, member of the Irish parliament, and Prof. Liam Burke, representative of the Irish Free State good will mission, will arrive at 9:40 on the Century.

Mr. Fitzgerald, who was a member of the party which accompanied President William Cosgrave to Chicago will speak on the progress of Ireland under the new regime. Robert E. Crowe, president of the club, will preside.

Court Orders Sanity Test for Husband and Wife

Sanity tests were ordered yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, 9914 Prospect avenue, when they appeared before Municipal Judge Herbert M. Immenhausen in Grand Crossing court, on disorderly charges preferred by Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Agnes McGrew, 73 years old. Mrs. McGrew, who is said to be the widow of a Colorado gold mine owner, told of being held against her wishes in the Smith home.

HELD UP

MRS. HUGO FISCHER.
[J. D. Toloff Photo.]

Jewel thieves who have been active on the north shore for the last month failed yesterday in a daring attempt to rob Mrs. Hugo T. Fischer, 1104 Brummel street, Evanston, as she was returning home from the Evanston High school, where she had just left her daughter, Jean.

At Howard street and Dodge avenue four men in a touring car forced her automobile to the curb and three of them searched Mrs. Fischer and her automobile. When their search revealed no jewelry they drove away with the threat, "We'll get you the next time."

Mrs. Fischer told Evanston police that she usually wore her jewelry in the morning while driving her daughter to school and police believed the bandits had followed her for several mornings planning the robbery. They made no effort to take her purse, which contained a small amount of money.

Mr. Fischer is head of the H. T. Fischer company, 3314 Wabansia avenue, manufacturers of electrical supplies.

Fashion Notes from the Book of The Clever Saturday Shopper

Satin rises in importance—it fashions the more formal hats. Bows are used frequently to give flattering softness of line. The circular theme dominates many of the smartest new frocks. Materials are combined in a variety of daring ways. Knitted fabrics follow the lead of tweeds in color and design. The tuck-in blouse continues to be as popular as its influence.

This Junia Hat Combines Two Fashions, $10

Satin is used for the fabric to assure this hat a leading place among the moment's chic models. Sleekly draped about the head, it is finished with a soft bow that gives it graceful length of line in back. Of course, it is black, one of the smartest Fall colors.

Fifth Floor, North, State.

Circular Jabot And Circular Tiers

When a dress starts out to be circular in any one particular these days, it is very apt to continue, such a flattering mode is this one of graceful fullness. Here a Moderate Price frock of Georgette uses tiers in its skirt, each one with circular fullness at the sides—and, not content with that, adds a circular jabot to its blouse. Brown, green, navy, and black. Sizes 16 years to "42."

$17.50

Fourth Floor, Wabash.

Jersey and Satin Now Combine

Extremes are meeting these days and forming smart alliances, as this new Sports frock illustrates. Jersey in black, brown, green, wine or navy has a deep neckline in front which has been bound with matching satin. And then it has added a light satin vestee whose collar finishes in one of those chic bows which we've just been talking about above.

$27.50

Fourth Floor, South, State.

Warm Colors And Gay Patterns

These are the new knitted suits that take their cue from the popular tweeds which they emulate in weave, color combinations and smart tailoring. They add distinctive notes of their own—the amusing fish that decorate the sweater blouse of this suit and the embroidery on blouse and coat. Purple, green, wine, blue, brown. Sizes 14 years to "42."

$19.50

Fourth Floor, East.

Two-Piece Now Has Another Meaning

It now concerns the costume whose popularity continues to increase—the separate skirt and tuck-in blouse. Here a neatly tailored skirt of covert cloth is pleated from a yoke top. In navy, green, black, wine, tan, brown. $6. A blouse of broadcloth to wear with it, in tan, blue or white, has neat little bindings. Sizes from 34 years to "40." $2.25.

PAID BY THOSE TARIFF AIDS, IS ON U. S. PAY ROLL

Sen. Bingham's Expert Grilled in Lobby Quiz.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Charles L. Eyanson, assistant to the president of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, felt the scorching fire of the senatorial lobby inquisitors today for three hours. Whether he actually was representing his association while on the government payroll as a secretary to Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], during the framing of the tariff bill, was the question which most interested the committee members.

Mr. Eyanson, although admitting that he was drawing salary from his association and turning over to another clerk his government pay, insisted that he was during that period working for Senator Bingham and was not acting for Connecticut manufacturers.

Brought Out by Walsh.

Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], who conducted most of the cross examination, sought to show from letters taken from the files of the association that its officers and members considered Mr. Eyanson as their representative.

It was brought out by Senator Walsh that E. K. Hubbard, president of the association, in a letter to Mr. Eyanson on July 19, asserted that "undoubtedly the results which you have accomplished are far-reaching and will bear fruit for some time to come." Mr. Hubbard said that "you have done a great deal more than we ever bargained for." Mr. Eyanson at this time had been with Senator Bingham for about five weeks while tariff hearings before the senate finance committee were in progress.

Lend Its Expert.

Senator Walsh also developed the fact that after Senator Bingham had requested the association to loan one of its experts to him, Mr. Hubbard had written to its members requesting their views on the proposal. Ernest S. Davis of Portland, Conn., in reply to this letter said that he could see "nothing but good by having a representative in the office of Senator Bingham." Mr. Davis said it would be "worth whatever it costs."

Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] wanted to know if Mr. Eyanson did not think it was an irregular transaction when he was sworn in as clerk of the senate committee on territories and insular possessions and yet performed no services in connection with the work of that committee.

Mr. Eyanson said it was his understanding that his appointment made him subject to the orders of Senator Bingham, chairman of that committee, and that it was not necessary that he actually attend to work of that committee.

YALE ALUMNI FETE HUTCHINS, U. OF C. PRESIDENT

Yale alumni in Chicago honored their most distinguished member last night in a banquet tendered to Robert Maynard Hutchins, '21, president of the University of Chicago. About 300 were present at the dinner in the Blackstone hotel.

There were no speeches save for a short acknowledgment from Mr. Hutchins, and the affair was entirely informal, according to Fred A. Preston, '06, of the committee in charge. John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, designed the menu, which was faced by a scene depicting gray-bearded men in evening clothes applauding a youthful figure, a caricature of Hutchins, dressed in juvenile formal clothes and wearing a flowing Little Lord Fauntleroy tie. On a wall in the background are scenes from the lives of world geniuses who gained fame in their youth.

Among those at the dinner were the Rev. James G. K. McClure, '70; Alonzo Stagg, '43; Thomas E. Donnelley, '89; Roswell B. Mason, '95; James L. Houghteling, '04; William McCormick Blair, '07; Edward L. Ryerson, '08; John R. Wintherbotham Jr., '12; and Richard Bentley, '17, president of the Chicago alumni. The officers and trustees of the University of Chicago were special guests.

Latvian General Strike Fails; 150 Socialists Seized

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 18.—One hundred and fifty Socialists, including five members of parliament, were arrested during today's general strike called by the Socialists to protest against the government's decision to remove sick benefit societies from their control. The strike was a failure, eighty per cent of the factory employés reporting for work, but street cars, buses, and taxicabs were tied up.

BRITISH COURT RULES CANADIAN WOMEN CAN HOLD PUBLIC OFFICE

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A woman is a person, the privy council decided today, reversing a decision of the Canadian Supreme court that a woman is not a person and therefore is not qualified to sit in the Canadian senate. The lord chancellor of Great Britain, Lord Sankey, delivered the judgment, taking the unusual course of reading it in full before the court.

The appellants were Irene Pariby of Alix, one of the first women in the empire to become a cabinet minister; Mrs. Louise McKinney of Claresholme, first woman elected to the Alberta legislature; Mrs. Nellie M'Clung, writer and lecturer, who has represented Edmonton in the legislature; Mrs. O. C. Edwards of McLeod, veteran expert, who has been convener of laws for the national council of women, and Emily Murphy of Edmonton, one of the first two women in Canada to be appointed magistrates.

of the three Republican nominees for Superior court, and three on the Brundage People's Ticket Against Coalition, Harry F. Hamlin, George H. Grear, and Walter P. Murphy.

At a meeting presided over by Boetius H. Sullivan, the nonpartisan committee which is running the "sitting judges" Democratic ticket campaign organized several sub-bodies yesterday. Col. Noble B. Judah, retiring ambassador to Cuba, was elected chairman of the service men's committee, which will include Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin. Roswell B. Mason will head the bar committee, and Edward J. Prebis, president of the Northwest Trust and Savings bank, is chairman of the finance and audit committee. The women's division is to be directed by Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb.

Cermak and the "Shepherds."

Republican headquarters put forth a statement declaiming that the Democrats have perfected "moveable audiences" for their rallies.

"Cermak is herding the rabbit shepherds from the forest preserves into meetings," said the Republican put out. "Notices have been sent to all employés to attend meetings in Chicago. So the gentlemen who preserve the forest and hold a status on the pay roll by shoveling snow in the summertime and shaving the lawn in winter will appear next week at loop meetings."

FIVE OF ROBBER GANG INDICTED AS POLICE SLAYERS

Five members of the so-called "Robin Hood" bandit gang were indicted by the grand jury of Lake county, Ind., at Crown Point yesterday, for the murder of Sergt. Leo Fox of the Hammond police, who was killed in a gun battle with the gang at Hammond on Oct. 9. Walter Warzinsky of Weirton, W. Va., the leader of the band, was also killed and three others were wounded in the fight. Evidence indicated that Warzinsky fired the shot that killed Fox.

The five indicted are John Sawa, 1636 Rhode Island avenue, Gary; Benny Stawskie, Ambridge, Pa.; William Jesky of Ambridge; Steve Davenport of Keokuk, Ia., and Peter Augustanovich of Hammond. Virginia Russo, 4780 Sheridan road, and Harriet Hendron, 4835 Winthrop avenue, who were seized in the apartment where the battle took place, are being held as material witnesses.

The grand jury also returned a murder indictment against James Britt, Chicago Negro, who is charged with killing Sam Goldberg, a deputy sheriff of East Chicago and a witness for the government in the federal investigation of the alleged Lake county liquor conspiracies.

Little Watchman Kills Tormentor in Quarrel

Ross Wick, 23 years old, 2254 Adams street, a laborer, was shot and fatally wounded late last night by William McCrystal, 55 years old, a watchman, of 182 North Cicero avenue, during a quarrel at the Belden Manufacturing company plant, 4652 Van Buren street. Wick called McCrystal, who is only about five feet tall, "half pint," and McCrystal struck at him with his left fist, drawing a revolver with his right at the same time. He fired one shot. Wick died a few hours later.

FIND DEATH DUE TO SUICIDE.

Otto Roedell, 49 years old, 2150 Fletcher avenue, who was found hanging from a tree in the forest preserve near River Forest on Thursday, committed suicide while temporarily insane, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday.

SENATE APPEARS LIKELY TO ADOPT DEBENTURE PLAN

Regulars Reconciled to Temporary Setback.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover may receive another jolt tomorrow by action of the senate on the export debenture farm relief scheme. Under a unanimous consent agreement entered into today the senate will vote at one o'clock tomorrow on an export debenture amendment to the tariff bill.

The amendment as offered by Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], is substantially the same as was approved by the senate by a margin of three votes as an amendment to the farm relief bill. Advocates of the scheme believe that the Democratic-radical coalition will be able to muster sufficient votes to obtain its approval again tomorrow.

Tariff Issue Complicated.

Republican regulars are reconciled to adoption of the Norris amendment and are relying on getting rid of it in conference, as was done when it was added to the farm relief bill. In view of the fact that the senate rejected the entire conference report on the farm bill because of the elimination of the export debenture amendment the present situation adds to the complications affecting the tariff bill.

The farm bill conference report was accepted finally after it was apparent that the house would not approve the export debenture provision and President Hoover would not sign a bill containing it. The house is expected to take the same position again and it is known that the President has not changed his attitude.

Brookhart for Modification.

The Norris amendment authorizes the treasury at the request of the farm board to issue what amounts to a bounty on exports of any specified agricultural commodity. The debenture would be equal to one-half the tariff duty. Modifications of the original method of issuance of the debentures will be proposed by Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Iowa].

The fact that both sides were willing to enter into an agreement for a vote in advance of any discussion on the proposition was one evidence of a growing conviction that consideration of the tariff bill will be speeded up and that the senate will pass it before the special session adjourns late in November.

Early Passage Possible.

While the leaders have no hope of the adjustment of differences in the senate and house bills until after the regular session convenes, it now seems apparent that the Democrats and radicals are willing that the senate shall pass it next month. A published report that President Hoover will ask that the bill be sidetracked in December if it is not passed by that time was branded by the White House as "utter nonsense."

Regular Republican senators at a conference this morning agreed to a program which is expected to expedite action. One feature of it is that the Republicans of the finance committee will meet each day in advance of the session of the senate and wherever possible will accept amendments which appear to have strong support. This means in effect that when it is realized that the Democratic-radical coalition has enough votes to force adoption of an amendment the Republicans will not waste time arguing about it.

NOV. 7 DESIGNATED SCHOOL HEALTH DAY FOR NEW YORK CITY

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Annual school health day, observed in an effort to discover and remedy physical defects in the city's 1,000,000 school children, will be held on Nov. 7, Supt. William J. O'Shea announced in a circular sent today to principals. There will be no lessons on that day until the vision, hearing, breathing, nutrition and other health features of all pupils have been tested.

Eye charts will be distributed to schools by the district superintendents. Teachers will weigh and measure the pupils. Reports of defects will be followed by a reëxamination by a school physician and the remedy prescribed. Dental troubles will, however, be referred to parents.

A. W. Armour III. Left Bulk of Aunt's Estate

Kansas City, Mo. Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A. Watson Armour III. of Chicago was left the bulk of the estate of Mrs. Rebecca Armour, an aunt, according to her will, which was filed here late today. Mrs. Armour died yesterday. Bequests were $300,000. The largest single gift was to young Armour, who was bequeathed $100,000. He also is to receive the residue of the estate after the bequests are paid. Mrs. Elsa Parker Armour, wife of A. Watson Armour and mother of young Armour, was left all of the jewelry. Included in the bequests was $30,000 to Mercy hospital, an institution for crippled children here.

WAGGONER NOT SATISFIED WITH 15 YEAR TERM

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charles D. Waggoner, Tulleride [Colo.] banker, sentenced to 15 years in Atlanta penitentiary for mail fraud, today in federal court lost a motion to withdraw his plea of guilty entered to the indictment on Oct. 10. The court, however, took under advisement a motion to have the maximum sentence lowered.

The 15 year term, said Elwood M. Rabenold, Waggoner's attorney, was more than his client expected for pleading guilty to the charges that grew out of a federal inquiry of the scheme by which the small town banker defrauded six New York financial houses of $500,000. Waggoner was under the impression that he would receive only five years, he said.

Rabenold argued that U. S. District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had indicated the term would be such by saying it was the custom of the court to provide for penalties to run concurrently where several counts covered one specific offense. Waggoner had been indicted on six counts for mail fraud.

Judge Frank J. Coleman said, in reserving his decision on the motion to lower the sentence, it was his wish that Waggoner serve only five years, and he had notified the parole board to that effect.

The drawing-room tragedy that began in the dining-room

NOT so many years ago she would only laugh gaily when asked the secret of her alluring complexion, sparkling eyes, radiant manner. She hadn't the slightest idea. But now, so unhappy over her wan, haggard face—her dull eyes and constant fatigue, she was as much at a loss to know why her beauty had gone. It couldn't be her diet . . . she was so careful about what she ate.

Unfortunately, her diet was to blame. For in her meals she had neglected to include dishes with that all important element—roughage. The result was constipation which was poisoning her system—stealing her beauty.

What a pity so many women and men do not realize the value of roughage! And more's the pity that they do not know that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a delicious cereal—can supply roughage and bring sure relief from constipation.

Why ALL-BRAN is so effective

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in most generous quantity. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines—exercising them—sweeping out wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the amount of bulk is seldom sufficient to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because they know that it gives maximum results.

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs whose dose must be constantly increased—and which sometimes injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Try it in soups too. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. If you will serve it in some form regularly, you will surely protect your family from dread constipation.

ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

2 DOCTORS BACK PANTAGES CASE DEFENSE POINT

Witness Denies Frameup Story Repudiated.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Mrs. Alexander Pantages, who is awaiting hearing on her plea for probation following conviction for manslaughter, may never face her human judges. She has pneumonia and her condition is reported "grave."

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Defense and prosecution each scored against the other today in the trial of Alexander Pantages on a charge that he attacked Miss Eunice Pringle on Aug. 9.

Drs. W. B. Dakin and P. H. Gibbs, called by the defense, gave testimony which was weighted down by polysyllables and contradicted previous prosecution testimony by Police Chemist Ray Welch. The doctors told the jurors that Welch's analysis of the clothing of Miss Pringle did not necessarily prove Pantages guilty of the crime with which the 17 year old girl accuses him.

The prosecution's cross examination of the physician was perfunctory, and District Attorney Buron Fitts, in dismissing them, remarked that the state has medical experts of its own in reserve who are expected to tell the jurors and Judge Charles Fricke that today's physicians are mistaken.

Sheridan's Record Bared.

The defense found another prosecution witness whose record proved more vulnerable. Chief Counsel W. I. Gilbert introduced court and penitentiary records disclosing that Jay Sheridan, prosecution witness, served time in New York state in 1911 for burglary, in Pennsylvania in 1921 for forgery, and in Missouri in 1928 for forgery.

As a state witness last week Sheridan told that Pantages urged him to come from San Diego to Los Angeles and bring a handful of men and women out of the Tia Juana dance halls to identify Eunice Pringle as a girl with a Tia Juana past.

Jake Rosenstein, one of the Pantages theater press agent corps, testified he had been around the Pantages building offices nearly every night from May 1, 1929, until Aug. 9, 1929, and that in the three month period he saw Miss Pringle "hanging around the building latest night at least once a week." According to him, the girl was there "sometimes as late as 11 o'clock."

Rosenstein's testimony contradicted Miss Pringle's previous account of visits she paid and hours she stayed in the Pantages building.

Surprise Witness Called.

The prosecution tossed its bomb by introducing L. A. Mills, attorney of Stockton, Cal. Mills swore that Gerald Biffle, previous defense witness, who is at large on $7,000 bail on a perjury indictment, had talked to him at Stockton Oct. 3 and told Mills: "They have got me subpoenaed as a defense witness in the Alexander Pantages case, but I haven't the slightest idea why they want me. I don't know anything about the case. It is true I was in the lobby of the Pantages building on the afternoon in question, but I didn't see anybody or talk to anybody or notice anything."

When he testified on the stand three days ago Biffle said he saw Miss Pringle and Nicholas Dunaev, Russian playwright, enter the Pantages building together and said he heard them talk about "making Pantages, sorry if he doesn't book our act."

Biffle Is Recalled.

Biffle was brought in again today by detectives and placed on the stand at once so the jurors could compare his story with Mills'. Biffle responded to the district attorney's questioning and testified he had seen Mills in Stockton on Oct. 3, and talked to him about various matters, but had not said anything to Mills about the Pantages trial.

Biffle must enter a plea on the charge of perjury next week in Judge William Aggeler's court.

Rose Fowler, Pantages' secretary, was the last witness of the day, and her contribution to her employer's defense was the testimony that "Mr. Pantages' clothing was not disarranged when he came out of the little room where Miss Pringle claims that she was attacked, and neither were there any marks, bruises or scratches on him."

Miss Fowler said that Miss Pringle came to the Pantages offices at about 1 p. m. on Aug. 9, "and I saw her standing in the doorway, where she seemed to be impatient about something. Then she disappeared from my sight and I don't know where she went, and about 5:15 p. m. I first heard the screams and rushed from my office."

ADERHOLT TRIAL ORATORY FLOOD ENGULFS COURT

Judge Delays Making Charge to Jury.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Aderholt trial oratorical Derby ended in a draw late today, with the jury so charged with eloquence that the judge decided to wait until Monday to charge them on the law.

Solicitor John G. Carpenter had just completed an impassioned plea that the seven communist agitators accused of second degree murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt be sent to prison for thirty years. The solicitor had cried, shaken hands with the widow, and knelt in prayer at the jury rail. Then the Niagara-like word torrent had died down to a babble.

Judge Favors Recess.

"Gentlemen," remarked Judge M. V. Barnhill as he shot a quizzical glance at the jury box, "I'm in favor of recessing until Monday."

Nobody objected.

The jurors skedaddled out the door under the wing of a fat sheriff. They had had enough of thunder and lightning and oratory and wanted hot food.

Today eloquence reached the flood-stage. Yesterday was the prelude. It was the kind of oratory the south loves, rich with adjectives, high-sounding phrases and sonorous bromides.

Everybody Under Fire.

Everybody, from Judas to Benedict Arnold, was dragged into the case in speeches that hit defendants, witnesses and lawyers alike, very much as if the words had been fired from a sawed-off shotgun.

Only one of the four speakers stuck to the evidence in the Aderholt shooting. He was Frank Flowers, chief attorney for the defense. The others ranged far afield and became lost in a maze of the most amazing rhetoric your correspondent has heard since his last lodge initiation.

The speakers were E. T. Cansler Sr., for the state; Tom P. Jimison and Mr. Flowers, for the defense, and Solicitor Carpenter at the close.

Beginning in the garden of Eden, the solicitor worked his way through the planetary regions, returned via Russia, Germany and France, and landed in the "flower filled yards of Gastonia." Mr. Carpenter is a tall, thin-faced man with a friendly smile. Today the smile was gone, but he still wore a pink dahlia in his coat lapel.

Self-Defense Decried.

Mr. Cansler, for the state, took the position that in addition to the conspiracy charge the officers in their purpose to quell disorder had a right on the strike lot, and that when union guards threatened them with guns that in itself was an assault.

"All this talk about self-defense has no place in this trial," said Mr. Cansler.

Tom Jimison, dapper, wiry little ex-Methodist minister and defense lawyer, appealed to the jury to "disregard all prejudice, and if you do you will turn all these men loose."

TWO MILWAUKEE BOYS CONFESS TO 20 AUTO THEFTS

Two 15 year old Milwaukee boys, arrested on suspicion early yesterday by the police of Winnetka, admitted having stolen the automobile they were driving and confessed to a score of similar thefts and robberies, according to the police.

The boys are Allan Fox and Charles Halbig of 501 Marshall street, Milwaukee. They told the police they had abandoned a stolen Milwaukee automobile in Chicago. The car in which they were captured was found to have been stolen from George Nichols, 312 Wisconsin street, Chicago. The boys confessed to entering the Pine lodge, near Milwaukee, in December, 1928, and stealing several hundreds of dollars' worth of cigars and cigarets.

Records of both boys show that they are former inmates of the school for boys at West Allis, Wis. They are being held for the Milwaukee authorities.

SOUTH SPEEDS UP BATTLE TO WIN SEAWAY TO GULF

New Orleans Experts to Aid Fight in Congress.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New Orleans announced yesterday that it will open headquarters in Chicago on Monday to cooperate with Illinois and other upper Mississippi valley states in working for the early completion of the lakes to gulf waterway. It is part of a drive by the southern end of the Mississippi valley to do its part in preparing for the battle in the December session of congress for the necessary aid for finishing the Illinois waterway, the 63-mile missing link between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi river inland waterway system.

Offices are to be opened in the Palmer house under the auspices of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, with the avowed aim of bringing the north and south ends of the lakes to gulf system closer together for the struggle at Washington. The office is to be manned by a corps of New Orleans trade experts, headed by Herbert B. Flowers, chairman of the New Orleans industrial bureau. Letters have been sent to 600 firms and officials in Chicago, dwelling on the possibilities of trade with South America.

To Aid Middle West.

Organizers of this drive set forth they are ready to work hand in glove with the middle west in lining up the necessary votes in congress. In the next session the struggle will be for legislation giving official government recognition to the Illinois waterway and for an appropriation of four or five million dollars to complete the channel between Joliet and La Salle, on which Illinois is spending $20,000,000 of its own money. The proposed appropriation is the first aid Illinois has asked from congress.

Wilson S. Callender, president of the New Orleans Advertising club, arrived yesterday to arrange for headquarters.

"New Orleans is coming to Chicago to find out just what we can do to help Illinois and the middle west to get favorable action in congress to complete the Illinois waterway," Mr. Callender said.

Assisted by Chicago.

"Several years ago when the intracoastal canal project from New Orleans westward was menaced by hostile interests Chicago responded to New Orleans' call for help and did much to put the bill through congress.

"Later when Chicago was menaced by hostile interests which desired to stop diversion of water from Lake Michigan, Chicago called on New Orleans for help. As a result Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and other states lined up with Chicago. Later Chicago helped New Orleans on flood control.

"Now we need cooperation throughout the Mississippi valley in insisting upon an early completion of the lakes-to-gulf waterway. We're here to volunteer our help in any way.

"One trouble in getting through this great transportation project has been the failure of the Mississippi valley states to unite in their demands upon congress. This lakes to gulf project is the greatest economic enterprise now before the great area in mid-continent.

"The annual commerce of the twenty Latin-American republics lying in the front yard of New Orleans, which is Chicago's gulf seaport, is in excess of six billion dollars.

Much Goes to East.

"About one-third of this comes to the United States, and North Atlantic ports, with no economic right to it, got about two-thirds of this trade in 1928. Agriculture and industry in the middle west are vitally affected, for a water route to the gulf from the lakes will reduce the trade pressures which the Panama canal has enabled the Atlantic and Pacific coasts to exert upon the territory in the middle of the country.

"With the waterway completed, Chicago will be in direct water touch with New Orleans, which is 600 miles closer to the Panama canal than are the North Atlantic ports. It will enable the middle west to command a fair share of the trade of the orient and Pacific coast trade of both North and South America.

"New Orleans hopes to bring about through this contact a more general realization of the common good to come through closer union of upper valley and lower valley interests. The lakes to gulf channel will enormously benefit twenty-five states, and valley-wide cooperation with Chicago is common sense and good policy."

PELOUZE HEADS COMMISSION ON DEEP WATERWAY

William N. Pelouze was elected chairman of the Illinois deep waterway commisison yesterday at the first meeting of the commission since its appointment by Gov. Emmerson. M. K. Northam was elected vice chairman and Representative G. J. Johnson of Paxton was chosen secretary.

Mr. Pelouze, who is president of the Pelouze Manufacturing company, was formerly president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and has been chairman of several commissions on the St. Lawrence waterway project. The commission appointed by the governor is authorized by an act of the last legislature to investigate the feasibility and value of the project to connect the great lakes with the Atlantic seaboard by way of the St. Lawrence to permit the passage of ocean going vessels from the lakes to tidewater.

Other members of the commission besides the new officers are Senator Martin P. Bailey of Danville, Senator Harry Wilson of Pinckneyville, Representative Charles H. Weber, Arthur Meeker and William G. Edens of Chicago and W. D. Heise of Joliet.

KANSAS NAMES A FEDERAL JUDGE.

President Hoover has named Richard J. Hopkins to be federal district judge in Kansas. He is a justice of the Kansas Supreme court. In an investigation of Anti-Saloon league accounts and practices in that state he was found in the books as the recipient of money for lecturing for prohibition.

When a vacancy in the federal District court was made by the appointment of Judge McDermott to the Circuit Court of Appeals the Kansas senators, Arthur Capper and H. J. Allen, recommended Hopkins for the place. Mr. Hoover referred the recommendation to Attorney General Mitchell, who after an investigation withheld his approval of it on the ground that the Kansas justice was not qualified for the federal court.

The Kansas attorney general, Charles B. Griffith, also received payments from the Anti-Saloon league at the same time that Justice Hopkins was being paid expenses for his lecturing, and when the disclosure of these facts was made the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon of Topeka said: "The man on the street does not understand why public officials elected by the state to enforce certain laws should receive two salaries, one from the state and one from an organization which is supported by the churches."

There is no evidence that this unethical conduct was considered at Washington when Mr. Hopkins was pronounced not qualified for the federal bench. It could not have failed to make an impression when the Kansas drys demanded federal place for their man, but Mr. Mitchell based his opinion on the legal imperfections in decisions of Hopkins and on the number of reversals they had experienced on appeals to higher courts.

This refusal to submit to the drys was early in Mr. Hoover's administration and it seemed to warrant the belief that the federal court was not to be packed for them. Mr. Mitchell was generally commended for his position and it was supposed that the President would sustain him. The expectation did not take into account the persistence of the Kansas drys and their entire indifference to anything except the promotion of their own purposes. Capper and Allen were without any scruples in the matter. They let it be known that they would have Hopkins or make trouble all along the line. The administration maintained its position for about six months and then weakened. It submitted to the Kansas dictation and Mr. Mitchell was constrained to find that Hopkins was really not so bad as the first inquiry revealed him to be.

It has been thought that the control of patronage, including appointments to the bench, by the senators of a state and by the influences back of them could be justified on the theory that at least it gave a state what it deserved. If it wanted poor officials it got them and suffered from them. If this was an expression of the incompetence, ignorance or indifference of the state's political control it at least had a sanction and was a sort of rough justice, however discreditable it might be to the federal service in general. But recent practices of the department of justice remove even this poor compensation for the injury done. The department bootlegs federal judges from the districts in unscrupulous states and sends them to administer law upon the persons and property of people in civilized states which are not responsible for their appointment.

This Capper-Allen judge whom the Anti-Saloon league of Kansas has forced into the federal judiciary may be brought to Chicago or sent to New York as a carpetbagger to exercise the rare judicial discretion which made him a lecturer for the drys, and out of this choice judicial temperament may come decisions and sentences affecting the fortunes of civilized people who never would consent to the presence of such a man on the bench if they could help themselves.

New York had one experience with a judicial visitor from Texas who outrageously berated the attorney for a woman defendant, an Italian accused of liquor violations, and lectured her from the bench on the impropriety of living in a neighborhood in which there were colored people. That demonstration of judicial fitness was illustrative of what may be expected when the low grade dry politics of certain states is allowed to send their judicial favorites into intelligent communities where the courts have been entitled to respect.

Mr. Capper and Mr. Allen and the drys of Kansas are satisfied by the withdrawal of the official condemnation of Hopkins and by the yielding which names him for the place, but it need not follow that senators from other states must accept him. If they had any respect for the possible fate of their own constituents who may find themselves before such a judge they would defeat the appointment. The manner in which the senate conducts such affairs may not justify the thought that there will be opposition, but if there isn't it means that the senate accepts a judge whom the attorney general himself has condemned and accepts him because the Anti-Saloon league demands that he be a federal judge.

WE TELL THE WORLD.

At the bottom of this column are the closing paragraphs of an editorial from the New York World called forth by a map in THE TRIBUNE of the British naval bases off our shores.

The thoughts expressed in the World editorial are the thoughts held by every patriotic Englishman. They are not, we will tell the World, the thoughts held by many Americans.

If the World had the same hospitality for American public opinion that it has for the European point of view it would know that the American people are not satisfied with a treaty which requires America to demilitarize the American islands near the coast of Asia while allowing another signatory to the same treaty to maintain naval bases upon islands off our shores having no other value to their owner than to be used in military operations against the United States. There are not many Americans who are satisfied with a treaty under the working of which a naval superiority has become a naval inferiority. Americans are dissatisfied and suspicious that one of the forces working for naval parity for America, which was open to criticism, was vigorously attacked in the senate while a blanket of official secrecy was thrown over all the agents, foreign and domestic, who sought to relegate the American navy to impotency. Nor will they be satisfied to have the views of the most respectable and, at the same time, the most patriotic British first lord of the admiralty, Bridgeman, on naval equality accepted by the American government.

It is a handicap to the World that it is edited, however elegantly, in the chief seaport of America, which for years has been the point of entry of foreign capital and foreign citizens, foreign philosophy and foreign political doctrines. Its parlor intellectuals feel closer to the countries across the Atlantic than to the states beyond the Alleghenies. New York Finance, New York society and New York Letters are Colonial in the attitude to the old world.

This attitude has largely contributed to the failure of New Yorkers as publishers and opened the door to the stream of American-minded editors who have invaded and taken the profitable field from its caducous holders.

The story of Joseph Pulitzer, the first of these, and one of the most independent and forceful of American editors, furnishes a key to the success of the others. During one of the periods of New York journalistic decline, when New York papers were both slavish and snobbish, Joseph Pulitzer in his St. Louis office was reading an account of a sumptuous entertainment given by New York's most dominant and international financier, the first to crash, by the daughter routed into European aristocracy. Among the names of the guests Pulitzer recognized those of every New York newspaper editor. "By God," he cried, "there is room in New York for an editor that don't go to the Vanderbilt Ball."

AN OBJECT LESSON FOR MURDERERS.

There has been no execution in this community for a long time. As a result young men who lack the natural inhibitions against taking human life have had no reason to fear the consequences of killing. It is doubtful if the murder of Lyle Perrenoud would have occurred had the electric chair been used recently. The murder was inconceivably brutal. Perrenoud's killer provoked a traffic quarrel with his victim. Perrenoud refused to answer the insults and was killed for his silence.

Perrenoud's killer was drunk, but he didn't kill merely because he was drunk. He was on a wild party. He carried a gun. Shooting was part of the program of wildness. The only deterrent to the party would have been the prospect of the electric chair. The party was deliberately conceived; the members of it planned to get drunk and to carry a gun; they knew the chance that there would be a killing.

Just as deliberately the party might have been abandoned were execution in this county the usual punishment for murder.

Editorial of the Day

JINGOISM AT BAY.

[The New York World.]

It is fair to conjecture that THE TRIBUNE and the special element it represents are not greatly worried about our being deprived of "adequate defenses" or our yielding to efforts "to pledge us to subordination," to use more of its phrases. They know well enough that Mr. MacDonald and the Labor party leaders are fair-minded and humane gentlemen intent on ending war for the humble working masses in the British isles, not a set of scoundrels playing a skin game. They know that Mr. Hoover is a shrewd and realistic leader who has demonstrated his capacity for protecting American interests to the utmost. They know that 120,000,000 Americans will not be pushed into a position of subordination anywhere or at any time. What THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the irreconcilable sentiment it represents are actually worried about is something else. They fear that the United States and other great nations will be led by such statesmen as Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Hoover, M. Briand and the late Herr Stresemann into a position wherein the old nationalist chants and chauvinist shibboleths that the irreconcilable crowds have poured forth will become palpably worthless. They see their special brand of arrogant touch-nothing nationalism—the brand which recoiled in horror from the league, which assailed the Washington conference, which regarded the Kellogg pact with deep suspicion the moment any one assumed it really meant anything, which still denounces the world court as a pitfall leading to destruction—shown up as obviously ridiculous.

Every step toward disarmament, toward the real outlawry of war, toward coöperation with other nations, breaks down this type of nationalism. Already men see that it belongs to the dead past and not the future, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE element are uneasy over each new international development lest it do something further to expose it. They know that naval agreement with England is in itself a good thing, and that the common sense masses of both countries rise to approve it; but they fear its implications. If this spirit of mutual trust between nations, this coöperation in promoting world peace, go on, where will they end? In world courts, in conferences at Geneva, in a whole set of institutions and ideas that are as incompatible with the old frame of mind as present day ideas are with feudalism. Hence it is that at such a meeting as Mr. Hoover's and Mr. MacDonald's they begin clutching at any objections within reach. They see bogies behind the winter playgrounds at Bermuda and Nassau; they think of the British steamships that steam into New York harbor and the American steamships that enter Southampton as agencies of war instead of pledges of peace; they talk of Ramsay MacDonald as if he were Genghis Khan.

ANEMIA AND LIVER.

A FEW years ago liver as an article of diet was recommended as the treatment for pernicious anemia. As the result of several years' rather extensive experience certain facts seem to be established. One is that liver is a specific cure for pernicious anemia, in much the sense that insulin is a specific cure for diabetes. A person with pernicious anemia will never die from that disorder if he will continue taking liver in proper doses daily.

So far as there has been time to judge this seems to be true. However, we must remember that pernicious anemia has been known to relapse after an intermittence lasting many years. In one instance this interval is said to have been twenty-one years. Therefore it is much too early to decide the point of ultimate curability of pernicious anemia by the liver treatment or any other. This much seems established. The liver diet or some other method of taking liver must be kept up for years after all symptoms of pernicious anemia have disappeared. The continuance of the treatment after the "cure" is important just as is the case with tuberculosis.

The trend of opinion now is that pernicious anemia is a deficiency disease and that it is not due to atrophy of the glands of the stomach or lack of gastric juice or to infection in the intestinal tract or to any other intestinal disorder.

The digestive symptoms so frequently found in pernicious anemia are effects of the disease and not the cause. The theory is that liver and certain other organs supply a specific iron rich in something which the body needs and which is deficient in pernicious anemia. There are two practical difficulties in the daily carrying out of the liver treatment over a term of years. Drs. Castle and Bowie say the cost is considerable.

At present prices the very good quality of liver extract on the market costs about 85 cents for the daily dose. At present prices of calf liver the cost to the present patient for his daily portion is about 40 cents. A daily portion of beef liver costs 10 to 15 cents. The other objection is the sameness of flavor. To supply an alternative Drs. Castle and Bowie give a method of making a palatable liver extract in the kitchen.

This method will be given in tomorrow's article in this column. Another conclusion at which physicians appear to have arrived is that liver is effective in curing secondary anemias and chlorosis. And still another is that liver should not be fed to babies. If a child under 2 years of age becomes pale, his anemia can be overcome by other effective methods.

BOILS, CAUSE AND TREATMENT.

C. P. P. writes: What can I do to get rid of boils? When one goes another comes. Just now I have three on the back of my neck. What causes this?

REPLY.

The immediate cause of boils is infection of an area of the deep skin with staphylococcus. In some places the health department supplies a phage for the treatment of boils.

Otherwise, keep the skin very clean and free from irritation. The underlying cause may be too much sugar in the blood. This calls for a diet that is poor in sugar and starch.

SUNLIGHT WILL DO GOOD.

L. S. writes: My family has the itch and some members are being cured with sulphur ointment, etc.

1. Please say how long woolen garments which cannot be washed will be infected.

2. Are books used by my children dangerous to others?

REPLY.

1. It may be necessary to kill the parasites in these garments by the use of dry heat. Try sunning them [bright, direct sunlight] for one week.

2. Probably not. Expose them to bright sunlight, however

GIVING CASTOR OIL TO WARTS.

J. M. writes: 1. Is castor oil helpful in removing warts? 2. Is insulin helpful in reducing sugar in diabetes; the patient has 5%.

REPLY.

1. Yes.

2. Yes. Insulin has an important place in the treatment of diabetes. So has dieting.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ST. LOUIS AVE. EYESORES.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—In the vicinity of Peterson and North St. Louis avenues there are several tumbledown shacks, an immense water tank, old wagons, auto bodies, etc. When will these be removed? As I am going to build in that section I would like to have it done soon.

W. L.

Please be advised that the dilapidated building at northwest corner Peterson and Bernard streets is being wrecked.

There is no cause for complaint on the steel water tank at 6023 North St. Louis avenue.

The owner of the building at 6027-29 North St. Louis avenue has been notified to wreck same. If the owner fails to comply with said notice this department will cause building to be wrecked.

CHRISTIAN P. PASCHEN,
Commissioner of Buildings.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How long is an Illinois marriage license good?

O. L.

While the Illinois statute does not specify a definite time limit, the inference to be drawn from the fact that the license clerk determines the eligibility of the parties is that the ceremony should be performed soon enough so that it would be presumed that their eligibility has continued to the time of the ceremony.

FOOTBALL FORECAST.

SIX Big Ten football elevens are pitted against one another in contests this afternoon. Perhaps the most important is Minnesota at Northwestern, because neither eleven yet has been beaten. Equally difficult to forecast is Ohio State at Ann Arbor in an affair of traditional rivalry. Illinois generally is picked to dampen the Iowa stadium dedication.

The Wake-Line yesterday talked at different times with Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Dr. Spears of Minnesota. Each would be entitled to Phi Beta Kappa in a good curriculum, with the Gopher coach perhaps the more finished in his forebodings. As a result we are unable to separate this pair. Forecast:

Northwestern, 7; Minnesota, 7.
Ohio State, 6; Michigan, 6.
Illinois, 14; Iowa, 7.
Notre Dame, 20; Wisconsin, 7.
Chicago, 20; Ripon, 0.
Indiana, 7; Colgate, 0.
Purdue, 20; De Pauw, 0.
Nebraska, 13; Pittsburgh, 7.
Missouri, 13; Drake, 3.
Kansas, 6; Kansas Aggies, 0.
Butler, 13; Haskell, 0.
Loyola, 13; Duquesne, 0.
Boston College, 7; Dayton, 0.
Grinnell, 9; Washington U., 0.
Army, 13; Harvard, 0.
Navy, 14; Duke, 0.
Yale, 9; Brown, 7.
Cornell, 7; Princeton, 0.
Pennsylvania, 13; California, 0.
Dartmouth, 14; Columbia, 6.
Carnegie, 13; W. and J., 0.
Penn State, 7; New York U., 0.
Fordham, 14; Holy Cross, 7.
Syracuse, 16; Johns Hopkins, 0.
Williams, 20; Hobart, 0.
Amherst, 20; Hamilton, 0.
Florida, 7; Georgia Tech, 3.

Stanford, 20; Oregon State, 6.
Utah, 7; Colorado, 0.
Washington State, 14; Washington, 0.
Oregon, 14; Idaho, 7.

ARMY AND NAVY football authorities still are far apart on their eligibility views which produced the present break. Inevitably the two academies will compose their differences at some time. Tradition, as well as public sentiment, dictate an annual contest.

SCRUB.

You've got your suit again, old boy,
And your heart is light and gay;
Again the surge of joy, old boy,
As you seek the daily fray.
You know down in your heart, old boy,
That you haven't got a chance
To rise above third string, old boy—
On that, you'll bet your pants.

The din from maddened mobs, old boy,
Will be for other ears
As blanketed you squat, old boy,
Midst the deluge of the cheers.
You'll forget those aching bones, old boy,
You'll feel your loyal heart throb
As the laurel wreath is placed, old boy,
On the other fellow's knob.

But while the mob shricks praise, old boy,
To the wizard in the light,
There'll be at least one heart, old boy,
That'll try to make things right.
And in that grateful heart, old boy,
While the wizard's deed elates,
There'll be a place for you, old boy,
Who, aching, squats—and waits.

PURDUE MAC.

That "Soft" Schedule.

Dear Harve: This is just to call "W. L. G.'s" attention to what one of the "setups" on the Illini schedule did to his alma mater, Wisconsin, last Saturday. Since when did Northwestern, Ohio, Iowa, Michigan, or Chicago become setups for anybody's ball club? I laugh. And the next time one of the "soft" spots takes Wisconsin, a lot of local folks are going to have broken ribs from unsuppressed mirth. ILLINI UNDERGRAD.

Sitting Pretty.

Glancing through the "Wisecracking on Broadway" column of Phocian Howard's New York Press, we ran across one which rang the bell with us. Here is the substance of it: A chorus lady had a wealthy suitor whom she introduced to her fellow chorine and roommate. The latter stole the w. s. Later there was a trip to the Little Church Around the Corner, a love nest, costly raiment, limousines, and a Pekinese spaniel. So the bride quit the chorus. When the inevitable rift followed and the love nest was vacated, the young lady sought her old place in the musical show, but was rejected, because after her easy living she packed too much avoirdupois. When this incident was related to the former friend, she tossed what would have been her blonde tresses, if her hair had not been bobbed, and remarked sapiently and sarcastically, "Oh, I see, she got wide-hipped from sitting pretty."

Wake-Line: I told the girl friend I was going to the football game Saturday and she suggested I take an electric heater along to keep warm, and I asked her where I would get the current from, and she replied, "From the battery." GORILLA.

And How!

Harve: I just read Jane Cowl's moan to the graduate wimmen of Columbia university: "I feel that the American theater is on its last legs." You know, Harve, I've been feeling that way, too, every time I go to a theater that it is on its last legs, and on a lot of 'em. RALPH PARLETTE.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—The following dispatch has been received from Gen. Sherman: "We took Ship Gap today, capturing part of the 24th North Carolina. Two of Hood's corps are represented to be at Lafayette and one went south from Villanova Plain. They obstructed Snake Creek pass to delay our trains, but by tomorrow I can move in any direction." Gen. Schofield at Chattanooga reports that the rear of Hood's army left Lafayette, going south, at daylight on the 17th.

ST. LOUIS.—Price's headquarters are undoubtedly at Lexington. Gen. Pleasanton has driven the rebels from Warrensburg. Gen. Curtis telegraphs that he drove a body of rebels from Independence on the 16th. It was previously reported that Independence had been captured by rebels supposed to be Price's advance.

MEMPHIS.—The rebels in large force are again threatening this city. They are about four miles out in a westerly direction. Portions of the Memphis and Charleston railroad have been torn up by the enemy. An attack is expected and citizens as well as soldiers are under arms to meet the foe.

NEW YORK.—The Times' Army of the James special describes the reconnoissance of Gen. Porry. It demonstrated that the enemy have left no means untried of strengthening the defense of their capital. The ground is filled with field fortifications and ridged and welded with earthworks, line after line, in concentric circles, while high forts stand upon every possible eminence.

CHICAGO.—Miss Cynthia Stratfords, second daughter of Dr. H. K. Stratfords of Waukegan, and Capt. H. M. Fuller of Chicago were married on Oct. 17 in this city by Rev. J. H. Tuttle.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1899.

LONDON.—The long expected movement of the Boers on Sir George S. White's position in Natal has begun in earnest. The Orange Free State burghers advanced through Tintwa pass and opened with artillery on the British outposts of Ladysmith, bivouacked ten miles from the camp. The firing of the Boers was wild. In a later sortie the Boers collided with cavalry patrols at Acton Homes and Testers station, southwest of Ladysmith. There were several British casualties. Sir George White is pushing up his supports and it is believed a big engagement is coming today.

PARIS.—Minister for the Colonies M. Decrais announces news of the assassination of Lieuts. Voulet and Chanoine by their rebellious Senegalese troopers of the outlawed expedition in central Africa.

NEW HAVEN.—Yale's thirteenth president, Arthur Twining Hadley, the first layman to be inducted into the office, was inaugurated with impressive ceremonies.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1919.

WASHINGTON.—Tonight's bulletin said the President had a comfortable day and that he is somewhat stronger.

MINEOLA, N. Y.—Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, having flown 5,402 miles, reached here at 1:50 p. m., completing the twice transcontinental race and winning from a field of 62 starters the greatest air Derby ever attempted. He made the 5,402 miles in less than 50 hours actual flying time.

CHIPPEWA RESERVE, Wis. — Squatting on the ground in a chilly clearing of a rugged northern Wisconsin forest, Eamonn de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," became "Chief, the Dressing Feather,' and a member of the Chippewa tribe. The honor was conferred after three hours of dignified aboriginal dancing while 3,000 looked on.

CHICAGO.—[By Quin A. Ryan.]—Northwestern, the "dark horse of the conference," surprised and also disappointed the Purple rooters at Northwestern field when Wisconsin battled it all over the pasture and harnessed it by sterling playing. The score was 10 to 6. Other scores: Chicago, 16; Purdue, 0. Illinois, 9; Iowa, 7. Minnesota, 20; Indiana, 6. Notre Dame, 14; Nebraska, 9.

ADJUSTING THE LIGHTS TO TRAFFIC.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Your editorial "Policing the Stop Lights" prompts me to suggest that a more general observance of these traffic signals could be had were there an adjustment of these lights in hours of light traffic.

Going east in Madison street at 5:45 this morning, starting from Springfield avenue, I was stopped by the red light at seven intersections before reaching Halsted street, and at each of these intersections there was no north and south traffic. At two of these intersections, east or west bound motorists sailed right through with a disregard evidently arising from the knowledge of the thinness of cross traffic at these hours.

Signals should be so adjusted that the yellow light should be used during off hours. I have seldom observed a motorist disregard the yellow light suggestive of caution, and they have most generally slowed down to a point where the car could easily be stopped in case another machine was coming from the opposite direction. The red light, however, appears to be so silly to a goodly class of drivers during certain hours that it is entirely disregarded.

A check should be made of every traffic light in Chicago. They should then be adjusted during certain hours of the day in accordance with the density of traffic existing at those times. Convince the driver that these lights are regulated in accordance with reason and you will get proper observance.

JACOB LEVIN.

FRATERNITY EVILS AND VIRTUES.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 15.—With apologies to I. C. Clarke, I should like to use his article in the Voice of the People as an example of the attitude taken by nonfraternity men. It all comes down to the simple proposition of unorganized men asking for the same privileges as the fraternity men; which additional rights spring out of the fact that the latter are an organized body, and therefore it logically follows that they enjoy the benefits of organization.

Even a college student ought to be acquainted with the fact that there are benefits to be derived from unification. There are also detriments, such as the lack of opportunity for individualistic development; the growth of a feeling of dependence; and the tendency to increase a class consciousness. Let the student choose whichever field he desires, and if a nonfrat man feels that he is missing out in his college career there is nothing but lack of initiative from preventing himself from organizing.

Judging by the lack of interest shown by the nonfrat men in a student election recently held at Urbana, I should state that the large majority of them are indifferent to the so-called "student political rights." MACD. LASKY.

ELLER METHODS ON THE CAMPUS.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—THE TRIBUNE was very unfair to a young Italian who is doing his best to see that others pay their share in college life at the University of Illinois. The young man is John Granata, a law student at Illinois.

What if his brother was connected with Morris Eller? Is it helping John any for THE TRIBUNE to print it on the first page? And even if he was rewarded in the Twentieth ward, he sure has shown some real metal to thousands at Illinois university. DICK PHILLIPS.

ANTI-GREEK.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Some people are under the impression that politics never existed at the University of Illinois until at present. Politics has always been prevalent, but it has not been revealed until the nonfraternity members have gotten a strong foothold, voicing their rights and fighting to be released from under dogs from the present regime of the fraternities.

The average nonfraternity man is a fighter. He is not a weakling that must be carried to school by his father and given financial support. He is a diligent worker who usually refrains from attending gin parties or petting parties, the atmosphere of fraternity life. In other words, he is the brains of the class. Yet he is not recognized when seeking an office because he is not a fraternity man.

Now that he contemplates winning recognition the council has forbidden the election of officers in the sophomore, junior and senior years until such time, I suppose, when the nonfraternity members become less powerful. How absurd this is.

I sympathize greatly with the man who refused to make a contribution to a university unless the fraternities there were abolished. DR. W. J. ZANBORSKY.

WORLD'S FAIR PROGRESS.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The pessimistic Mr. Lewis, whose contribution was published in this department, evidently has not followed the unfolding of plans for Chicago's World's Fair of 1933, widely publicized from day to day in the press and over the radio. Had he been doing so, he would know that the final ground layout for the fair is practically complete and is now in the hands of the engineers.

For so stupendous a project as the 1933 exposition will be, the innumerable details, as well as the large features of it, can only be worked out to a definite conclusion after many months of closest study and preparation.

The Columbian exposition was built in 21 months. With modern equipment and building materials, even that marvelous World's Fair undoubtedly could be duplicated in a much shorter period.

Mr. Lewis, and any interests he may or may not represent, may rest assured that everything possible is being done by the group of citizens to whom the building of the fair has been entrusted to hasten the completion of their plans.

Impatience has marked prefair years of every great exposition. Naturally, Chicagoans, with their notable predilection for speed and a desire to get things done promptly, will be no exception to the rule. R. P. SHEPHERD.

4 STATES HAIL OPENING OF NEW BRIDGE AT CAIRO

Span a Mile Long Links Illinois to Dixie.

BY HAL FOUST.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The governor of Illinois and the lieutenant governor of Missouri stood on a twenty foot reinforced concrete roadway a hundred feet above the whirling waters of the Mississippi here this noon and cut a silk ribbon that symbolized a barrier between the states. The occasion was the dedication of a new $3,100,000 bridge, a mile long, which carries the traffic of United States highways Nos. 51 and 60.

Taking part in the ceremony were official delegations from cities of Kentucky and Tennessee, as well as from Missouri and southern Illinois.

The ceremony has a double significance. It also celebrated locally the completed canalization of the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to where it meets the Mississippi river at this southernmost point of Illinois. But attention was centered today on the bridge opening, as the official federal dedication of the finished nine foot waterway will not occur until next Friday.

Supplements Ferry Service.

The bridge supplements—and probably in time will replace—the service performed for years by a fleet of ferries, picturesque flat bottomed boats with stern paddle wheels. To cross the Father of Waters by this ancient method takes from twenty to thirty minutes, depending upon the wind and current, and boats leave the dock here for the Missouri shore only every half hour. It takes but ten minutes to drive over the bridge, and there is no waiting.

The span was built by private capital and a toll of $1.25 for car and driver and 15 cents for each passenger is charged. The ferries have reduced their rates, faced with this new competition, from $1.50 to 50 cents.

The social, political and commercial significances of the bridge were extolled from a platform erected in a municipal park.

Emmerson Praises Project.

"This improved transportation will bring a better understanding between the good people of Illinois and the good people of the south," said Gov. Emmerson. "It will break down provincialism. Only yesterday, in the history of our country, sectionalism was causing Missouri and Illinois to take arms against each other."

Cairo was the headquarters of Gen. Grant from September of 1861 to April of 1862.

"The opening of the waterway," Gov. Emmerson continued, "will bring additional prosperity and culture. From the east will come a fifty million dollar a year commerce. And in the near future, Cairo will also be on the route of the Illinois waterway."

Lieut. Gov. E. H. Winter of Missouri declared that the improved water and highway transportation will contribute greatly to the future of the Mississippi and Ohio valleys.

"The development of civilization in America can be measured by the development of its transportation facilities," he said. "History has shown that a community will progress in direct proportion to its accessibility."

Cairo is 399 concrete highway miles from Chicago. It is on a route that is used by many Chicago motorists in driving to the south. The season is opening when many will be burning gasoline to escape cold weather.

BOAT'S A-COM'N' 'ROUND THE BEND ON THE OLD OHIO

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Reminiscent of the days when steamboating was in its heyday on the Ohio river, once the chief traffic artery between Pittsburgh and the west, a colorful array of river craft today steamed down to Emsworth dam and back to the city in a pageant such as has not been seen here in a score of years.

Packets, tugs and tow boats churned the waters of the Ohio while shrill sirens, blatant calliopes and bands made the surrounding hills ring. More than a score of boats were lined up behind the "Cincinnati," flagship of the flotilla, as they steamed over the six mile course.

The pageant marked the first of several celebrations to be held along the river from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., in commemoration of completion of the Ohio river canalization, a $100,000,000 project.

River Is Rising.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Ohio river was slowly rising in its lower reaches today as the water released from above reached the half dozen or more steamboats that had been stranded since late Wednesday night.

Father Who Branded Son Jailed for 90 Days

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Charles Hadad, 35, who branded his 11 year old son Jacob with a hot iron, was sentenced today by Judge Arthur W. Kilpatrick to 90 days in the house of correction.

Hadad was arrested two days ago after Jacob and his sister had complained to police. The boy told officers his father had branded him in the hand and his mother on the arm because he was unable to account for two pennies of some money given him by his father to buy newspapers.

In sentencing Hadad, Judge Kilpatrick expressed regret that statutory limitations prevented him from sending Hadad up for 90 years instead of 90 days.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Christiana Anderson, 71 years old, 1726 North Ridgeway avenue, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries received in a fall on Oct. 2.

OCTOBER 19th is Sweetest Day—the great American festival of joy-bringing to others. It's different from every other gift-giving holiday—because it's all in the spirit of SURPRISE! You'll observe it by giving an unexpected treat to somebody—somebody you love, somebody who has done you a kindness, or one of those ill or unfortunate somebodies whose joys are few. What could be more appropriate than candy? It's the gift universal, that everybody likes. And remember—there's more than sweetness in candy. There's health and wholesome energy, too. Vividly portrayed, the characters and events of History from the earliest times known, pass before your eyes in an endless dazzling array.

SCIENCE
Here the importance and industrial uses of Chemistry and Physics are made plain; the mysterious secrets of Astronomy are made astoundingly clear; Biology and its fascinating intimate revelation of our own very existence is thoroughly described; Psychology's practical uses are graphically illustrated.

LITERATURE
Here is a resume of all man's writings from earliest Egyptian times to Shaw; from the beautiful works of the Persians, Chinese and Japanese of the pre-Christian era to Edith Wharton, Theodore Dreiser, Sinclair Lewis and many important moderns.

ART

A LIBERAL EDUCATION IN ONE VOLUME

SUPPOSE that by some miracle all man's knowledge were put into six mammoth volumes, each volume would then have hundreds of thousands of pages and each would take a lifetime to read.

BUT if the most important and interesting parts of each of these subjects could be torn out and combined into one volume, it would make a work so simple, so fascinating, so educational and so important that no cultured person could afford to be without it. Such a book is "The Outline of Man's Knowledge," by Clement Wood.

The reader of such a comprehensive story must naturally gain a broader outlook—a more complete knowledge. And intelligent knowledge creates that positive asset of self-confidence. The important and interesting facts of the march of civilization are things which every intelligent man and woman must know if they are to have a deeper culture and a more liberal understanding.

This Colette Delights Paris by Her Books

Her "Cheri" to Try for an American Verdict.

"Cheri," by Colette. [A. C. Boni.]

Colette is one of the idols of the French reading public. There is a delicacy about everything she writes, a perfection of using what the French call le mot juste, which means exactly and precisely the word to express what one wants to say.

She has written of everything in the world—the loveliness of the dawn on a countryside, the vivid passions of a jealous player in a provincial band of actors, the soft ecstasy of young love, the cold hardness of lust. There is nothing which Colette has chosen to write about that she has not done with consummate precision and understanding.

For years there has been in America a distinct Colette cult. It is unfortunate rather than anything else that the first book of hers to be made known in translation in America should be "Cheri," for its subject matter is such as to prejudice a certain type of reader against the writer forever, although as an abstract piece of work it is a brilliant example of observation and understanding.

It is the story of a gigolo and his liaison with an old courtesan, twenty-four years his senior, who trundled him as a baby and who sent him to his marriage ignorant of the depth of her love for him or his for her. Every one in the book is sordid, most of them are common and vulgar and the hero is a detestable exquisite who has no standards except those of his body.

The heroine is a woman of fifty who has, for the seven years previous to the opening of the story, endured the ingratitude and the insolence of a boy lover after having spent a lifetime in the arms of lavishly grateful men. The scene may seem to many a completely alien one. But Europe is not the only place where gigolos flourish. There are famous ones in New York, and they are not unknown in Chicago. Americans pretend that American women have not adopted that vice, but the tables in almost any night club will prove such flag wavers to be in the wrong.

Colette has turned a cold, clinical eye on that situation, so inherently unlovely. She has recorded with absolute fidelity the complete details of such a relationship. That she did it many years ago when gigolo was a bizarre word and not used, as it is now, in the conversations of the very young, and that she did such a stunning job of it accounts for the remarkable success which "Cheri" has had abroad.

It has gone into its 95th edition in France, and for some time a play made from it was one of the most popular theatrical attractions of France, in the provinces as well as in the capital.

It offered a study—uncompromisingly cold and accurate—of a type hitherto not known. That will be the basis of its popularity in America if it attains best sellerdom. We are not an openminded nation. We don't really want to know unpleasant things. But we will read a book like "Cheri," go around doing a lot of talking about its frankness and its "indecency" and miss entirely the point of it, which is that as a piece of writing it is superb, because it draws its picture without one line too few or too many. That the picture is not a pretty one has nothing to do with the case.

However, as I said before, it is unfortunate that Colette should be introduced to American readers through a book which is typical of Colette only in the sense that it exemplifies her intense powers of observation and her brilliant technique in imparting those observations.

"Cheri" is translated by Janet Flanner, and it is an excellent translation. F. B.

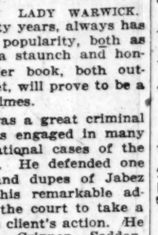
While Life of Barrister Tells Crime Story.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Two outstanding books of the season, one of which has been attracting great attention already, the other of which will be in all hands by the time these words are in print, are the reminiscences of Lady Warwick and the biography of the late Marshall Hall.



LADY WARWICK.

Lady Warwick, the Socialist countess, friend of King Edward VII. and of many celebrated people during the last fifty years, always has enjoyed immense popularity, both as a beauty and as a staunch and honorable friend. Her book, both outspoken and discreet, will prove to be a document of the times.

Marshall Hall was a great criminal barrister, who was engaged in many of the most sensational cases of the twentieth century. He defended one of the partners and dupes of Jabez Balfour, and by his remarkable advocacy persuaded the court to take a lenient view of his client's action. He also defended Dr. Crippen, Seddon, Smith (of the "Brides in the Bath Case"), and other celebrated murderers. His biography is thus more than a personal history, but is a sort of survey of the more noted English crimes of our day. It should appeal to those who love to read of crimes.

More, it certainly will interest all who wish to understand the way in which the English law operates. And at the same time, owing to the skill of the writer and the peculiar vividness of Marshall Hall's sanguine nature, it gives us a personal story of great charm. The author is Edward Marjoribanks, a stepson of Lord Hailsham, the ex-lord chancellor of Great Britain, and a Conservative member of parliament.

Full of anecdote and full of zest for the law [Mr. Marjoribanks is himself a barrister], the book is both well informed and readable. I shall be very much surprised if it is not one of the successes of the season in England, while in America it should have an appeal to all crime fans, all students of human nature, and all who can appreciate a biography of an impetuous, noble hearted man who threw himself into his cases with enthusiasm which sometimes overstepped into emotionalism.

Lure of Black Magic Clings to Author Thurston

"My Life of Magic," by Howard Thurston [Dorance], is the autobiography of the man who is now the only surviving member of the old school of magicians. He tells none of his tricks, but he is not so secretive about his travels and his meetings with the great. Being some one who saws people in two and produces them unscarred afterwards, and who wheedles a bunny out of the neck of the fat gentleman in the front row, never looks very alluring from the footlight side of the stage, except to children. It looks like hard work with lots of chances for the saw to backfire. But Thurston finds it as magic as his magic itself. By the way, did anybody ever hear him called Howard before?

African Beauty Lives in Book by Baldridges

While Time Stands Still for Simple People.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"White Africans and Black," by Caroline Singer and Cyrus Le Roy Baldridge. [Norton.]

Again the Baldridges have done a de luxe travel book in every sense of the word. "Turn to the East" was one of the most beautiful books, in illustration, type, context, of any book of its kind for years. The same thing can be said, without reservations, about "White Africans and Black." Mr. and Mrs. Baldridge spent fourteen months in west Africa, Mr. Baldridge recording his impressions with a pencil and a brush, Mrs. Baldridge, Caroline Singer, recording them in words. The result is a rarely beautiful, rarely honest and dignified volume. The physical beauty of the book is what, of course, catches the eye of the beholder.

On every page there is a sketch, many pages are filled with them and the pages themselves are marvels of beauty and balance of type and illustration. Mr. Baldridge assisted William Edwin Rudge, the eminent typographer, in the manufacture of the book. The artist makes savage Africa live with the beauty of line and contour which artists always have known existed in its natives. He has not found them grotesque or repulsive. His is a faithful pencil, and brings to his audience a more vivid, more alive, less animal African than tradition has been wont to present. It is not, however, until one reads the really keen and understanding interpretation of the "savages" that one realizes how false has been much of that tradition.

Caroline Singer writes of the people and the things they saw, as her husband draws them, with an honesty and a faithfulness, also with great beauty, and a genial sort of humor. Read this paragraph for instance. Doesn't it give the feeling of the insensibility to the passing of time? "How old this man is no one knows. Time in Africa is blurred. Blacks know not their ages, nor do they care. They are born into a world of changeless green, into a communal society which subordinates the individual to the tribe. The sun comes up; the sun goes down. Sowings there are and reapings, sowings and reapings. Ultimately, man is conquered by spirits. For another world he quits this one of changeless green. The tribe goes on. For many whites . . . time redivides into periods between arrivals and the dates when home leaves are due. And thus it is that clocks in west Africa so universally are stopped while calendars go on, the days ticked off with pencil marks."

Caroline Singer understands her heroes and heroines even when they are most remote from western civilization—even in those moments when they present the most ludicrous picture. "Out of a mud hut," she says, "I saw a Kru come wearing an excellent tweed cap, patently of English make, an immaculate dress shirt, and a black silk tie. His legs were bare. He carried a malacca walking stick, and dangling upon his bosom was a monocle which I am sure no oculist prescribed for him."

She sees in that picture, "the carefree spirit of these sea-gypsies and their love for European things." She catches the gayety and charm of their incongruous lives.

"Majesty That Doth Hedge a King"

This Ashanti chieftain, drawn by Cyrus Leroy Baldridge, formerly of Chicago, now of New York, is one of the many illustrations in "Africans, White and Black," a book resulting from the recent African tour of Mr. Baldridge and his wife, Caroline Singer.

Greely Expedition Tragedy Re-echoes in Recent Book

"The White Betrayal," by Hellmuth Unger [Brentano's], is the dramatic story of the twenty-five men who, with two Eskimos, set out for the pole in the '90s as members of Greely's ill starred expedition.

Rather than a technical account of a polar expedition the author has created a poetic legend of men who fought the last fight against the arctic wilds entirely alone without the aid of either man or machines.

The tragedy happened over thirty years ago. It was an international scandal.

Now the narration of it makes merely a tense and dramatic tale almost quaint in its simplicity.

At least two of the six survivors of the Greely expedition still are alive, Lieut. Greely, who headed the expedition, is now Maj. Gen. Greely, retired, after nearly 70 years of military and public service. His assistant, Sergt. Brainard, attained the rank of brigadier general after nearly forty years of military service which extended to July, 1918.

LOOK UP A WORD A DAY!

Absolutely Authoritative

More than 380 specialists and editors, each an expert in his own particular branch of learning, were employed in making the New Standard Dictionary.

One Vocabulary Order

The entire content of the dictionary is arranged alphabetically in one vocabulary, so that there is one place and one only in which to look for any required word. All place, personal, and other proper names are included, thus avoiding the necessity of referring to any one of several special departments for the information sought.

Two Pronunciation Keys

Two keys are used in respelling for pronunciation, the Revised Scientific Alphabet and the old Textbook Key.

Common Meaning First

The common, present-day meaning of every word is given first, where it can be most easily found. Then follow the rare and obsolete meanings, for which there is less call.

Definitions That Define

Definitions are made by definitive statement, not by synonyms. They are profusely illustrated by apt quotations, every one of which is located as to author and publication.

Synonyms and Antonyms

More than 23,500 synonyms are carefully discussed in special treatments, bringing out the fine shades of difference in the meaning of allied words and giving many explanatory sentences. 7,500 synonym lists and 5,000 antonyms are included in these treatments.

Many Other Helpful and Exclusive Features

In addition to the unequaled advantages already cited this great dictionary gives word-finding lists, under the names of arts, handicrafts, fruits, coins, weights, measures, stars, games, trades, etc., by which terms related to each word are brought out in the fullest possible way; a consensus of authoritative opinions on disputed pronunciations that furnishes a splendid guide to correct speaking; a complete list of the national songs of the leading countries of the world with the music, the original words, and an English translation; many tables of a scientific character; exact dates of all births and deaths of the men and women whose names occur in the vocabulary; the location, chapter and verse of all Bible names; the latest population records; locations of all colleges and universities, etc.

Black Forest Doll Comes to Life in Attic

That's One of Stories for Modern Children.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

[Director of children's work in the branches of the Chicago public library.]

Could there ever be another Pinocchio? Well, perhaps not, but certainly Josephine Siebe in her "Kasperle's Adventures" (Macmillan) has given us, if not another Pinocchio, a jolly companion for him who will take his place beside that of Lorenzini's famous puppet, and share with him the affections of the children of the 8-10 year group.

This delightful tale comes to us from the heart of the black forest and tells the story of a little Kasperle, original model for the celebrated Kasperle dolls, who comes to life in the attic of the old dollmaker's hut after a ninety years' sleep. The kindly old craftsman recognizes at once the strange little figure which had been the inspiration of his forefathers, and attempts to keep him safely hidden in the forest, but Kasperle has awakened to see the world, and he eludes his kind captors and sets out on his adventures. And what adventures they were! He is a mischievous, queer looking little fellow with his bright, twinkling eyes, his long pointed nose, and his broad grin, but he is a lovable little elf who is going to make his way into the hearts of our American children even as he long ago captured those of the little ones of Germany. The illustrations by Frank Dobias reflects the joy and humor of the text, and the book is one of those gifts of the translator which makes us wonder why it was so long in coming.

For this age, also, there are two new information story books, Hildegarde Swift's "Little Blacknose" [Harcourt-Brace] and Kurt Wiese's "The Chinese Ink Stick" [Doubleday-Doran]. The first is the story of the De Witt Clinton, the first locomotive built for the New York Central, now on exhibition in the Grand Central station in New York City. It tells the story of little Blacknose from its beginning in the foundry to its retirement, and will be of interest to the child who likes to know facts about things.

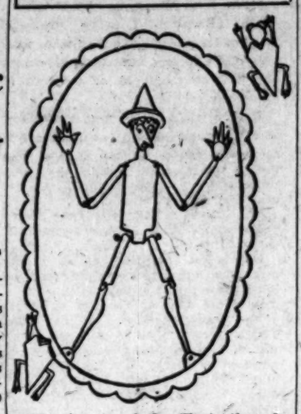
Kurt Wiese's book is a story of Chinese life told by the Ink Stick as it passes from the hands of one person to another, beginning with the bamboo painter and closing with the school boy. The author spent many years in China, and no doubt the background is authentic, but the story element is not strong. The book is a series of incidents and character sketches, an arrangement that results somewhat in a sense of confusion.

It is a book for special use with a particular child, and not for the average. The illustrations by the author are very good.

Cornelia Meigs in "The Crooked Apple Tree" [Little Brown] has written another good story for the older children [12-15]. It is a story of two young orphans in the care of a guardian in whose nature sentiment plays a small part. The children's love for each other, and for Nora, who has been a mother to them, makes their life happy, despite threatened poverty and seperation. Their courage and loyalty are finally rewarded, and they are a happy family when they move to the house of their dreams on Apple Tree Hill. Although the characterization is somewhat poor, particularly in the case of the guardian, and the book is nat so good as some of the author's earlier ones, the interest is well sustained throughout, and the story is a wholesome one, well told. Both boys and girls will enjoy it.

Teachers, librarians and others called on to prepare programs for book week, starting Nov. 17, will find "The Magic of Books" [Dodd-Mead], a collection of poetry, prose and plays for book week, exceedingly useful.

FOR CHILDREN



This is one of the illustrations by Remo Bufano of his dramatization of the world famous story of the marionette Pinocchio. He calls the book "Pinocchio for the Stage."

CONRAD, STRINDBERG REINCARNATED IN TWO CHICAGO CHATS

Memories of two famous international literary figures blossomed this week in the minds of two famous visitors to Chicago. While I was talking to Bertrand Russell, whose mind is that most attractive of all minds, a perfectly crystal clear, unsentimental, amused, but kindly mind, I mentioned quite casually Joseph Conrad.

To my surprise Bertrand Russell had known him, not at all casually, but very well indeed. One of the great regrets of my life is that I never met the man who, to me, was the greatest novelist of his time, and one of the great writers of all time. I snatch up every human bit that ever comes my way about him.

"What was he really like?" I asked eagerly, remembering the bits that Hugh Walpole had told me—that Conrad spoke with a decided, at times very difficult accent, but that when he dictated he used perfect and perfectly pronounced English, remembering the "Life and Letters" which were such a tragic record of success come too late.

"He was primarily the Polish gentleman," Mr. Russell replied. "There was nothing of the sailor about him. He was lavish. He had the grand manner. Unless you have ever seen that spectacular lavishness of the old régime, Conrad is impossible to picture.

"In his work he was a Victorian romanticist. It would be impossible to write like Conrad today, because no one could think like Conrad. . . . No one who knew him ever heard him talk about his private affairs, although he would talk for hours about his private thoughts, his principles."

Mr. Russell was in Chicago only for a day, en route to somewhere in America which is the address of many lecturers. He returns to Chicago in November of lectures. His "Marriage and Morals" is just off the press.

Carl Milles is Sweden's most distinguished sculptor. He was talking about his student days in Paris. He was very poor, he lived on nothing. He saw a sign over a small restaurant "La Mere des Artistes" [The Mother of Artists]. He went in. The walls were hung with pictures, three and four on top of each other, the gifts of grateful patrons. The "mother" was a French woman who—it eventuated—loved his countryman Strindberg. Strindberg had lived with her for months. Her stories of him were incredible. He never walked into the room through the door. He always climbed over the low window, for he said that devils were in the doorway [he was mad even then, years before the world called him so].

"I ate all of my meals there at first," Mr. Milles said. "Soon I ate only my chocolate in the morning, for I could not eat Strindberg for luncheon and for dinner, too. She talked of nothing else. He was an artist as well as a writer. He painted this way. . . ."

Mr. Milles took two pieces of paper in his hands. "On this canvas he put some colors. On that canvas other colors. Then he put them together and threw them on the floor and stamped on them. When he lifted them and separated them he had two pictures, both of them of the sea in trouble. He always painted a storm at sea. His pictures are hanging in galleries today. That is the way he painted them, always the same subject, always the same way, with a ship painted in afterwards. . . . He wrote to the Mere des Artistes, begged her to go to Stockholm to marry him, begged her for her photograph.

"I spent the day, all of the day Sunday, choosing her dress, choosing her shawl, taking her to the photographer, getting her picture taken. When we returned I was hungry. She gave me a cup of coffee. A cup of coffee, and I had worked all day as I had not worked before! But the picture pleased Strindberg. He wrote her a letter. I remember its very words. 'I love the picture. When I awake in the morning I put it on my write table. When I go to bed I put it on my night table.' In a few months he was engaged to a sixteen year old actress in Stockholm. He married her. He was indeed mad."

Louise Jordan Miln Was Born in Macomb, Ill.

It will be news to many that Louise Jordan Miln, author of the famous "Mr. Wu," was born in Macomb, Ill., and was brought to Chicago when she was three years old. She didn't see China—which has provided her with the background for her many very successful novels—until she was twenty-four years old.

She entered Vassar, but at the age of eighteen she went on the stage. In her first season she played forty-two small rôles in forty weeks, and some of the rôles were with Edwin Booth. She married an English actor and has seven children, four boys—all of whom were in the royal air force—and three girls.

Mr. Miln died during the great war and Mrs. Miln lives in London with a daughter. Her visits to China have been numerous, but her interest in China began when she was a child and met a Chinese laundryman in a San Francisco Sunday school.

Her latest novel is "By Soochow Waters" and is about an English girl who first encounters oriental culture and is suddenly exposed to the romance of China and to the stimulating friendship of a true Chinese gentleman.

Australians Pick Dickens, London, Sinclair as Authors

The Western Australian took a census of the favorite authors of its readers. The votes were for Charles Dickens first, Jack London second, Upton Sinclair third, Alexandre Dumas fourth, Edgar Wallace fifth, William Makepeace Thackeray sixth. Upton Sinclair seems to be their favorite living novelist. H. G. Wells is number nine on the list, John Galsworthy number eleven, Zane Grey number thirteen, P. G. Wodehouse seventeen and Bernard Shaw eighteen.

Jeannette Stratton Porter Completes Mother's Book

Jean Stratton Porter often had planned to write the sequel to the romance of Freckles and the swamp angel. She died, however, without having done it, but left her notes and plans with her daughter, Jeannette Stratton Porter, who has just written "Freckles Comes Home." The story is concerned with what happened to Freckles after he was taken to the Irish home of his newly discovered relations, the O'Mores, and how he longed for his old carefree life in the Limberlost and how he "came home."

The QUEST for CERTAINTY

The New Book by

JOHN DEWEY

In this, one of the very great books of our time, Dr. Dewey epitomizes his philosophy of the modern world. James Harvey Robinson says: "Dr. Dewey's object is to present a new way of thinking appropriate to the new world in which we find ourselves. He reviews all the old paths taken in the perennial 'quest for certainty' and shows that they lead nowhere. He explores a new one, the existence of which has only lately been suspected. The new road to security promises to lead to as many miracles as the old wayfarers ever imagined, and to idealistic aspirations immune from disillusionment." $4.00.

Ex-Marine Sergeant Divides $25,000 War Novel Prize

Last year Houghton Mifflin Company and the American Legion Monthly offered a $25,000 prize for the best war novel. Stories came in from all parts of the world, and from these the distinguished board of judges selected two—"GOD HAVE MERCY ON US!" by William T. Scanlon, and "IT'S A GREAT WAR!" by Mary Lee—of such equal merit that the prize was divided between them.

Scanlon's outfit was the 97th Company of the Marines in the Second Division of the A. E. F. His book is an epic of the hard-boiled Marine, a story of blood, fighting, and adventure that Major General Harboard calls "an undying picture of life as an enlisted man lived it."

Mary Lee writes from first-hand experience of the war behind the lines in a novel that Marquis James, author of "The History of the American Legion," says is "The best World War story I've ever read."

Houghton Mifflin Company will publish "IT'S A GREAT WAR!" ($3.00) and "GOD HAVE MERCY ON US! ($2.50) on October 25 and orders sent now to any bookstore will be filled on publication.—Adv.

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Douglas Darling, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the perjured testimony of Cora Sefton, an unscrupulous woman in love with him. In revenge, because he scorned her advances, she swears she saw him kill a policeman in a night club raid.

Darling is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and spare her sorrow he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris, and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown; is shaved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel, where, to his amusement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Darling followed by Cora on his arrival and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married. Disillusioned and heartbroken, she leaves for London.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aylmer Granston, in the lobby and accepts an invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately he is obviously in his employ. He directs her to bring her mistress with a few days to a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland.

That night, while Darling is dining with the Granstons, Malleron calls. Later Cecily comes in, not knowing Doug is there. She greets him frigidly and creates a sensation by announcing she hears he is married.

Doug goes to see Cora and asks her to explain all the mystery. She refuses, but tells him he is to go to Mortvaig, Scotland, to meet her chief. He agrees, but first visits his mother at Darling Towers. Cecily's father, Charles Warren, who lives on the fringe of the Darling estate, calls and remarks casually that his daughter has taken a job furnishing a millionaire's house. Doug is struck by the coincidence in names. Can he, by any chance, be Cora's chief?

At Mortvaig Doug can learn only that, in return for his freedom, he is being blackmailed into a mysterious service as an airplane pilot. He takes off for his first trip little knowing Cecily is on board drugged.

Charles Warren, who is in the government secret service, though this is not known to his friends, takes a holiday at home. Detective Inspector Rason of Scotland Yard calls in conference. He believes Harris' escape from prison was a carefully planned one and links it with a gang of smugglers whom he and Warren are pursuing. He has traced the car in which Doug was rescued to a London furniture company. Warren says this same company sent Cecily to Scotland. Rason suspects trouble and wires the Mortvaig police.

Landing at his island base, Doug is shown about by another pilot, Lieut. Beresford. On his return to Mortvaig he is permitted to go down to London for a few days, and he plans to shake himself free of the gang. He calls on Cecily to explain everything to her, but is told by Mr. Warren that Cecily has disappeared from Mortvaig. Her maid returned without her and could shed no light on the disappearance. When Douglas sees Cecily's maid he remembers that he had seen her at the Mortvaig airdrome and suspects that she is one of the gang. With a shock he realizes that he must have carried Cecily to the island and that she is being kept a prisoner there by the chief. He decides to return for her at once, but he does not tell Mr. Warren of his suspicions.

Arrived at the island, he asks to see Miss Warren, and, greatly to his surprise, he is allowed to see her.

He arranges for her escape and manages to land her in England. He is pursued by a seaplane, however. He flies inland; then, heading the plane again toward the sea, he bails out in a parachute. His plane is shot down in flames, and Douglas Harris is presumed to be dead. He hurries to London expecting to see Cecily, but is amazed to learn that in some way his plans miscarried and that she has again been captured by the gang.

Failing to obtain news of Cecily Darling, at Cora's request, meets her at a night club. He is drugged and wakes up the next day on a boat at sea. Cecily is also on board. There is something very peculiar about the boat and its passengers. The captain, presuming his innocence, allows Darling to use the small seaplane carried by the boat. The ship's papers register a full tank, but in reality there is not half enough fuel to carry him to land. Darling sees a navy destroyer, comes down on the sea, and requests to be taken aboard. He explains to the commander of the boat, and they go to Cecily's rescue.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.
UNAPPEASED CURIOSITY.

There was a note almost of reverence in Malleron's voice as he mentioned the Chief.

"Lord Dorling, no doubt, is positive," he continued, "that the chart never left his possession after he had taken it from the original. Yet to me, who am a mere outsider, it is perfectly obvious that some agent of the Chief's not only robbed him of his copy but substituted another."

Dorling was not convinced by the explanation, but he had none other.

"Anyhow, chart or no chart, I'm pretty certain I could find my way from Mortvaig to the island—if you care to let me try, sir," he said to Warren.

"I'll accept that offer, Douglas," said Warren promptly. "It may come to nothing—but we must leave no stone unturned. . . . But you haven't got as yet where they land the stuff—on the mainland, I mean."

"Mortvaig. That is to say, about ten miles southward along the coast."

"We searched that part pretty thoroughly."

"It's camouflaged like the island. It's an old-fashioned, rambling sort of house—probably an old manor house. Behind the house are the workshops and shed. There's a carpet of faked grass on top of the shed. The road goes on to a marsh. In four hours that marsh can be turned into a lake, by means of a sluice-gate and a small river that runs into the sea just there."

"I fancy you will find—the chief—has been living at the point of a revolver all his life."

"What's the idea of the marsh and the flood-gates?" asked Warren.

"So that when your fellers go by, looking for a place where they could get up or land, they see the marsh—where you couldn't possibly land—and move on."

Warren was making notes. There fell a silence while he wrote, which was presently broken by a clerk, who approached Malleron.

"I was to give this into Mr. Warren's hands, sir," he explained and Malleron nodded.

As Warren took the envelope, Dorling felt his pulses tingle. This, no doubt, was the message from Scotland Yard, stating what they had learnt as the result of tapping Cora's telephone.

With maddening slowness, it seemed, Warren reached for a paper knife and split the envelope. Then began a slow perusal of the contents.

Curiosity overcame good manners and Dorling openly watched Warren. It was a single sheet of paper. Warren seemed to be reading it a second time. Then he folded it and put it in his pocket. He looked again at his guests and then at Dorling.

"I take it they must have more than one airplane at this depot of theirs?" he asked.

Dorling was too taken aback to answer. He was burning with anxiety to know the name and nature of the dreaded Chief. Surely Warren would not keep him in ignorance after allowing him to play so important a part!

"I'm referring to the depot near Mortvaig, Douglas," pressed Warren.

"I have no more information to offer beyond what I have given, sir," said Dorling stiffly. "They let me see as little as possible. But they told me they had a stable of four large cars."

"I will wire the local police," said Warren, half to himself.

"Just a minute! That gang is armed. The first time I went there the fellow in charge took pains to explain to me that they had machine guns—and it would take a company of trained soldiers to force their way in."

Warren nodded gravely.

"That's important. We don't want any loss of life. The local police will merely surround the place and arrest any one who comes out. We will make other arrangements for—entering." He got up. "I'm much obliged to you, Malleron, for letting me come here. It makes us the better part of an hour to the good. How soon can you take us to this island, Douglas?"

"I'll start any time you like, sir."

"Good! Good!" said Warren absently. "But we shall have to make a few preparations. If you could come to my flat in two hours—"

"I will if I'm alive, sir."

With a nod to Malleron, Warren left the room. Dorling, resentful of what he regarded as very cavalier treatment, decided to give him time to get clear of the building before following.

At the precise moment when he was about to take his leave, Malleron spoke.

"Onlookers, my dear Lord Dorling, see most of the game. I am an onlooker. That is why Warren likes to discuss his plans with me."

"O, yes!" said Dorling indifferently. Along with Malloran, he felt an instinctive dislike of the man welling up within him.

"Indulge an old man's vanity—and let me make a prophesy." He was beaming benignantly but Dorling avoided his eye.

"I prophesy that—the Chief—will approach you with an offer."

"The Chief!" echoed Dorling. "He's probably under lock and key by now." He was far from believing his own words but, oddly, Malloran incited him to a vague defiance.

"Caught with a pinch of salt on his tail!" chuckled Malloran. "Even under lock and key, I think he would still make you the offer.

"The depot at Mortvaig," continued Malleron, "is lost to him. A comparative trifle, I imagine. The loss of a few thousand pounds worth of material—a mere item in the working expenses of such a man. But the mind, I fancy, is not so easily replaceable. . . . Call it, if you will, a mere idle fancy of mine—but the fancy is there. It is, briefly, that he will make you an offer in return for—missing your way to that island."

"Thanks. I don't propose to touch his money."

"O, he won't offer you money! Be very sure of that," wheezed Malleron.

"What, then?"

Malleron had picked up a tiny, jewelled pen knife with which he was sharpening a pencil. For several seconds he continued to sharpen it, then abruptly stopped.

"He will offer you—your life."

There was a note of question in the last word.

"Then he'll get his answer—with this," said Dorling and drew his revolver. Quite unpardonably, he pointed the revolver directly at Malleron. He had acted on impulse, without conscious thought.

For the moment it was as if he knew that he was indeed face to face with the Chief.

Malleron looked without flinching into the barrel of the revolver.

"I fancy that you will find—the Chief—has been living at the point of a revolver all his life."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Put yo' han' in yo' pocket
An' step into line,
Foh the film at th' Roosevelt
Is suttinly fine!

"The Two Black Crows," George Moran and Charlie Mack, have in "Why Bring That Up?" a movie that's worth the price of a ticket.

It's clever and funny,
It talks and it sings,
Deals in punches and thrills
And is plus other things,
Such as story, direction,
Photography swell,
And authentic at-mos-phere
(emphasis on the "mos")
Of stage life as well. . . .

Though Mr. Moran and all others in the cast are okay, A1 and other expressions meaning the goods, Mr. Mack is the picture's magnet. The big, slow moving fellow with his rich, southern drawl and shrewd, kindly face is a unique and winning personality. With no apparent effort or intention he keeps you engrossed, laughing, blinking tears out of your eyes from his first to last bow. If "Why Bring That Up?" has any airpockets you're not aware of them, so wrapped up are you in the performance of this expert, genial pilot. [I almost had heart failure when I thought, maybe, he was going to die in the last reel! You'd think that anybody who sees as many movies as I do would have more sense, wouldn't you?]

Well—I could go on and tell you the story of this piece at length, but I won't. Be it only said that Moran, deserted by his vaudeville partner, meets Mack, temporarily at leisure. The pair decide to try a team act. They put it on. Unbelievable success is theirs—and adventures of various sorts beset the path of the partners. A dark woman enters their lives—but that's telling you more than enough.

"Why Bring That Up?" is the sort of entertainment fans cry for.

What do they cry for when they can have it?

H-h-h-how do I know what they cry for when they can have it?

See you tomorrow!

HARVARD TO DISCUSS RELIGIOUS ISSUES AT TWO DAY SESSION

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Plans were announced today for a seminar concerning relations of Catholics, Jews and Protestants at Harvard, Nov. 12 and 13. President A. Lawrence Lowell of the university will make a formal address at the opening session. The other speakers will be the Rev. Michael J. Ahern and Rabbi Harry Levy.

The seminar is designed, according to announced plans, for the discussion "with utmost frankness, but in a spirit of sincere friendliness, of various questions affecting vocational adjustments, handicaps or restrictions in training, employment and the professions, involving recognition apparently based upon religion or racial grounds."

A second round table will consider "misrepresentation of religious beliefs and practices" and similar subjects, and "how best to lessen or effect their elimination."

"It is confidently expected," the announcement states, "that out of these discussions will evolve some practical method of bringing about the mutual respect and admiration for each other's sincere religious convictions which is so essential to the tranquillity and the prosperity of the republic."

Fear Narrow Views.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 18.—(AP)—American universities perhaps are "becoming technological rather than truly scientific," Dr. Abraham Flexner said today in an address at the ceremonies of dedication of the chair of the history of medicine in the school of hygiene of Johns Hopkins university.

Dr. Flexner, who because of long service was secretary of the general education board, is regarded as an authority on education in this country.

Both Dr. Flexner and Dr. Karl Sudhoff, professor emeritus of the history of medicine of the University of Leipzig, stressed the importance of knowledge of the history of medicine.

Composer of Opera 'Camille' in Gotham; Uses Jazz Music

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Hamilton Forrest, whose opera, Camille, will have its premiere at Chicago on Jan. 8 with Mary Garden and Charles Hackett in leading roles, arrived today on the Aquitania. He leaves tomorrow for Chicago to start rehearsals.

Forrest has been visiting Mary Garden at her chateau in Monte Carlo and for the last three months they worked daily on the score. Miss Garden already has mastered her part of Mary Gautier and arrives here next Tuesday.

The composer says his idea is to make Camille's setting conform to the present.

"The novel is universal in its application," he said. "And I have brought the scenes and the characters up to date. There will be one act in which there will be jazz music. The music will be modern. Miss Garden's role is recitative. In fact the opera really is a musical dialogue, the orchestra preserving modern harmony while the dialogue goes on.

"What I have tried to do is to write my score so as to bring out melody with the new harmony. Never in the history of music has there been anything to equal the new harmonies."

Camille will have 19 chief singers, a pianist and 40 in the chorus. The orchestra will be supplemented with banjos and saxophones in the modernistic parts.

Stock Opens Concert Season with Acclaim

Musicians at Midseason Form, Critic Says.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

On one point there can be little argument: the most important feature of Chicago's music begins when Mr. Stock lifts his baton over the first concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Here is music speaking in its own behalf, with no outer adornments of lights or costumes or soloists' personalities, just music and the interpretation thereof by a magnificent orchestra and one of the world's great conductors.

The outer ritual of yesterday's concert at Orchestra hall was much on the order of other first concerts, a capacity audience hurrying in to take places before the doors closed, in which most were successful; a flutter of applause when the men of the orchestra began to enter the stage; something more than a flutter when the new first cellist, Ennio Bolognini appeared; something louder and more continued when Concertmaster Gordon became visible at the side of his chair; something almost approaching an ovation when, last of all, Mr. Stock walked out to the conductor's stand.

There are some new figures in the orchestra this season, and at first hearing they would seem to be musicians of high capability. Mr. Bolognini is to make a solo appearance in two weeks, so about all that can be said about him at present is that the cello section in general had a solid, unwavering but flexible tone of fine quality—that, and a beautifully played bit in the final number. And every once in a while an exquisite tone floated up from the first oboe as played by the newcoming Mr. Honoré.

These, however, are details in the gorgeousness of the orchestra as a whole. In a very few days Mr. Stock has done wonders in rounding off corners and making the orchestra speak with a single, collective voice. I have never heard a first concert where everything seemed so ready and responsive. It was practically midseason form, and that is saying quite a bit, even for the Chicago Symphony.

The program began with the third "Leonore" overture, and it was a marvel of Beethoven playing, with a sweep and contrast and interplay that set new standards for this standardized work. Then came the second symphony that Brahm wrote, and this was something that would have satisfied the most ardent Brahmin of them all.

An intermission followed to allow those who heard Toscanini to say that he was a great man, but that Mr. Stock was pretty good, too, then back to hear the glittering, highly colored bit of virtuosity that Maurice Ravel put into notes under the name of the "Rapsodie Espagnole"—a stunning performance it was—and finally the last number, the Bacchanale and Finale from the "Tannhäuser" overture.

According to the title this would have been the last half of the overture, but, instead, Mr. Stock followed the Bacchanale through the entire first scene of the opera. Then, just as you expected Tannhäuser to wake up and say that it had been a pleasant vacation, but really he must get back to the business of a song competition in the Wartburg, the Pilgrims' chorus was softly played on muted cellos—a new and exquisite effect—and the orchestra built up to the smashing chords with which the overture ends.

And it became the high and memorable point after a whole succession of performances of the opera.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Joseph E. Smith, 1589 West Van Buren street, was awarded $5.

THE QUESTION.

What is your pet peeve in motoring?

The Answers.

Crosly Liske, 75 East Wacker drive, artist—The fellow that does not stay within the traffic line, but wabbles around in a seemingly aimless way. The fellow that displays no regard for other motorists. In short, any one who fails to recognize the laws written or understood among motorists.

Bernard J. Toomey, 7915 Morgan street, salesman—Road hogs. The man or woman who drives in the center of the road, not keeping to the right, as all slow moving cars should do, but rather tending to edge to the left when the mirror reflects the approach of another car. The real driver always gives the other fellow a chance.

W. S. MacMillan, 110 North Waller avenue, plumber—Driving on the wrong side of the street, especially the driving on the left of street cars to get ahead of them. Just today I saw a near smashup due to a driver using the left side to rush ahead of a Madison street car. Those who do the wrong thing anywhere are the contributors to our casualty lists.

L. A. White, Allerton house, claim adjuster—I have been driving for fifteen years and have become quite immune to peeves. Why should any one lose his temper and bother about the traffic? It is true once in a while I become irritated, but it doesn't do me a bit of good nor the other fellow, either.

Stanley Mazurka, 1636 South Home avenue, Berwyn, Ill., apprentice printer—The bright light, searchlight fellow. The fellow who takes up more than his share of the road. The heavy traffic on the west side's east and west streets. Being held up for minutes at Cook county's many grade crossings, when subways should be built.

Daughter of Countess Cathcart Engaged at 16 to Ted Medlam, 20

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The engagement of the 16 year old daughter of Vera, countess of Cathcart, was announced today. Dolores de Grey Warter, who is the countess' daughter by a former marriage, met her fiancé, 20 year old Theodore Medlam, a year ago. "They are only youngsters, it is true," the countess is quoted as saying, "but I gave them my blessing. I was married at sixteen and my daughter believes with me in early marriages. Romance is the salt of life, isn't it?"

The countess of Cathcart was the center of a controversy with the American immigration authorities in 1926 when she visited the United States. She was detained on her arrival in New York on an allegation involving "moral turpitude." After a lengthy fight she was permitted to land on a limited permit and finally won her right to enter the United States for a visit. In 1923 the countess was named corespondent in a divorce suit brought against the earl of Craven.

Field Museum Now Has Real Maori Council House

One of the six remaining "council houses" of the Maori natives of New Zealand is possessed by the Field museum of natural history. In times past the birth of a son or heir to the principal chief of a Maori tribes was an occasion celebrated by the building of a "council house." The Field museum's example is 50 feet long, 20 feet wide and 14 feet high. Its upright timbers are carved with figures of worshiped ancestors and gods. The buildings were used for councils by the chieftains and as guest houses.

Caldwell Asks More Time in Famous Case

Not Yet Ready to Offer McAndrew Apology.

President Caldwell will recommend to the board of education that action on the Mullenbach resolution, submitted at Wednesday's board meeting, be postponed. Mr. Caldwell would wait until after the appeal of former Superintendent William McAndrew, from the board's ouster order, is setled in Superior court, he said yesterday.

The resolution, sponsored by Trustee James Mullenbach, demanded that the school board apologize to the Chicago public for the "so-called" McAndrew trial. It condemned ex-Congressman John J. Gorman, leading witness, who made a retraction last week to Prof. David Saville Muzzey of Columbia university. Mr. Gorman had charged the professor's history of America was biased in favor of the British view of the American revolution. The Gorman retraction caused the dismissal by counsel of a $100,000 libel suit against Mr. Gorman.

"I believe with Mr. Mullenbach that the school board should apologize for the McAndrew ouster, but I don't expect that resolution ever to come to a vote," said Mrs. W. S. Hefferan. She is a trustee who supported Mr. McAndrew during his trial. At that time his other supporters were Mr. Mullenbach and Dr. Otto L. Schmidt. The trustees remaining on the school board who supported the ouster of Mr. McAndrew, an action pledged during the mayoralty campaign of William Hale Thompson, are Theophilus Schmid, Oscar Durante, John A. English, James Hemingway, and J. Lewis Coath, then president. Mr. Caldwell succeeded Mr. Coath as president.

James Todd, attorney for the school board at the trial in which pro-British sympathies and insubordination were charged against Mr. McAndrew, denounced yesterday the anti-King George aspects of that trial.

"I refused to participate in the pro-British phase of the trial," he said. "It is up to the public to judge whether that part of it was bunk. I am only interested in my status with the board as head of its legal department."

Mr. Gorman, who was made a special assistant corporation counsel following Mayor Thompson's election, sent to President Caldwell an open letter last night explaining the retraction made to Prof. Muzzey. As a special assistant corporation counsel, he was on the city's pay roll for $10,000 a year and was assigned to the school board, which has and then had its own legal department.

According to James Breen, then and now an assistant corporation counsel, Mr. Gorman was hired for "special school board service," then was dropped from the city hall pay roll Jan. 1, 1928, after he had rendered those services. In his letter to Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Gorman said:

"What I have retracted are observations at the McAndrew trial when I testified as a witness. Although I believed them to be true, they should not have been uttered, because it was my duty as a witness merely to point out objections to the histories."

He should not have said the histories were pro-British, although he entertained such a belief, according to the letter. Mr. Gorman asked for a chance to explain his case to the school board.

Plenty of Sleep Is Foundation of Child's Health

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Play Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans for mothers of pre-school children will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A few more notes on sleep today and we'll drop the subject, though it's large enough for a book, with all there is to say about its effects, and habits of sleep, and favorable conditions for it.

The trilogy of outdoors and food and sleep are needs of childhood we all know. But that lack of one usually affects the other two you may not have thought about. It goes something like this: The child who hasn't enough sunshine and air is not apt to eat well. The undernourished child is not apt to sleep well. The child who doesn't sleep well is tired and often hasn't the energy to play outdoors. And also, a tired child often cannot eat well. So it's like the dog chasing his own tail. It's an example of the well known old vicious circle.

One or two facts might be interesting to the parents of adolescent boys and girls. The faster the body is growing, the more sleep it needs, and at adolescence the growth of the body speeds up again, so at that time girls and boys need much more sleep than they usually get. Lack of sleep at 13, 14, and 15 accounts in a great measure for the lassitude of those years. Though children may vary a little in their sleep needs, some individuals needing more and some less, a careful tabulation of their average requirements has value. These figures mean sleep for the whole twenty-four hours:

The baby at birth needs twenty-one or twenty-two hours of sleep.

The baby 6 months old needs eighteen hours.

At a year he needs sixteen hours of sleep.

From 2 to 4 he needs fourteen hours.

From 6 to 7 years of age he should have eleven hours.

From 8 to 10 he needs eleven hours of sleep.

Then at 13, 14, and 15 he needs from ten to twelve hours of sleep, though he will undoubtedly argue the point. But it is not only his present but his future well being that is at stake. All these years are foundation years, often spelling the difference between vitality and lack of it in later years.

From 16 to 18 years the requirements given are from nine to ten hours of sleep.

The smart simplicity of line with snug fitting hips will make this frock a generally becoming one. The kerchief scarf tie and the trimming pieces on the sleeves, if made of a plain silk crêpe, will provide the right contrast to a printed sheer velvet in claret red. The horizontal tucks at the waistline and the graceful, flaring skirt complete the frock.

The pattern, 2836, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

Rather Large.

My most embarrassing moment of my life took place a few days ago. I was going to purchase a pair of hose in a loop department store. The hosiery counter was right next to the glove counter. I had a piece of brown material in my purse which I intended to use to match a pair of stockings. Not stopping to look I took the material out of my purse and handed the sample to the sales girl and said, "I want a pair of size 10 to match this brown."

Imagine how foolish I felt when she said, "Sorry, madame, but we do not carry such large gloves."

I sure felt like 2 cents when I found out I was standing by the wrong counter. E. E. F.

Woman Complains That S. A. Is Stronger than Office Ability

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"In a recent article you said that efficiency goes farther than sex appeal in an office. I take decided exception to that statement.

"I am a mother and in need of work badly for the support of my two children. I have had considerable business experience, yet in making application for office work I find that employers all prefer the younger women with not nearly the amount of experience nor the excellent references that I have. Why? Because they prefer the flapper type.

"I am in my thirties, a widow, with full responsibility of my children and therefore, with a greater incentive for rigid application to my work. I am not homely. I use good taste in dress; am thoroughly modern—yet I am considered too old to exert the sway of sex appeal, so am not even considered for office positions. MRS. F. H."

I challenge the statement that the sway of sex appeal has that much influence on a job hunt—unless employers, generally, are far more susceptible emotionally than I've been led to suspect. I don't like the statement, more because it is a stupid one to make than that it enters a charge against the other sex. They can easily enough defend the charge, and I don't know that they'd have to do more than permit inspection of their organizations to prove that favored applicants are not all Clara Bows.

If the challenge had been made on the grounds of preference for youth I would have had to agree that youth has the better opportunity at certain kinds of office work, such as my correspondent claims proficiency in—typing. And there's no question but age becomes a serious handicap to women seeking office work of any kind. It isn't, however, a discrimination against the female sex any more than against the male. Youth, right or wrong, is the preferred asset in American business life. It is not sex appeal.

On the other hand, however, the opportunities for older women were never so great as they are in America today. Astounding opportunities in original fields unfold daily.

Police Join Move to Help Youngsters Keep Out of Trouble

That well known slogan whispered on many streets for generations, "The cops'll get you if you don't watch out," need be whispered no longer. The blue coated policeman is the best friend of every boy and girl on his beat, no matter what some folks may say to the contrary.

That assurance is being made known through the work of the Youths' Service bureau, newly organized as a contact between 94 welfare organizations of the city and county and the state's attorney's office. Replacing the old cry of fear at the mention of "policeman" will be a new one: "Let us be friends and help each other." That is the bureau's slogan.

At a meeting yesterday in the city hall plans for the newly established bureau were pushed forward by the board, which is composed of representatives from the various organizations. Dr. Charles A. Gage, head of the bureau, who presided, told of its purpose. It is to create between the policeman on his beat and the boys and girls a better understanding, in which the policeman is to aid youthful citizens to avoid a path of crime. He is to become a helper rather than a "cop" hunting criminals.

The organization's headquarters are to be established in room 507 of the county building and will be under the jurisdiction of the state's attorney's office.

This Is the Time of Year to Walk Four Miles a Day

Said a woman after a two-day period of taking down curtains, shifting books and pictures, and moving the lighter pieces of furniture to make ready for the fall cleaners: "That's the hardest two days' work I've done since a year ago this time and my muscles are so lame I'll have to oil them."

Now, in the average apartment there is not sufficient muscular effort required to keep the muscles in daily trim. I'm not speaking of the type of woman with a large ménage and a good sized family to keep her muscularly active. Rather about the cave dwellers whose labor saving devices are so complete as to prohibit any satisfactory amount of muscular work. And the average downtown worker has even less muscular energy to her credit unless she is one of the rare health-seekers who does her daily sprint to work and back. So that the wonder is that women on the whole are as young appearing as they are. Of course, they have the lighter silhouette craze to thank somewhat. For if they ate heartily in addition to the little exercise they would become middle aged and heavy looking long before their time.

The muscles of the body are the strings that govern the whole puppet show, so to speak. If they're stiff, so are we. If they're old, ditto. And what a way they have of complaining about their neglect, too. Put a little strain on them after a long enforced idleness and they can make life miserable for us for a day or two.

Muscles must work. It's their only business. And they should be in such condition as to permit a reasonable amount of hard work for their own good and for ours, too. Like other things, however, they will not work unless intelligently guided.

This is an excellent time of year to make resolutions about getting some of the youthful vigor back again behind the muscles. It's the superb time for that daily hike of three or four miles, crowding as many of the miles into an hour's time as you can. That's the way you get active walking and better muscles and more youth as a result.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

DOT M.: THE EXCESS FAT ON the upper arms may be taken off with the arm circling exercise. It is done as follows: Assume a correct standing position. Extend the arms full length. Begin to describe circles with the extended arms and hands. Begin with small ones and increase to circles of as large dimension as you may describe without putting the body out of position. Begin by describing five circles on the forward and five on the backward movement—and gradually increase the number of times.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

The approaching winter is likely to be a severe one on trees in many sections, according to Prof. A. F. Yeager, horticulturist, North Dakota Agricultural college. Hardy plants usually winter kill because they have dried to death in the winter rather than frozen to death, and the extremely dry weather this summer will put the plants in poor condition to resist the drying effects of the coming winter.

It has been found that wet soil does not freeze as easily as dry soil, and it has also been proved that the roots of plants are much less frost resistant than are the tops.

If it is possible, some owners should water trees late this fall after they have matured so that the plant tissues may not dry out so easily and so that the ground will not freeze so deeply, urges Mr. Yeager. While it might not be practical to water a large number of trees, there may be certain specimens which are much prized. These should be given all possible chance to come through this winter safely.

No watering should be done after the ground freezes up. If the plants are watered too early and warm weather follows there might be a tendency to start growth, which would make the plants easier to kill. For this reason delay the watering until just before the ground freezes.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Prune Puree Preparation.

A more delicious dessert can be made out of a simple sieved prune with whipped cream than most people would guess, and if the prunes have been rightfully treated we need not use the slightest bit of sugar. By mingling the cream with the purée any harsh quality in it is modified, but when prunes are rightly treated in the cooking they will not be harsh.

To make a prune purée, prepare and cook the prunes until the skins are tender. The amount of water used in cooking prunes depends somewhat upon the size of the prunes. Medium prunes usually will take two cups of water, and most people prefer to soak them over night in order that the cooking may be only slight. Take the pit out of the cooked prune, using a knife and fork in doing so. If the prunes are cooked enough the pulp will not stick to the pit. Then strain the pulp without any liquid and it is then ready for many a pleasant service.

A prune purée on toast, served hot with whipped cream, makes an excellent and simple dessert. While toasting the bread heat up the purée with a little of the liquid in which it is cooked. For one slice of bread from four to five prunes made into a purée are all that we need. Again the whipped cream on this modifies the quality acceptably.

For prune pudding take one cup of prune purée, one-eighth of a teaspoon of salt, one cup of milk, two or three tablespoons of flour and some chopped prune pit meats. The meats of peach pits and prunes were formerly much used for flavoring, since they gave somewhat the effect of the bitter almond. Mix all these ingredients together, stir over the fire until the flour is well cooked, and the whole mixture is a blend. A little almond flavoring may be used instead of the meats from the pits of the number of prunes that were used for the purée.

When cooked pour this into molds to set and serve it with whipped cream. Three tablespoons of flour will make it stiff enough to mold.

She did not know that "orange pekoe" referred only to the shape of the tea leaves. She learned that it was more important to know the name of the country which produced the tea.

The finest tea in the world is grown in India. Now, she and her friends always look for the map of India on the packages of tea they buy.

The map of India officially declares that the package contains not less than 50% of genuine India Tea.

Nightgown Adopts Much of Formal Styling

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—O, the deadly night shades of our grandmothers! What a far cry from those old cambric gowns with their long sleeves and their high necks are today's modish and diaphanous affairs! Every year these gowns take on reflections of prevailing daytime modes and every year they seem to go farther in the path of elaboration.

Thus the above gown of rose colored pink triple silk voile includes three details of formal fashion. First, it has the raised waist line. Next comes a charming shoulder cape which is edged with Alencon lace and confined by a nosegay of vari-colored flowers. Last, there is the plaited skirt with its scalloped hem line.

The little shoulder cape is of course detachable. It is worn only after the wearer rises and, this being the case, it serves almost in the capacity of an ensemble wrap. Of such ensembles we see much today and nothing can exceed them from the point of view of serviceability.

The negligees of today are apt to follow the princess line dictated elsewhere. Especially is this true of the hostess gown of heavy brocade or lamé. Then there are numerous hostess gowns indicating the raised waist line of the elaborate silhouette. Among the most practical of all forms of negligee one must rate as of prime importance the three-quarters and seven-eighths length coats. These are developed in various materials—satin, pressed panne velvet, sheer velvet—and are developed with many original details of trimming and cut.

BISHOP DUNNE'S FUNERAL WILL BE AT 9:30 TUESDAY

Cardinal Mundelein Will Sing High Mass.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Arrangements for the funeral of Edmund M. Dunne, Chicago bishop of Peoria, who died Thursday night, five days after suffering a stroke of apoplexy, were completed today when the clergy of Peoria conferred with Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Mary's cathedral with Cardinal Mundelein singing the solemn pontifical high mass. On Monday morning at 10 o'clock the parochial school children will attend a solemn high mass offered in memory of the dead prelate, while on Monday night the three hundred priests in the Peoria diocese will gather to chant the office of the dead.

Burial in St. Mary's.

Bishop Dunne's remains will be laid to rest in the beautiful Spalding mausoleum in St. Mary's cemetery on the bluffs of Peoria. His predecessor, Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, is also buried there. These two men guided the destinies of the Catholic religion in this section of the state ever since the diocese was founded back in 1877.

Shortly after the bishop's death at St. Francis hospital his body was removed to the St. Mary's rectory where it will remain until Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. At that time it will be removed to the cathedral, where it will lie in state until the funeral on Tuesday. Members of the Knights of Columbus and Knights of St. George will act as an honorary guard at the bishop's bier until it is placed in its final resting place.

Official Notices Dispatched.

Peoria's clergy today were outlining a plan to take care of priests, bishops and other dignitaries of the church who are expected to attend the funeral services.

W. S. BLOWNEY, BOARD OF TRADE OFFICIAL, DIES

Walter S. Blowney, 58 years old, assistant secretary of the Chicago Board of Trade since 1903, died suddenly of a heart ailment yesterday afternoon at his home in Waukegan. He was stricken while getting off a train in the Chicago and North Western railroad depot at Canal street about 8:30 a. m. yesterday. A doctor noticed him and when friends took him to his home later he was pronounced out of danger, but he suffered a relapse about 2:30 p. m. and died. Mr. Blowney started his business career with the Board of Trade in 1891. He was known to all members of the board. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Russell Blowney of the Westinghouse Electric Elevator company, Chicago, and Edward Blowney of the General Electric company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Rites to Be Held Today for Frederick Armitage

Burial will be at Union Ridge cemetery. Mr. Armitage, an engineer of the Western Electric company, died Thursday. He had been employed in the telephone industry for nearly fifty years and was the fourth oldest employé of the Western Electric company's plant at Hawthorne. He is survived by one sister.

Elmer Finds Damrosch Air's Best Educator

Children and Adults Both Should Listen In.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It will be well for the radio audience to remember that Walter Damrosch's Music Appreciation course, through W-G-N and KYW, 10 to 11 on Friday mornings, is one of the most important contributions in radio today. It is a three year course. That the broadcast utilizes some fifty-three stations and that 5,000,000 is the estimate of the number of school children at present hearing this explanatory orchestral concert are but evidences of its magnitude and importance. My own greatest concern in connection with it is that every grown person outside of school shall be sufficiently impressed with its significance that all will take advantage of the opportunity.

The series actually began last Friday. I paid close attention to both broadcasts and I now know that this lecture-orchestra program is as delightfully entertaining as it is musically instructive. The only thing I took exception to on the first program was Mr. Damrosch's statement that in this course the composers' names will be pronounced as they are in their respective countries. I am unalterably convinced that pronunciation in all things should be guided by our dictionaries.

The concert is in two parts, the first half for children in the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades, the second half for high schools, colleges music clubs, and for you and me.

The program yesterday was devoted entirely to overtures: "The Marriage of Figaro" [Mozart], "Leonora" [No. 3] [Beethoven], "Coriolan" [Beethoven], and "Spring" Goldmark.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, will reenter the air for its series of 1929-1930 Sunday concerts, locally through W-G-N, tomorrow afternoon between 2 and 3 p. m.—note the change of hour from that of last year.

Rites to Be Held Monday for Mrs. F. C. McAuliffe

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie McAuliffe, 42 years old, wife of Chief Frank C. McAuliffe of the fire insurance patrol, will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at Our Lady of Mercy church. Mrs. McAuliffe, who lived at 3251 Belle Plaine avenue, was stricken with a heart attack Thursday night while motoring with her husband, and died within a few hours in the West Side hospital. Besides her husband, two sons and two daughters survive her.

C., B. & Q. MARKS BIRTHPLACE IN AURORA TODAY

A monument upon which it is set forth that the Burlington railroad was born in "Aurora village 80 years ago, Feb. 9, 1849," will be dedicated in Aurora tonight with elaborate exercises at the railroad's passenger station in South Broadway.

Railroad and Aurora city officials and a granddaughter of one of the men who organized the railroad will give addresses. Mrs. William Fletcher Fowler of Aurora is the granddaughter. Her grandfather was L. J. Brady. The men who brought into being the railroad were B. Hackney, A. C. Gibson, and Mr. Brady of Aurora, John Van Nortwick and John Frink of Batavia, and S. F. Gale of Chicago. Mr. Gale was the first president.

Capital of the railroad in the beginning was $25,000. It was called the Aurora branch line and had but 13 miles of track. They ran to what is now known as West Chicago and there made connection with the Galena and Chicago line. The rails were of wood with metal straps on top. The engines burned wood. They drew one passenger car and such freight cars as business warranted.

DRYS NAB 5 MEN AND TWO WOMEN IN JOLIET RAIDS

Dry agents from Chicago raided five places in Joliet last night, taking seven prisoners, two of them women. At 508 Chicago street the raiders arrested Mrs. Pauline Leasure, proprietress of an alleged beer flat, who had 640 bottles of home brew and five gallons of whisky. The agents then arrested George Webb in his saloon at 915 Scott street, seized two barrels of beer and some whisky and gin. At 518 Chicago street they arrested Louis Turk in a cigar store and found a small quantity of wine, whisky, and brandy. Ada Morall and Matt Buffing were arrested in a beer flat at 125 East Jefferson street. Mike Ealocio and Tom Gultac were arrested in a saloon at 540 Chicago street, where home brew, wine, and colored spirits were found.

LEFT $150,000 BY MAN BEFRIENDED 18 YEARS AGO

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Her prospects of receiving $150,000 left by a "poor old fellow" she befriended eighteen years ago were related today by Mrs. Edna Emmert, housekeeper for a local priest.

By the will of Charles Putman, 80 year old South Dakota pioneer, who died last July, she said, she is to receive the remainder of a $250,000 estate after a $100,000 bequest is paid to Mercy hospital at Aberdeen, S. D. A nephew and two nieces are contesting the will.

Mrs. Emmert and her husband gave Putman board and lodging for eighteen months at their homestead in Dakota. He never claimed riches then, she stated, and never intimated that he intended to do anything for them.

LISTERINE as an ASTRINGENT

So many women have written us enthusiastically about Listerine used as an astringent, that we feel duty bound to pass the suggestion on to you. Furthermore, beauty doctors and dermatologists tell us that Listerine is almost ideal for this purpose. Next time you use an astringent in connection with your toilette, give Listerine a trial.

Note how it closes pores, how it tends to tighten sagging muscles and how wonderfully cool and smooth your skin feels after you have used it.

You will find that it accomplishes results equal to those performed by special astringents costing from two to six times as much. Moreover, Listerine protects you against infection. Though gentle in action and healing in effect, full strength Listerine kills even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) germ in 15 seconds. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Tell your husband

It's great after shaving. Doused on the skin full strength, it produces a delightful sensation of invigoration and coolness. And ends all smarting and burning.

"GHOST" WALKS WITH $24,000 FOR FARM BOARD

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Receiving altogether $24,000, the eight men engaged since July 15 in assisting agriculture for the government today had their first pay checks as members of the federal farm board.

The amount included two months' back pay, due because their salaries had been held up pending their confirmation by the senate.

Each member's check for $3,000 covered his salary at $1,000 a month since July 15, the date of their first meeting. The members received checks after their first month's work, but payment on them was stopped by the controller general, who said theirs were not recess appointments because the senate, though on vacation, officially was in session.

Delivery of the checks to the board members' offices was made after their confirmation on Wednesday. One member, William Schilling, representing dairying, was absent from the city.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Which line will prove the stronger? Two coaches, Dick Hanley, convalescing from an attack of tonsilitis, and big round Doc Spears, were asking themselves that question last night as their respective football teams lined for the Northwestern-Minnesota game this afternoon at Dyche stadium.

Hanley tested the Northwestern line last week at Madison and pronounced it fairly good. The Purple players licked Wisconsin, 7 to 0. But a great deal of the credit for the victory went to Henry Bruder, and Bruder, smashing ball carrier and talented punter, suffered a broken leg.

Spears Shakes Head.

Spears watched his line in action last Saturday against Vanderbilt. He wasn't satisfied with the Gophers' 15 to 6 victory. All this week he has been drilling the team on defensive football. And yesterday after Minnesota's arrival in Evanston Spears still was shaking his head and voicing dismal forebodings.

Forty-two thousand spectators are expected to watch the game this afternoon. Dyche stadium will accommodate 50,000 but the lure of the Wisconsin-Notre Dame struggle on Soldiers' field is likely to prevent a capacity turnout. The game starts at 2 o'clock. It is Dad's day at the Evanston university.

For both teams the result may mean the shattering of hopes for a Big Ten gridiron title. Northwestern is a step farther along than is Minnesota. The victory over Wisconsin did that. And had Bruder not been injured Northwestern probably would go into the game this afternoon favored to win.

Dope Favors Gophers.

But because Bruder is forced to watch the game from the sidelines—he's going to the field in a wheel chair—Minnesota is doped to have the edge. The Gophers defeated Coe college in the opening game of the season, 35 to 0. The result of the Vanderbilt game has been mentioned.

The brunt of Northwestern's attack today will fall upon Bergherm, husky fullback. He shared honors in the Wisconsin victory with Bruder. Al Moore of Portland, Ore., substitute for the injured half back, and Calderwood will support Bergherm. Lee Hanley, brother of Coach Dick, will be at quarter back.

Even the pessimistic Spears isn't worrying about Minnesota's back field. Three of them are veterans of last year. Barnhart, quarter back, will direct the attack; Brockmeyer, at half, and Burdick, full back, made good last fall. The fourth member of the back field is Munn, a sophomore, who weighs in at 210 pounds.

What Will Lines Do?

The pre game argument centers over the worth of the two lines. Northwestern depends upon Baker and Oliphant, at the ends; Riley and Farvil or Riehsen at tackle; and Capt. Anderson and Woodward at guard. Erickson will be at center.

A good line—but good enough to stop the heavy charges of Minnesota? Hanley doesn't know.

Bronko Nagurski, famed tackle, will be the king pin of the Minnesota line. He is surrounded by gentlemen of fair twisting nomenclature. There's Pulkrabek at left guard, Oja at center, Jim Rheison at right guard.

Watch those two lines today. Their play will determine whether or not Northwestern is to continue along the path to Big Ten honors, or make way for the march of Minnesota.

Grimm Gets Series Hero Award; Haas Star in 5th Game

Charlie Grimm, Cubs' captain, won the TRIBUNE world series hero award, a tabulation of votes by fans has disclosed. Grimm's consistent playing throughout the five games was a big factor in the decision of the fans. Grimm will receive an honorarium of $100.

Mule Haas, Athletics' center fielder, was voted the outstanding player in the fifth game of the series. It was his homer in the ninth inning, with Max Bishop on base, that tied the score and subsequently enabled the A's to beat out the Cubs. Haas, therefore, takes down the $100 individual game hero prize.

18,000 WATCH MARQUETTE WIN FIRST NIGHT GAME

Sisk, Chicago Boy, Star in 14-6 Victory.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18. — Ghost like figures in Marquette moleskin togs charged up and down the gridiron tonight beneath powerful arc lights and turned back an eery band from Iowa State College of Ames, 14 to 6 in the first after dark football struggle ever decided here.

Eighteen thousand nocturnal spectators made up the largest homecoming football crowd ever gathered in the Marquette staduim, and it was Johnny Sisk, a Chicago lad, who obtained his early football education at St. Viator academy, who upset the dope and turned the tide of victory to Marquette.

Twice the Chicago speed demon carried his 190 pounds through a badly battered Iowa State team on long runs for touchdowns. Those two runs, the first worth 82 yards and the second for 61 yards, tamed the Cyclones.

Bowes Goes Over.

With only a few minutes left the tired Bowes, an agile half back, who led every Iowa State attack, took the situation in his own hands. Starting from midfield he reeled off 15 yards, 10 yards, 12 yards, a few more yards on the next plunge and finally swung accross the Marquette goal line for a touchdown. His last sprint through most of the hill toppers was for 13 yards. Wilcox missed the kick effort for the extra point.

There wasn't any room for money in the hip pockets of this crowd anyway, for W. Frank Cunningham, district enforcement chief for the prohibition department here, announced late this afternoon that while his men would watch the game there would be no arrests of flask toters.

The 18,000 crowd was the best evidence that night football is popular. It was larger by 3,000 than any crowd before which the Marquette team has played in Milwaukee. Back in the days of Red Dunn in 1923 when Vermont and Marquette clashed here 15,000 turned out on a Saturday afternoon.

Cyclone Threat Stopped.

When Sisk's first long run came in the opening quarter Marquette was fighting stubbornly but back near its own goal line. The Cyclones had twisted and swirled with such force that the boys from the tall corn country were within 18 yards of a touchdown before Marquette stopped them.

On the second play Sisk took the ball. Then, like a phantom under those gleaming lights, he sped over the chalk marks, twisting, pivoting and dodging. His speed carried him beyond all danger. He raced on and on until he planted the ball squarely between the uprights. Radick kicked the goal from placement.

There wasn't even a threat of a score until Sisk broke loose again in the third quarter on a 61 yard run.

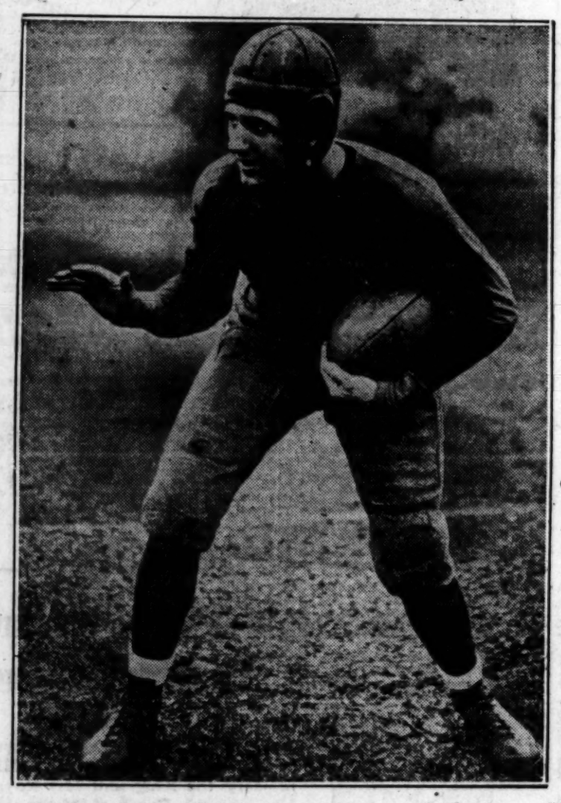
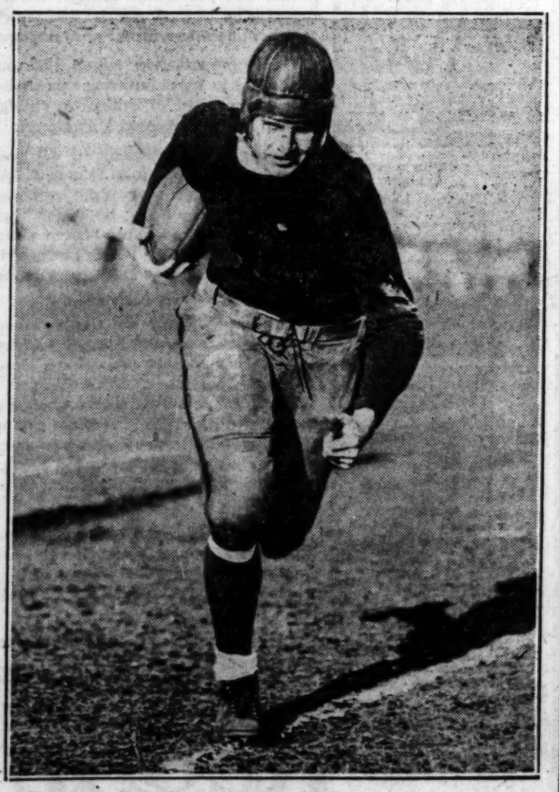
AT DYCHE STADIUM



Win Brockmeyer, half back, is the Gopher star Northwestern will watch today. The Wildcats hold a one point victory over Minnesota from last season and are fighting to uphold their record.



Rus Bergherm is the lad given credit for smashing the Wisconsin line for a 7 to 0 victory last Saturday. Can he do it again today against the Gophers? is the question Northwestern fans are asking.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 18.—Robert C. Zuppke, coach of the 1927 and 1928 Big Ten football champions, who devotes 364 days a year to intensive concentration on football, had his 1929 day off. So this afternoon he bundled his entire troupe of sturdy Illini and took them to see the game between Cornell and Simpson at Mount Vernon, twenty-three miles north of here.

A representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, by persistent plucking at Mr. Zuppke's coat sleeve during the first half of the Cornell-Simpson imbroglio, eventually succeeded in getting the affable football teacher to submit to an interview during the lull between halves, the interview bearing upon the Illinois-Iowa contest in this city tomorrow afternoon.

"Surely you are jesting when you ask me to predict a score of 40 points or more," Mr. Zuppke said.

About That Easy Schedule.

"I understand that Capt. Glassgow and Pape both are going to be in the game at the same time, contrary to bear story pronouncements. With these two boys in the same lineup, their team is a worthy foe for any club in the country.

"After Illinois' victory over Bradley last week I received wires from many scoffers congratulating me at getting past the hardest on the Illinois schedule. I know there have been many flippant persons who have suggested that the Illinois' schedule was drafted with a third consecutive Big Ten title in view. This is ridiculous of course, and the presence of Iowa on our calendar is one of the proofs of this.

"As I have said on other occasions, the only perfect play in football is to give the ball to some fast back and let him run like everything while the other ten men hold 100 per cent. There are a half dozen reasons, some of which we hope to keep secret, why I do not hope to follow this simple, yet difficult fomula this year."

Coach Burt Ingwersen of Iowa, of course, has the usual eagerness to beat his old teacher, but doesn't appear to be getting much happiness out of the prospects. Good old Iowa is carrying a good deal of salt in her wounds these days, you know, what with Big Ten lily whites still lifting the eyebrows in scorn and the additional irritation caused by the deep conviction hereabouts that Iowa twice was flimflammed out of victory in the game with Ohio State a week ago.

There's Rub in Talent.

Counterbalancing these cheerless thoughts, however, is the joyful festival which will attend the dedication tomorrow of Iowa's handsome new $500,000 stadium, to be celebrated in connection with the annual homecoming.

You will recall that in bouncing Iowa out of the Big Ten certain persons made pointed cracks about the manner in which Iowa was proceeding to make the stadium pay for itself. To fill a stadium with a capacity of 43,000, it was figured out, it would be necessary to give the customers an attraction which would attract 43,000 on repeated occasions.

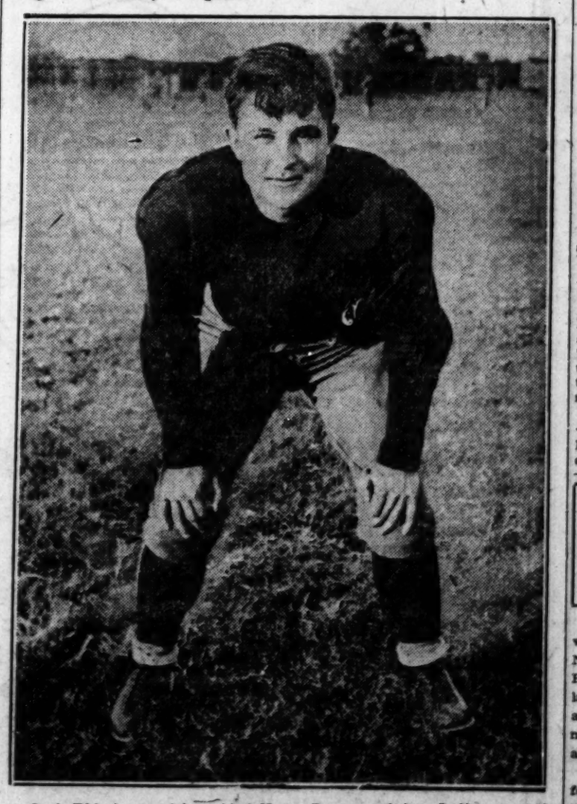
Football talent that was talent was what Iowa wanted to keep filling this fine new stadium. And how to get talent? Ah, there was the rub.

It is not a matter to be pawed over now. But Iowa has the stadium, dedicates it tomorrow, and probably will not tear it down.

Anyhow, the stadium will be filled tomorrow, and with thousands of honest Iowans who still are loyal to the old Gold and Black.

AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

Sammy Behr, the Wisconsin quarter back, will match wits today with Notre Dame's best team since the days of the Four Horsemen. The Badgers won last year's game.



Jack Elder's speed has aided Notre Dame to defeat Indiana and the Navy this year. Today he'll attempt to outrun the Wisconsin defense, and that's just what thousands will go to Soldiers' field hoping to see.

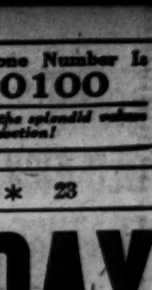
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Notre Dame's 1929 contribution to football science and the cardinal clad eleven of Wisconsin will bow themselves into Soldiers' field at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Because they desire to avenge a jolt given them by the same Badgers last season, the South Benders hope to bow themselves out at the finish as gracefully as they bowed themselves in at the start, but either way there will be some 100,000 folks in attendance to prove they don't build footballs big enough to satisfy Chicago's appetite.



KNUTE ROCKNE.

Although Wisconsin appears to have no fears of what may happen in running against a series of Notre Dame gridiron tourists, there is an under current of feeling that it is going to be a day set aside for South Bend partisans. Rockne, with his relay of troops, can wear ragged even a powerful eleven. The Badgers don't rate as powerful, at least not when consideration is given to frantic efforts made by Coach Thistlethwaite in the wake of the defeat by Northwestern.

Shock Troops on Hand.

Whether Rockne personally will direct the juggling of his multitude is doubtful because of illness, but even if he's absent it is probable that the custom of starting with the shock troops will be followed. The regulars will come on after the first couple of waves of reserves either have worn the Badgers down or the Badgers have proved themselves too tough to be taken lightly.

Thistlethwaite also may be a bit doubtful about his starting lineup until the final moment. He moved men from the line to the back field and vice versa so freely during the week's practice that the fellows met themselves going to and fro. Even after the final practice Thistlethwaite insisted he still was dissatisfied.

If the serious visaged Wisconsin pilot really has a surprise up his sleeve it probably will be revealed as a forward pass attack. His line made no appreciable impression on Northwestern last Saturday and by appearances he hasn't improved it to any extent during the week.

N. Dame Arrives This Morning.

Wisconsin is taking the game as the big affair of its schedule. Almost 20,000 tickets were taken by Badger students and alumni, which assures the largest rooting section that ever has followed a Cardinal eleven to foreign soil.

Like the squad of thirty-five players who will be handled by Assistant Coaches Tom Lieb and Jack Chevigney in the event Rockne is absent, the Notre Dame student body will not start its migration until this morning. The Notre Dame band also is taking the journey in the hope of being able to outtoot the one hundred Wisconsin musicians.

Rockne's physicans yesterday advised him not to accompany the team. He will decide today, after another examination of his leg.

Traffic Rules for Games Today Are Announced

With more than 160,000 expected to witness the Notre Dame-Wisconsin, Northwestern-Minnesota, and Chicago-Ripon games here today, traffic regulations to be observed on Michigan avenue during the day were announced last night by Capt. T. J. Howard of the south park police.

To facilitate movement of cars bound for the Notre Dame-Wisconsin game at Soldiers' field, parking will not be permitted on Michigan avenue, between Randolph street and Roosevelt road, from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. In Grant park, south of Jackson boulevard, no parking will be permitted from 7 a. m. until noon, except to drivers holding tickets to the game at the stadium. Traffic will not be allowed to enter Grant park until the stadium crowd has cleared the park drives.

COMINGORE RIDES OLD KICKAPOO TO FEATURE VICTORY

Beats Greenock by Two Lengths.

Old Kickapoo, five year old son of Runnymede-Napa Girl, decided yesterday that it would be a great day for a horse with an Indian name to win a race called the Indian summer handicap. That was the name of the feature at the Aurora track yesterday and that is just what the Foster gelding did.

Although Greenock was installed the favorite in the Indian Summer yesterday, he had only a slight edge in the betting over Old Kickapoo, for the fans who saw him win the opening feature at Aurora Monday remembered how he had gone out in front and stayed there. He repeated yesterday and at the end of the race was two lengths in front of Greenock, which had a length and a half advantage over Andromeda for the place.

Old Kickapoo went through his usual bad boy paces at the post and it was six minutes before Starter Morrisey got the field of six away. Jockey Comingore took Old Kickapoo out in front and at the half had a length and a half lead over Andromeda. Greenock overtook the latter in the stretch and was closing fast, but Old Kickapoo kept right on going and couldn't be caught. His time for the five and one-half furlongs was 1:05 4-5. He rewarded his backers with $5.54 for each $2 investment, while Greenock was at $3.24 to place.

BOILERMAKERS MEET UNBEATEN DEPAUW TEAM

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—De Pauw's undefeated eleven, boasting one of its best back fields in years, will invade the Ross-Ade stadium here tomorrow to meet the Boilermaker crew in the last home game of the month for Purdue.

Although the Methodists are expected to offer stiffer opposition than usual, Phelan is hopeful of being able to use his reserves during the greater part of the game in order to save the regulars for successive out-of-town games against Chicago and Wisconsin, respectively, the next two Saturdays.

The game marks the twenty-seventh meeting of the two elevens since the series was started in 1889.

Weakened Beloit Eleven Battles Lawrence Today

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Bob Jaggard's Beloit college eleven left today for Appleton, where it plays Lawrence tomorrow. Beloit will present a weakened team because of the loss of Mesenbrink, tackle, who transferred to Valparaiso university last Tuesday, and injuries to Kuick, tackle, and Sheel, guard.

Bartley of London, who holds Royal Warrants of Appointment to His Majesty the King and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, told us that this shoe was worn by prominent college men and predicted that this particular blucher oxford would be the most popular Spectator's Sport Shoe shown this Fall in England.

Our representative tested this out personally by submitting this model and a number of others to college men in a well-known University.

The general opinion of all was expressed by one man who said, "As a shoe for country treks and wet weather I could ask no better," and selected this Martin's Scotch Grain Derby as the shoe which he thought the Varsity men would wear this Fall with Plus Fours and Slacks.

In this country we don't talk of "Country treks, plus fours and slacks" and never describe a model as a "Spectator's Sport Shoe." But it is a pretty good description for a type of shoe to be worn when the streets are sloppy, sidewalks slippery, and you don't want to get "cold feet" when the sun is sinking behind the Stadium in the last Quarter.

Bartley's Original Model has a heavy double sole, with a full leather lining and is made from a special tannage of Martin's of Glasgow Scotch Grain.

As there is only one Genuine Scotch Grain, our representative went to Glasgow to see Mr. Martin personally to hurry shipments to our factory of identically the same tannage that is in Bartley's Original English shoe.

The Lasts are identical in measurements and appearance and the blucher pattern is exactly the same. I don't believe anybody ever attempted to Reproduce a full leather lined shoe, made of Martin's Genuine Scotch Grain for $6.60, and we consider it an achievement in shoe making to offer this Value at this Price.

Now in addition to this famous Genuine Scotch Grain leather lined, double soled blucher oxford, we have thirty-one other Styles of Genuine Scotch Grain, Heather Grain and Holland Grain. High shoes and Winter Oxfords, Plain and Fancy Patterns. Wing Tips, Ball Straps and Saddle Straps.

We believe this represents the most complete line of Genuine Imported High-Grade Leathers ever offered in America, and they're all One Price, $6.60.

Volume makes the Value possible. We make 1,000 pairs to Bartley's one —and every pair looks like Bartley's Original.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The secrecy which has enveloped Michigan's preparations for her comeback effort against Ohio State tomorrow was maintained this afternoon. Coach Harry Kipke ordered all newspaper men as well as spectators from the stadium where the Wolverines went through a long signal drill.

Tomorrow's battle of the Buckeyes and Wolverines will be the 26th game between the two schools in a rivalry which dates back to 1897. The first victory for the scarlet and grey came in 1919 and was followed by two more in succession. From then until last fall the Wolverines were victorious, but there is a Buckeye slogan which says victories over Michigan come in threes. According to that, Michigan is doomed to defeat next year as well as this.

The game tomorrow also will see the meeting of the Big Ten's two new coaches, Sam Willaman of Ohio and Harry Kipke of Michigan.

Kipke Shifts Players.

Kipke is worried. It is felt that a beating tomorrow, the second straight in conference competition, would demoralize the Wolverines who were pretty badly shaken after their showing against Purdue. A victory, on the other hand, will do much toward making the team and if a team ever needed confidence it is Michigan, with Illinois as next week's opponent.

Tomorrow's Michigan team will be a different one from a week ago. Kipke's shakeup during the last week has resulted in a new pair of ends, a tackle shift and Capt. Truskowski in the role of a regular back. The moving of Truskowski was caused by an ulcer infection which has kept Dahlen in the hospital all week. This in turn was the reason for one of the new ends. Neither flanker ever has started a game before.

Sophomores at Ends.

Ed Hewitt, sophomore, and Pete Cornwell are Kipke's new ends and their work will be watched with great interest. Auer's appearance at tackle is merely in the line of a reinstatement, Roach having displaced him for the Purdue game. Both Hewitt and Cornwell tip the scales under 180 pounds, while Truck and Draveling were 195 and 200 pounds, respectively. Kipke is hoping speed and aggressiveness will make up for the weight loss.

Indications this afternoon were for perfect football weather tomorrow.

De Paul Rides Rough Shod on St. Viator, 51-0

Bourbonnais, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—De Paul university took the "home" out of homecoming for some 4,000 fans, including several hundred old grads, here tonight by running roughshod over St. Viator colege, 51 to 0.

The Blue Demons ran up a total of 29 first downs from scrimmage as compared to one for St. Viator. De Paul attempted only two forward passes, completing one, as against six tries by Coach McAllister's squad. The locals completed four out of the half dozen attempts for three first downs.

Two Score 6 Counters.

Clair Byers and Red Harrington were the big guns in the Blue Demon offense, each scoring three touchdowns. When the game was less than five minutes old, Byers shot a pretty pass to Hartman for fifteen yards, then picked up ten more yards on a cut back through tackle and finished with a ten yard sprint around right end for another ten yards which carried him across the goal line.

Byers played only half of the game and accounted for some 175 yards in less than a dozen attempts. The Blue Demons' second touchdown came as a result of a 50 yard gallop by Ernie Butcher. Byers garnered the third marker on a smash through right tackle from the ten yard line.

McGivern Races 35 Yards.

The Chicagoans gathered in two more touchdowns in the third quarter, the first coming as a result of an intercepted pass by Paddy Driscoll.

De Paul's seventh score came as a result of one of the prettiest runs of the game when Art McGivern, who replaced Hartman, took the oval on his 35 yard mark and drove his way through the entire Viator team. Byers and Harrington were successful in only three attempts for the extra points.

Harvard's New Vigor on Display Against Cadets

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—The rough, robust, meat eating Harvard football team which has assumed the responsibility of living down the implications of the celebrated Princeton affair will meet the West Point cadets in Harvard's enlarged stadium Saturday afternoon.

Although the Army was no party to the regrettable Princeton matter, it seems likely that the young men from West Point will have to survive considerable wear and tear as the Harvard boys go about their counter-propaganda.

Harvard More Rugged

You may remember the implications of the Princeton affair. They were that the Harvard chaps liked to play king's-x football or a glorified version of squat-tag. Ever since then Harvard football has been growing more rugged and if all that one hears about the abrupt nature of the Harvard play at the present time is true the boys from the military academy will be asked to stand up under a furious demonstration of manly vigor this time, to the end that these old implications may be finally and convincingly refuted.

Inasmuch as the Army lads never cast any aspersions on the vigor of Harvard's football, the cadets, I imagine, would be content to waive the matter entirely and just play along in the usual manner, firmly but without passion. However, the Harvard team has been a long time arriving at the present state of mind and body and it just happens to be the Army's misfortune to come along as their first major opponent in the season chosen as der tag up here. Every one anticipates a show of vigor above and beyond the call of duty by all members of the Harvard side, but I hope this is not taken to suggest that the boys are planning any conduct beyond the code of lively but gentlemanly sport.

Cadets Never Sisterly.

Still, the cadets themselves never have been noted for their delicacy on the football field and, having been warned of the spirit of the Harvard team, they should be able to rise to the occasion.

They practiced this afternoon on the pool table sward at the bottom of the Harvard stadium, which has now been extended to seat about 58,000. After their exercise and some minor surgery by Frank Wandle, their trainer, in the dressing room they were loaded into omnibuses and shipped back to the Belmont Springs Country club to spend the night. The Harvard team worked out after the cadets had left, but consistent with the effort to deemphasize football here, the players were not sequestered for the evening and some of them may be dissipating at the illicit book stores this evening for all the authorities know.

Record Crowd Expected.

The crowd will be the greatest ever assembled for a football game in New England except at the Yale bowl, which seats about 80,000. The old Harvard stadium, the first great football amphitheater in the east, held about 54,000, which was regarded as a large number in those days. It was a U shaped arena, however, and the open end of the U came to be a reproach to the athletic association on occasions of great significance, such as tomorrow So in the last year the open end was filled in with a spider legged steel structure, completing the elongated circle, and now the Harvard stadium has seats and standing or leaning room for some 58,000, which will be occupied in full if not more so for the first time Saturday.

There is no noticeable warlike collegiate effervescence at Harvard this evening. Mr. Arnold Horween, the coach who took charge of the team when the implications of the Princeton affair were exceedingly rife, was discovered playing billiards in the basement of the athletic association building.

The Clue Gives Clew.

He said he was quite calm about the football game which was only a sporting event after all No doubt he was, although just as he said this his cue wavered so violently that his partner asked: "Are you waving at somebody?"

Two of the best men on the Harvard team, Wallace Harper of Ottumwa, Ia., the full back, and Jim Douglas of New York, the left end, were mauled and bruised so badly in the New Hampshire game that they will not appear tomorrow. Harold Levin, a Boston young man previously employed as a tackle, has been withdrawn from the lineup, owing to injuries, too, so the show of manliness may not be as violent as it might have been otherwise.

The probable array follows:

Salisbury Plains, N. Y., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Massie Miller, professional at the Norwich Golf club of Norwich, Conn., and Joe Turnesa of the Elmsford Country club tied for the $2,000 first prize in the J. J. Lannin Memorial golf tournament at the Salisbury Country club today. Their total score for the 72 holes was 309. They will play off the tie tomorrow at 36 holes. Craig Wood of Bloomfield, N. Ripon Brings Strong Team to Oppose Maroons Today

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Though the headlines go to the two big games in Chicago today, there will still be football at the Midway. Furthermore, the main event, in which Chicago's rejuvenated eleven plays a fine small college team from Ripon, promises to be a real football battle. In a second game the Chicago reserves play Indiana State Teachers college of Terre Haute, coached by Wally Marks, 1926 Maroon captain.

On paper Chicago versus Ripon sounds like a "set-up"— a tune up for Purdue next Saturday—but wait a bit. Last year this same small school started the Maroons on the downward path with a 12 to 0 defeat. A couple of weeks ago Northwestern had to recall most of its first string players to defeat Cornell college of Iowa, 27 to 18, yet last Saturday Ripon ripped through Cornell, 33 to 0.

Martin Ripon's Star.

Comparative scores are the bunk, of course, but these do give an indication that Ripon isn't any football team's pushover, and the Maroons apparently will have a busy afternoon if they are to stretch their string of victories to four. Classed as a fight eleven, Ripon yet has a 177 pound line with a great back in its captain, Red Martin.

But the Maroons are not the same team which Ripon skated over last year. Blessed with a bit more raw material than in the last few years Stagg has welded them into a heavy, hard charging team, that gave evidence it could be tough in its win from Indiana.

Stagg has power this year, particularly in the line, and as usual has made good use of it, mixing his famed plunging plays with passes. While he had difficulty in putting together two football teams for the doubleheader that opened the season two weeks ago, two weeks have shown a marked improvement in the Maroons.

Bluhm will start at quarter back for the Maroons in place of Paul Stagg, the athletic director's son, but otherwise the lineup will be the same as last week.

Spectators at the game will be informed of the progress of other Big Ten encounters by a CHICAGO TRIBUNE scoreboard at one end of Stagg field. Scores will be posted at the end of each quarter.

COLGATE AT INDIANA.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The east and the mid-west will continue an old football feud here tomorrow when Indiana and Colgate clash in Indiana's Memorial stadium. The game will be the first encounter between the two schools. It also will be the first eastern game Indiana has played since the Harvard invasion in 1927.

Tomorrow will be observed as Dads' day and Star Boy Scout day. Nearly 7,500 Boy Scouts will assemble to see the Iowa B-Indiana B and the Indiana-Colgate games as guests of the university.

Here's Lowdown on Illinois Spots for Duck Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

Question—Will you kindly mail me any information you may have on blinds available to the public along the Illinois river? I understand there are a few in and around Henry and Morris. JOHN E. COLBECK.

Answer—There are a few places along the upper Illinois river where hunters without duck club affiliations or those who do not own or lease land along the river, may obtain the use of a duck blind, decoys, etc. We have compiled a list of such places. Both Henry and Putnam, Ill., are included.

We know of no place around Morris, Ill., where free lance hunters may get some duck shooting. Virtually all of the lowlands either have been purchased or leased by individuals or clubs.

According to our information you must go to Henry, Putnam, or Chillicothe before day hunting establishments are found. The charge for a day's shoot including blind decoys and board and lodging ranges from $15 to $20 a day.

Down the river, below Peoria, there are many spots where you may secure day hunting privileges. We are mailing you information where to hunt above Peoria and also below Peoria as far south as Beardstown. If you want a November hunt, you'd better make a reservation at once.

Rules or No, Navy's Ready to Play Army

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The United States Naval academy, through Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, its superintendent, has offered to play a post-season football game with the United States Military academy this year unconditionally and without insistence upon the eligibility rules, which caused the break between the two schools. It is understood the offer was made two weeks ago.

The natural date is Dec. 6, but should any other date be more satisfactory to the military academy, the naval academy will try to arrange the game for that date.

It is understood here that the military academy is holding its examinations during the period included in the proposed date, and for that reason or for any other from the Army standpoint the naval academy is prepared to do all that it can to meet the situation.

NAVY'S MOVE EXPECTED.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Announcement that Navy offered to play Army in football this year "without any regard to eligibility rules" does not come as a surprise. For several months it has been known that the trend of feeling in naval circles was "get the game back. Try to make things appear as nice for Navy as possible, but grant anything. We want the game."

While overtures came from West Point in Maj. Gen. Smith's letter yesterday, it is generally known the approaching agreement between the two service academies is a victory for the Army.

When the teams renew relations, Army's eligibility rules will be the same as they were when Navy made its stand against transfers from other colleges being used on West Point teams. So long as they are able, scholastically and otherwise, transfers will be used in varsity competition during all but their plebe years.

Bears vs. Cards Chicago's Pro Grid Opener

The Bears and Cardinals, Chicago entries in the National league football race, open the professional season here tomorrow at Wrigley field. The contest not only is one more of the long list of hard fought battles between the Chicago rivals, but the losing eleven practically will forfeit its title chance.

Both teams have been defeated. The Bears lost to the Green Bay Packers and have won three games, defeating Buffalo and Minneapolis twice. The Cardinals, in three games, have won from Buffalo and lost to Minneapolis and Green Bay.

The Bears offer a strengthened lineup over that of last season, which lost out in the final games of the title race. Walt Holmer, all-conference full back last year from Northwestern; Cunningham and Johnson, ends; Pearson, center; Kopcha, guard, and Grange, who is returning to the pro gridiron after a season's layoff, are notable additions.

The Cardinals present almost an entirely new squad. Duke Slater, tackle; Herb Blumer, guard, and Mickey McDonald, half back, are the veterans of 1928. Ernie Nevers, full back, and Fait Elkins, former Haskell star, are headliners of the newcomers.

Milton Grid Team Loses to Elmhurst College, 18 to 0

Milton, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Elmhurst college was successful in its second Wisconsin invasion today when it ran over the Milton college team, 18 to 0. All the scoring was done in the last half.

3 GOLFERS WIN COW, BUT CAN'T DIVIDE PRIZE

Blue Island's business and professional leaders, headed by Mayor Frank Kasten and other city officials, had their golf differences settled over the Oak Hills course yesterday, and "Tony" Scavone emerged with the lion's share of the spoils. He shot low gross score of 37—37—75. Dr. L. F. Whitson was next with 42—36—78.

The arrangement of the prize list was unique. The first two low gross shooters got prizes, and then the list jumped to the fifth, eighth, eleventh, and so on down to the fortieth low gross, who received a Jersey cow for a prize. The winners were Charles Heckler, A. E. Tyler, and Emill Blatt, and just how they are going to divide the cow is a mystery. Others who won but are having their troubles are Paul Barth, W. H. Knickerbocker, Dr. Whitson, D. E. Kistner, Art Kitner, and Leo Krick, who tied for eighth and eleventh low gross, and must find some way to divide a ham and a smoke stand.

ST. PHILIP WINS 1ST NIGHT GAME

In the first night football game to be played in Chicago, St. Philip defeated St. Mel, 12 to 0, before 10,000 spectators at Mills stadium last night. It was the first official game of the Catholic league season. The "owl" game, played under 14 projectors with combined power of 42,000 watts, was successful in every respect.

St. Philip employed the air route frequently and in the second quarter a twenty-yard pass from Mancini, full back, to Mustari, half back, put across the first touchdown. Quinlivan, half back, slipped through left tackle for five yards for the second St. Philip touchdown. Gorman, quarter back, failed for the extra points in both attempts. Lineup:

RANK AND FILE OF CURB STOCKS SHOWS DECLINE

Liquidation Encourages Bear Operators.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The irregular rallies which marked today's trading on the curb exchange following a weak opening failed to hold prices in line and the rank and file of the list were off from 1 to 13 points at the close.

Week-end liquidation gave new courage to bearish operators and the combination of these selling forces was more than enough to sink practically all active stocks. Only the oils were loosened in the last hour of trading, although Cosden gave a fine performance, shooting up to a new high and closing with a net advance of 13¼ points at 130¼.

Show Sharp Losses.

In the forenoon, Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, Central States Electric, Allied Power and Light, and United Light and Power A at one time were off 1 to 5 points and all of them closed with sharp losses. Wider declines were sustained by some of the less active and high-priced issues such as American Light and Traction and Electric Investors.

The unexpected $88,000,000 increase in brokers' loans brought out further liquidation from nervous traders and stockholders and encouraged professional bears to resume their drives on the market. Utilities again bore the brunt of bearish pressure but aviation, investment trusts, radio shares, and specialties also yielded ground rather briskly.

Plenty of call money with the rate dropping around noon to 5 per cent from 6 per cent made the bears cautious and helped a rally somewhat but failed to stimulate any important buying of stocks.

Aviation Stocks Weak.

Aviation stocks still found difficulty reaching rock bottom. Fokker and Douglas sank to new lows on the movement in sympathy with the weakness of some of the leaders of the group on the big board. National Aviation and North American broke to new lows for the year. A crash in Crosley Radio on the big board unsettled the radio shares, Earl and other radio stocks selling off in sympathy.

Announcement of a 400 per cent stock dividend and refinancing plan for Firestone resulted in profit taking which carried the stock down 20 points in the forenoon. A number of recently issued investment trust shares worked to new low levels, including Shenandoah, Blueridge, and Allied International.

File Schedules in Dimond Motor Bankruptcy Suit

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Schedules of liabilities and assets in the involuntary bankruptcy suit against the Dimond Motor company and the Dimond Buick company of Mount Vernon, Ill., were filed in federal court today. Liabilities were listed as $93,539 and assets $60,137. The bankruptcy action was brought about a month ago. The Dimond companies, headed by Jesse I. Dimond, operate garages and automobile agencies in Mount Vernon, West Frankfort and Duquoin. They represent the sales agencies of Jefferson, Franklin and Perry counties.

Great Western Chief Back from Trip of Inspection

V. V. Boatner, newly elected president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, returned yesterday from his first inspection trip of the company's properties and territory which it serves and announced he found both in prosperous condition. Mr. Boatner, commenting on his work as new chief executive of the railroad, said the officers are principally concerned with keeping up the entire system and rounding out an organization to handle all classes of service expeditiously and efficiently.

Chicago Curb Market Stocks

Chicago curb stocks finished irregularly yesterday. Standard of Kansas, Middle West preferred, and Curtiss Airports improved around two points and Thermoid recorded a good gain reflecting rumored extra dividend action. Greenebaum, Central and Southwest new and Transformer showed declines of around a point.

STOCK PRICES SAG, BUT LOANS GROW LARGER

N.Y. Exchange Gives September Data.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The New York stock exchange announced yesterday that the aggregate market value of all listed stocks declined $2,594,646,431 last month.

The total stood at $87,073,630,423 on Oct. 1, compared with $89,668,276,854 on Sept. 1. However, loans to its members during the same time increased $67,764,553, to a new peak at $8,-143,382,979. Therefore, the ratio of loans to market value was 9.32 per cent on Oct. 1, compared with 8.79 per cent on Sept. 1, an increase of 1.03 per cent.

To some degree, these data would seem to indicate that large holders of stocks in a strong position accomplished considerable liquidation and that the shares were taken by speculators who required larger loans in order to carry them. In market parlance, stocks passed from strong into weaker hands. However, part of the loan expansion resulted from the flotation of new issues which have not yet been listed.

In view of the September figures, the record for this month will be even more interesting when it appears. Two sharp breaks in prices already this month have undoubtedly caused a much larger shrinkage in aggregate values than occurred last month. On the other hand, brokers' loans stand at practically the same level as at the opening of this month, according to the reports of the federal reserve board.

Expect Drop in Loans.

Unless stock prices decline further, there is not much likelihood that brokers' loans will show a decrease in the next week or so, because of impending payments on new securities. Stockholders of a number of companies, including Bethlehem Steel, Union Carbide and Carbon, Pacific Gas and Electric, St. Regis Paper, American Founders and F. G. Shattuck, will be called on to take up additional stock involving upward of $206,000,000 new money.

Later, the new Insull investment trust issue will require $80,000,000 and the usual grist of new financing also may be expected. Undoubtedly there will be considerable borrowing through brokers to meet these demands.

September railroad earnings reports, which will begin to appear next week, may prove less cheerful than had been expected. President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific said yesterday that gross and net earnings will be less than a year ago due to a smaller wheat crop and lighter fruit shipments.

For the same reasons, the Burlington is expected to show a slight decrease in both gross and net earnings. The Alton reports net operating income of $250,407, compared with $405,213 in September, 1928.

On the other hand, estimates for the Illinois Central call for moderate increases in both gross and net earnings, and this also applies to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

Hudson Motor Profits.

Slackening in the automobile industry was again evidenced in the report of the Hudson Motor company. Third quarter net profit was $2,821,652, or $1.77 a share, compared with $6,053,-778, or $3.79 a share, in the second quarter and $3,121,632, or $1.95 a share, in the third quarter of 1928. However, net profit for the nine months of this year was $13,448,165, or $8.42 a share, compared with $12,-177,953, or $7.72 a share, for the corresponding period last year.

Sharp improvement in the building industry and fewer commercial failures occurred last week. Heavy construction and engineering projects totaled $60,748,000, compared with $47,617,000 in the previous week and $91,995,000 a year ago, according to the Engineering News-Record. Business failures numbered 359, compared with 480 a year ago, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

BRAZIL ARRANGES LARGE LOAN FOR COFFEE INSTITUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The Sao Paula government of Brazil has arranged in London and New York for a loan of from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 for the Brazilian Coffee Institute, according to reports circulated in Wall street and endorsed by bankers in Wall street today. The Brazilian Coffee institute which is located in Sao Paula, controls the coffee situation throughout Brazil.

Such a loan, it was reported, had been undertaken by the London firm of Lazard Bros., and Dillon Read & Co. here. At the office of Dillon Read & Co. no comment would be made, although the same firm yesterday gave out a statement denying that they had refused Brazil a loan of $12,500,-000 declaring in addition that the question had not come before them. The Bank of Brazil recently arranged a short term advance of $12,500,000 for coffee growers.

That there was some basis in fact for the story of a large loan indicated by a cable from Sao Paula to London, relayed here, purporting to quote a statement from the coffee institute to the effect that it had obtained a loan of unnamed amount in New York and London and by the general and sharp rally which ensued in Brazilian currency and Brazilian sterling and dollar bonds. Coffee futures also soared 9 to 45 points on top of gains of 95 to 115 points yesterday.

In government bond circles there was conjecture as to whether the Hoover administration would sanction the sale of bonds here to protect the Brazilian coffee growers on the ground that such a loan might be used to hold up the price of coffee against American consumers.

Loss of Faith in Irrigation Issues Cited

BY SCRUTATOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Quebec, Oct. 18.—An echo of the general discussion of depression in farming lands was heard today at the concluding session of the 1929 convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America, when a committee report was approved stating that there had been additional defaults of irrigation district securities in the last year, and that the confidence of the public in such investments had been severely shaken.

"Public skepticism," the report asserted in explanation, "in view of the past record and immediate prospects of these securities, is probably justified and is based on the investors' experience that, when in default, the collapse is so complete, and the possibility of recovery so small that the approval of bond certification commissions and other like governmental authorities, is meaningless.

"Accounting practices are so irregular that the possibility of getting accurate information on conditions is slight and the information that is obtained unreliable."

Cite Economic Factors.

Insufficient colonization, unsuitability of much of the land involved for cultivating or poor location with respect to markets were among the basic economic factors named as influencing the securities unfavorably.

In addition it was stated, total taxes for schools, roads and general purposes which often increased with the improvement of the land itself, had been given insufficient attention. Legal inconsistencies also were pointed to.

There was said to be a great deal of uncertainty in some states as to whether a sale of land for county taxes will eliminate, the taxes on the same land, for the irrigation districts purposes, or at least these spread on the tax records before the levying of the county taxes. Legislation by the various states to define the rights of the irrigation district bondholders was recommended.

In another approved report the association requested that the federal government in its great plan for flood control on the Mississippi river, recognize the prior rights of the persons who have invested in existing levee district bonds.

Will Render Aid.

Because the amounts involved, both in the old, and in the proposed new financing for river improvement are tremendous and the legal rights of the present bondholders so ill defined the Investment Bankers association has voted an appropriation to extend the aid of lawyers to the investors.

A recommendation was voted that the members work to urge the repeal of profits tax legislation and obtain a reduction from the present corporate income tax rate of 12 per cent. The committee report stated that the difference in rates on corporate and individual incomes constitutes a discrimination against investors in corporate securities.

Abolition of all federal estate taxes was requested as at the 1928 meeting. A new suggestion was that legislation be passed eliminating the payment of bond interest at the source, now required by the income tax laws and constituting a heavy expense to the banks which must act as collectors without compensation.

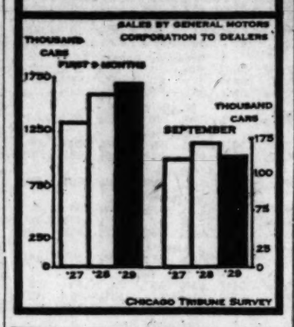
Elect New President.

Trowbridge Callaway of New York was elected president of the association for the ensuing year, succeeding Rollin A. Wilbur of Cleveland.

Alden H. Little of Chicago was elected secretary and executive vice president, and Robert A. Gardner of Mitchell Hutchins & Co., Chicago, treasurer.

E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific railway addressed the delegates outlining the present prosperous condition of the dominion. He asserted that while much foreign capital had been flowing into Canada, Canadian prosperity was nevertheless due in great measure to the thrift and industry of the inhabitants themselves.

General Motors September Sales to Dealers Were Off, Though 9 Months' Sales Set a Record



BOND MARKET PRICES CONTINUE TO FORGE AHEAD

(New York bond list page 28.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The advance in the bond market continued at a good pace today, stimulated by the lowering of call money to 5 per cent and the news of offering of $32,000,000 utility mortgage bonds by a group of leading bankers. The offering of this issue at this time was taken to mean that, in the opinion of these bankers, the bond market is in a decidedly improved state.

Railroad issues, foreign bonds, utilities and United States government obligations, led the advance. All government issues traded in on the New York stock exchange showed gains for the day, the advances ranging from 3-32 to 20-32.

Among the rails the best advances were made by Central of Georgia consolidated 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Chicago and North Western 4¾s, Chicago Union Station 4½s, Lehigh Valley 4s, Nickel Plate 5½s and 4½s and New York, Ontario and Western refunding 4s.

The strongest foreign issues included Buenos Aires 6½s, Caldas 7½s, Columbia 6s and a number of the German issues. Bell Telephone 5s, Cincinnati Gas and Electric 4s, Peoples Gas 5s, and Utah Light and Traction 5s led the advance in utilities.

CLEARING HOUSE PLAN ADOPTED BY STOCK MART

Plans for the organization of a new corporation to take over the work of clearing the trades for members of the Chicago stock exchange were announced yesterday by R. Arthur Wood, president. The corporation will be known as the Chicago Stock Exchange Clearing House corporation.

The bureau will be patterned after that of the New York Stock Exchange Clearing House corporation. After its organization, brokerage houses will have a common place to deliver and pick up securities which have been bought or sold during the day. At present each house delivers stocks and bonds individually.

Harvey T. Hill, assistant to the president and Lester Falk, attorney, will begin a study of the clearing house corporation in New York on Monday and upon their return the incorporation of a local organization will be started.

This compares with 148,-784 for the corresponding month last year.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES REFLECT BREAK IN EAST

Active Shares Make Orderly Retreat.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

(Chicago stock list page 26.)

Chicago stock prices were mostly lower yesterday in reflection of the break in New York. The decline was orderly, however, and net losses among the active shares were held to little more than three points.

A feature of the day was a six point rise in Commonwealth Edison. The company reported net earnings for the third quarter of $2,561,572 after all charges and taxes, equivalent to $2.03 a share on the 1,261,000 shares outstanding. This compares with $2,501,113 or $1.80 a share on 1,253,468 shares outstanding in the same period of last year.

Off Thirteen Points.

Public Service par common was off 13 points on a 50 share sale while the no par was unchanged, also on small sale transactions. The company reported net earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 30 of $1,139,846 after taxes, interest and retirement charges. This compares with $1,020,241 in the third quarter of 1928.

Most of the investment stocks were down a point or so. The new Insull investment trust issue, Corporation Securities company, will be initially traded in today. Trades on a over the counter basis were registered yesterday at around 100. There was no public offering, most of the stock having been privately placed.

Seaboard Utilities Shares corporation was fractionally lower. The company issued its statement as of Oct. 11, which shows net earnings from earnings, realized profits and including dividends paid to be $712,244, compared with $604,770 on Sept. 27, 1929.

Bendix Aviation led the automotive division with a decline of three points in spite of reports that the company has more than $16,000,000 out on call in the New York money market. Borg-Warner lost 2¾ and Cord was down 2½.

Winton Engine Earnings.

Winton Engine eased 2¾. The company issued its statement for the first nine months of this year showing net income to exceed the earnings for all of 1928. G. W. Codrington, president, reported net of $632,289, equal to $8.68 a share on the 65,000 shares of no par common stock outstanding after allowing for dividends on the 30,000 shares of preference stock outstanding. For all of last year net income was $403,-130, equal to $4.81 a share on the basis of the present capitalization.

The company's net for the third quarter totaled $247,778, or $3.46 a share, against $150,449, or $1.97 a share a year ago. September net was $106,124, or $1.51 a share, against $62,-224, or 84 cents a share in the some month of 1928.

National Union Radio was down 3¼ points despite reports that earnings for the current fiscal year will be around $5 a share, compared with $3 a share in the preceding annual period. An important acquisition is also expected to be announced soon. Ken-Rad Tube was active and regained practically all of an earlier loss of a point.

Wextark Radio Stores finished two points lower. Simon Wexler, president, announced that before the end of this month the company will open eight new stores. Grigsby-Grunow broke below the pegged price for a loss of 2¼ points. Raytheon and Stelnite were each two points down, and Zenith was the exception in the radio group with a gain of 1¼ points.

Down Two Points.

U. S. Gypsum declined two points. Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line closed a major fraction higher on expectations that a merger will be announced soon.

Gleaner Combine Harvester was dull, although S. M. Hale, prisedent, announced that the company has just closed a contract to ship to the Argentine 600 combine machines in 1930, 800 in 1931, 1,000 in 1932, and 1,200 in 1933. Parker Pen was also quiet. George S. Parker, president, stated that sales and profits for the first nine months of this year show a substantial improvement over last year.

The Minneapolis-Honeywell company announced the organization of a space heating division to design and install specialized temperature control equipment in industrial plants and large buildings. The First National Stores announced the acquisition of the Nicholson-Thacray chain of 120 retail grocery stores in Pawtucket, R. I., and surrounding territory. The acquisition will bring the First National chain to 2,500 units with annual gross sales of more than $100,000,000, the company stated.

The Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation has sufficient orders on its books to keep a double factory shift busy for the next two months, C. U. Williams announced.

CENTRAL TRUST CO. EXTENDS INFLUENCE IN DOWNTOWN BANK

The Central Trust Company of Illinois has extended its influence to another downtown Chicago bank. Announcement was made last night that interests associated with the Central Trust, together with Philip F. W. Peck, Robert H. McCormick, Mitchell D. Follansbee, Fred A. Preston and others, recently have acquired substantial holdings in the Congress Trust and Savings bank, 510 South Wabash avenue.

Sanford Otis, vice president of the Central Trust, and Messrs. McCormick and Preston will become directors of the Congress Trust and Savings, which already has Messrs. Peck and Follansbee as directors.

It is understood that the capital of the Congress Trust will be increased and that a well known Chicago banker will be chosen president to succeed Henry S. Henschen, who will become president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, now being organized.

The Central Trust company also has an affiliation with the new Terminal National bank, which will open next month, through interlocking directors. The Congress Trust and Savings began business in May, 1927, with capital of $300,000 and deposits of about $500,000. It now has capital of $500,-000, surplus of $50,000, contingent fund of $50,000, undivided profits of $38,146, and deposits of $2,746,651.

EXPECT OFFERING OF $60,000,000 IN N. Y. CITY BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—New York City is expected to execute the largest piece of municipal financing of the year some time in the near future. The financing, it is believed, will take the form of an issue of $60,000,000 forty to fifty year bonds. Interest on the new issue has been fixed at 4½ per cent by the sinking fund commission, and the board of estimates is expected to name an early date for the offering.

Arrangements are also being worked out whereby the sinking fund commission will absorb for its own account an issue of $52,000,000 4 year municipal bonds bearing 4 per cent interest, funds of which will be used to finance rapid transit work. No part of this issue will be offered publicly.

In announcing the $60,000,000 proposed issue it was pointed out that the somewhat improved conditions in the bond market, especially high grade municipal issues, would result in a successful placing of this issue. Plans of Controller Berry to make this issue the only long term financing in the next twelve months were read in his advice to investors that they "buy now or wait another twelve months."

Controller Berry indicated also that he expected to make only one large offering of this kind every year in the future while doing the necessary interim financing by short term issues as in the past.

Reviews Find U. S. Business Holds Up Well

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Although buoyancy is lacking trade and business are continuing in good volume, according to the reviews of Dun and Bradstreet, issued today.

Wholesale trade, especially in the automobile and steel industries, is showing signs of slackening, the reports say, but retail trade continues on a par with last year, the reports indicate.

Dun's says: "If now lacking some of its earlier notable momentum and buoyancy, general business still manifests fundamental strength and a gratifying absence of conspicuous instability.

Contraction in Steel.

"Recurring speculative unsettlement with renewed depression in the stock market has had no counterpart in the commercial field, although readjustments in the latter quarter are becoming more plainly discernible. Contraction from an unusually high basis of activity has gone further in the steel industry, which is being influenced by the lessened demands from automobile makers, and recent expansion in leather and footwear trading has been succeeded by reduced commitments.

"Accompanying the recession in these lines and also in certain other directions more indications of price easing have developed, declines having predominated in Dun's list of wholesale quotations for five consecutive weeks.

Gives Buyers Advantage.

"With supplies readily obtainable in most channels, the supporting element of urgent bidding for goods has only infrequently appeared, whereas sharp competition in selling has worked to the advantage of buyers in not a few instances. Hence the policy of ordering for mainly well defined needs has been continued and variations in production have reflected the rise or fall of purchasing.

"Such changes as are occurring now in some prominent branches of manufacture have come only after a period of remarkable achievement and recognition of this condition is essential in considering the diminished vigor of current operations. With October more than half over the traditional autumn growth of business has not fully materialized, yet the exceptional experience of last summer when the volume was sustained well above the seasonal average is naturally a factor in the present movement. Statistical records of trade trends, of which several were issued this week, show contrasting results, but with increases outnumbering decreases.

Railway Traffic.

"A smaller railroad freight traffic than was reported a year ago marks the first reduction that has been disclosed for some time, but distribution to consumers remains at a high level and advices from retail circles do not suggest any widespread lowering of the public buying power.

"Trade and industry are proceeding in fairly full volume with precise statement of relative volume difficult because of irregular weather most of the week, the occurrence of religious holidays and the changing base of comparison with a year ago," says Bradstreet's.

"All in all, trade apparently is little different from last week, whereas wholesale and jobbing trade seems a trifle less active than a year ago, while retail trade seems to be of larger volume. For the latter the cooler weather overspreading the country late this week seems mainly responsible.

"In retail and jobbing lines there is some slight reflection of the effect of sagging prices of farm products, the grains particularly, from a week ago, this most evident in the generally downward move of wheat prices."

BY FRED HARVEY.

(New York stock list page 29.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Fresh selling inspired by the $88,000,000 rise in brokers' loans came into the stock market today, driving values sharply lower all down the line.

Losses ranged as high as 15 points in the more active leaders and were sufficiently numerous to virtually wipe out the showing made on yesterday's recovery movement.

Trading was largely professional with public interest virtually nil. The turnover fell below 3,500,000 shares, which goes to show that sentiment does not recover in a hurry from so drastic a decline as has been taking place.

Call Rate Drops.

Again, the news grist brought no great comfort to either faction. The call rate dropped to 5 per cent around midday and this influenced some covering, but the improvement did not hold out and the close found most values around their low levels of the day. The best that could be said for the market as a whole was that it indicated the presence of considerable support for the leaders around the lows reached on the early dip of yesterday.

Once more the bear element found the utility group to be the most vulnerable of the list. A poor technical position and the absence of new support caused American and Foreign Power, American Telephone and Telegraph, Waterworks, Consolidated Gas and other leaders of the section to hit the toboggan early.

Foreign Power was off more than 9 points at the finish, while Consolidated Gas had a net loss of nearly 10 points to its discredit. The western coast issues took their punishment with the rest, Pacific Lighting closing off 5 points.

Oils Resist Trend.

To checkmate this showing, the oils made a pretty fair showing, considering the general conditions they had to contend with, although few of them were able to run up actual gains on the day. One of the exceptions was Atlantic Refining, which went ahead for nearly a point. Royal Dutch, Skelly, Shell, Sinclair and all of the Standard issues were in good demand at times, although none was able to get very far ahead of the game. Favorable estimates of earnings for the current year helped trading in this direction.

In the merchandising division the bull and bear elements kept Montgomery Ward in the limelight by a bitter tussle for control which lasted throughout the session. The bears won out in the end, driving the stock down for a net loss of more than 6 points. Evidently the recent action of the corporation's board in raising

News and Gossip of Stock Markets

Tobacco Prospects.

According to some estimates, four of the leading tobacco manufacturers will be able to increase receipts by about $40,000,000 because of the increase of 40 cents per thousand in cigarets. These firms are American Tobacco, Lorillard & Co., Reynolds Tobacco, and Ligget & Myers. All of the increase will not, however, go into net, because these companies are said to be planning expensive advertising campaigns, and there is a possibility also that the tobacco growers will get more for their tobacco next year.

Bath Dividends.

The strength in Missouri Pacific common and preferred is due to the proposed plan of the company to pay back dividends on the preferred in common stock. One-half share of common stock, now priced at 94, would give the preferred stockholders a chance to realize on the back dividends immediately, and with that out of the way the road is clear for the declaration of a dividend on the common. Earnings of Missouri Pacific on the common this year will be around $11. The probability is, therefore, that a dividend of something like $6 would go to the common, although it might be started with $4 and an increase later.

Bethlehem Steel Activity.

Few can understand the action of Bethlehem Steel in moving down close to 110, which is the price at which the new stock was offered recently, and for which the rights expire next Monday. Bethlehem will earn more than double its dividend rate of $6 even with the additional $00,000 new shares to be issued. In fact, the earnings of the company have been so good that the prediction has been made that another increase in the dividend rate might be made.

Bullish Feature.

Davison Chemical earned $3.34 a share for the fiscal year ended June 30. The company, however, is only beginning to benefit from the concentration of manufacturing facilities and its large investment in several subsidiaries. A bullish feature in the situation is found in the Baltimore water front property that the corporation has placed in the hands of a real estate subsidiary, the sale of which, it is said, would mean about $40 a share.

Timken Merger Rumored.

Timken Roller Bearing is expected to announce a merger with the Swedish Ball Bearing company. The Swedish concern has factories in England, France, Germany, Russia and the United States as well as in Sweden. Its product is largely used in electric motors and industrial apparatus. As the bulk of Timken's output goes to the automobile trade, a merger of the two companies should be mutually beneficial.

Expansion Program.

Yesterday's move in Royal Dutch was based on a growing belief that the company has embarked on the greatest expansion program in its history. Royal Dutch is probably ahead of any other company from the point of total refining capacity. Together with controlling units, it produced 11.2 per cent of the total world output of crude in 1928. The Royal Dutch group has the largest tanker fleet in the world, and is probably the world's largest producer of asphalt and asphalt products. It recently entrenched itself in the asphalt roofing business by obtaining control of eight American roofing factories and four felt mills.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 18.—The Nash Motors company today paid County Treasurer George H. Lauer, a check for $735,581 for its 1928 state corporation income tax. The 1927 corporation income tax totaled $842,168. Of this sum the state of Wisconsin receives 40 per cent, the city 50 per cent and the county 10 per cent.

WHEAT PRICES REACT; CLOSE IS NEAR BOTTOM

Corn Finishes Lower; Oats Unsettled.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An undertone of nervous uncertainty prevailed in the grain markets, and while wheat advanced ¾@1¼c in the early trading due to strength in Liverpool, there was a reaction of 2@2½c from the top on scattered selling and the finish was well toward the bottom with net losses of ⅝@⅞c.

Pronounced weakness in the Winnipeg wheat market had some effect locally, as prices there were 1⅝@1¾c lower at the last. The trade paid little attention to reports of a big export demand at the seaboard with sales estimated as high as 1,250,000 bu in all positions, as there was nothing in the buying of futures that suggested the removal of hedges against the grain. Buenos Ayres finished unchanged to ⅝c lower.

Liquidation Developed Heavy.

Scattered liquidation developed in corn and the market showed a heavy undertone following a strong opening, and the close was ⅞@1c lower. Oats were unsettled, and ¼c higher to ⅛c lower the former on December. Rye was ¼c lower to ⅛c higher.

Liquidation Less Heavy.

There was a noticeable lack of the heavy and aggressive selling of wheat by longs so noticeable on Thursday, and the aggregate trade was much lighter. The failure of aggressive buying to develop on the pronounced strength in Liverpool with May there closing about 7⅛c over Chicago, the widest difference in weeks discouraged local bulls, and the lack of seaboard buying despite claims of around 625,000 bu hard winters being taken caused considerable comment.

Argentine crop comment was distinctly bullish with Nat C. Murray reporting that a motor trip through parts of the provinces of Cordoba and Santa Fé indicated yields of 40 to 60 per cent of normal. A private cable estimated the probable exportable surplus at 150,000,000 bu, while guesses as to the remainder of the old crop ranged from 16,000,000 to 46,000,000 bu, the latter by Broomhall.

Scattered showers were reported in southern Buenos Ayres with the forecast indicating unsettled conditions.

New Australian wheat crop is estimated by Broomhall at 100,000,000 bu against 160,000,000 bu harvested last year, the recent rains failing to cause the expected improvement. Liverpool closed ⅛@1¼d higher.

Commission Houses Sell Corn.

An effort on the part of commission houses to sell corn futures disclosed a lack of aggressive buying and the market declined rather sharply, the bulge of Thursday having weakened the technical position. There were 14 cars of new corn received with the quality the best at this season in years, and a local industry was the best buyer.

A car of kiln dried No. 3 yellow was received from Illinois and sold at 89c. Shipping demand was active with sales of 255,000 bu, making 400,000 bu sold in the last two days, and charters were made for 100,000 bu to Buffalo. Estimates on the Argentine old crop exportable surplus ranged from 32,000,000 to 72,000,000 bu.

A liberal overnight demand for cash oats brought in good buying of futures early by cash interests, and the market failed to respond to the break in other grains. Shipping sales were 250,000 bu, making 400,000 bu taken in the last two days. Spot basis was firm. Rye held within narrow limits, easing toward the last in sympathy with wheat.

COTTON PRICES SHRINK

Cotton prices were on the downgrade most of yesterday, with a small rally at the last and a close at intermediate figures, with losses of 4 to 8 points in New Orleans and New York, taking the active futures, while Chicago finished 4 points higher to 6 points lower. Easier cables from Liverpool with a close there of 2 to 6 points net lower and sales of 7,000 bales of spots was reflected in American markets to a moderate extent. Hedging pressure, particularly on New York and New Orleans, was a factor. Commission houses bought January and March in a liberal way in New York and there was a little spreading between Chicago and New Orleans.

Hester's report on spinners' takings for the week showed 402,000 bales, against 307,000 bales the previous week, and 309,000 bales last year. Bids on December cotton in Chicago were 17.30c and offers 18.10c, good for the day.

Spot cotton in New York was unchanged with middlings at 18c and sales 1,150 bales. New Orleans declined 5 points to 17.70c and sales 1,450 bales. Galveston was 17.95c and NY Houston 17.85c. Prices follow:

BULL MARKET IN EGGS

The aggressive upward movement in the prices of egg futures continued on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday with November eggs addigr $00 a car to their quotation and December eggs following suit in an advance of $75 a car. The government report of storage movements of eggs in the four markets showed an additional increase in the shortage as compared to last year, and this favorable factor, coupled with a firmer spot situation, furnished bullish traders with plenty of ammunition. November closed ⅝c higher at 38¾c, and December up ⅝c at 39¼c. Sales were 712 cars, and receipts were 5,875 cases. December butter dropped 97¢ a car following a weakening spot and larger receipts closing ⅛c lower at 43c, with January unchanged at 43¾c. Sales were 62 cars, and receipts were 7,519 tubs. December cheese futures declined 97¢ a car, with sales of two cars, the close being at $23.05.

the dividend rate did not prove any great help to the bull contingent.

General Motors Declines.

Publication of the General Motors car sales for September likewise didn't do much to improve sentiment toward the motor shares. The big leader of the division dipped to a new low in the early trading and stuck pretty close thereabouts till the end. Price movements in the others held to a narrow range, with transactions on the usual light scale.

Tobacco shares showed some recuperative powers, American Tobacco common running up a net gain of some 1½ points. The B stock of the company, at one time up more than 5 points, gave way to liquidation toward the last.

The chemicals showed a disposition to rally in the forenoon, but fell back later. Steel was under pressure with brief intervals all day. The close found it with a loss of more than 7 points. Bethlehem dipped some 3 points and the rest of the group followed suit.

Among other outstanding losses of the day were Johns-Manville, off 13¾; Products Coke, down 14; Standard Gas, 9¼; North American, 8½; Murray corporation, 7⅞; Federal Mining and Smelting, 17; Eastman Kodak, 7; Crosley Radio, 12; Auburn Auto, 14, and Simmons company, 7 points.

Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.60.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 1,000 sheep.

The Thursday break in the hog market, which carried top prices below the $10.00 line for the first time of the season, brought a rush of buying on eastern account yesterday and practically all of the loss was replaced.

The extreme top reached $9.95, while the general average at $9.55 was the same as Wednesday's average. Gains of 15@25c were general.

Shipping orders were largest since middle of last April, causing many local packers to run short of hogs in the scramble for stock directly after the opening. Outsiders bought 7,000, or more than 40 per cent of the fresh receipts.

The market was practically over before 10 o'clock in the forenoon, with 3,000 estimated left at the close. Bulk of good grades of hogs changed hands at $9.75@9.90, against $9.50@9.75 Thursday.

Cattle Are Peddled.

The market for yesterday's small supply of 2,500 cattle developed into a peddling affair soon after a dull, top-heavy opening. Many were carried over for next week's trade on unsatisfactory bids.

Prevailing quotations, however, are sharply above ten days ago, good yearlings and butcher stock showing as much as 50c to $1.00 advance since early last week.

Prime steers were absent yesterday, the best available selling at $14.50, although 19 good 776 lb heifers also reached this figure, with 5 averaging 725 lbs at $15.75, the latter being highest for heifers since August. Calves were unchanged. Feeders sold readily at the recent gain.

Lamb Decline Blocked.

Salesmen blocked further price cuts in the lamb market yesterday, and spots at the close showed strength, although quotations are still 25@50c under a week ago. Natives brought $12.50@12.75 mostly, fancy 80 lb averages to Swift at $13.00 and to yard traders at $13.10. Top range lambs sold for local slaughter at $13.25.

Aged sheep sold steady and yearlings firm. Country demand for feeding stock continued active at the week's 25@50c advance, fancy light weights selling upwards to $13.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 7,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep, against 147 cattle, 5,165 hogs and 5,057 sheep the previous Saturday, and 414 cattle, 5,261 hogs and 2,164 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago next Monday are estimated at from 32,000 to 50,000. H. Pattison marked 33,000; F. Knutsen, 34,000; J. T. Brown, 36,000; H. Turner, 38,000; H. C. Carlson and W. S. Nicholson, 39,000; William Garrett, F. M. Sherwood, C. Southwick, S. Lund, and F. B. Orb, 40,000; R. W. Trotter, 41,000; W. T. Reneker and A. G. Welhener, 42,000; W. C. White, 43,000; J. M. Waters, W. G. Olson, and R. W. Thorne, 45,000; George Brittain, 47,000, and W. E. Morgan, 50,000.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Although there was no interest in the raw sugar from local refiners and prices were unchanged at 4.05c for spots duty paid, there was increased buying by European and local operators in the Cuban market. Raw futures were quiet, and after early advances, which were probably influenced by the better tone to the spot market, prices reacted and closed at 1 point decline to 1 point advance. Approximate sales were 12,500 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

Refinery prices were unchanged at 5.50c, with a good withdrawal demand, but no new business.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods prices continued quoted unchanged in today's market. Constant easing of raw cotton and new willingness of buyers to pay the present market contained to account for a very quiet condition. Fine goods were slow. Finished goods activity was fair. Woven fancy and fancy back overcoatings were in better call. Spot and future lace were quiet and unchanged with shipments quoted unchanged on continuing Calcutta holidays. Firmer prices in open markets of Japan influence raw spot silk prices upward here with advances of 5c noted. Spring silk merchandise showings stress importance of new style tendencies.

Marmon Motor Car.

R. D.: The severe decline in Marmon Motor Car company's profits for the three months ended Aug. 31, 1929, as compared with profits of the preceding quarter, is partially accounted for by the fact that the quarter ending Aug. 31, is normally a dull season whereas the quarter ending May 31, covers the most active automobile manufacturing period.

The company's concentration on its new lower priced models and a drop in sales of higher priced models also had an effect on earnings.

In spite of the poor showing made during the three months ended Aug. 31, the company has been making progress in recent years. The $4 dividend requirement for the year was fully covered during the first six months of the company's fiscal year.

Net profit for the August quarter was $61,281. Net profit for the six months ended Aug. 31 was $1,150,282, which was equivalent to $115.03 per share on 10,000 shares of preferred and $4.29 per share on 260,000 no par common shares.

Net sales in the six months ended Aug. 31, 1929 represented an increase of approximately 48 per cent over the corresponding period of the year before.

For the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1929, net sales amounted to $23,933,230 and net income $1,271,665, equal to $4.62 a share on 260,000 shares of common.

As of Feb. 28, 1929, current assets were $8,293,990 and current liabilities $2,886,453, leaving a net working capital of $2,407,437. Profit and loss surplus was $1,354,094.

The preferred stock is rather high grade.

The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

General Baking.

J. F. Mc.: General Baking corporation's substantial expenditures for new plants and for advertising have been accomplished by increased earnings.

For 37 weeks ended Sept. 14, 1929, net profit, after charges and federal taxes, was $5,903,361, equivalent to $5.40 per share on 999,980 preferred shares and 33 cents per share on 3,472,361 no par common shares. Net profit for the like period of 1928 was $4,728,393.

The company has completed three new plants at a cost of $2,375,000 during the last twelve months and has spent an additional $1,911,406 for major improvements in 32 other plants. The program calls for an expenditure of $8,000,000 for plant improvements in 1929 and 1930.

Net profit for 1928 was $7,545,890, against $7,737,955 for 1927 and $6,231,471 for 1926.

Dividends are reported on the preferred stock but not on the common.

The preferred stock is medium grade.

Kingdom of Belgium.

O. C. M.: Kingdom of Belgium external 8s, dated Feb. 1, 1921 and due Feb. 1, 1941, constitute direct obligations of the Kingdom of Belgium. They are issued under a loan contract in which the Kingdom of Belgium covenants that if in the future it shall issue by public subscription any loan having a lien on any specific revenue or assets, these bonds shall be secured equally and ratably with such loan.

These bonds are subject to call on any interest date on or after Feb. 1, 1931 at 107½.

They are a sound investment.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

Sometimes an opportunity, sometimes a convenience, sometimes a necessity prompts a Chicago home owner to place a second mortgage on his home

The cost of money borrowed for a necessity should be no greater than the cost of money borrowed for convenience or for opportunity.

We would never encourage a home owner to obtain funds on his home for use in a speculative venture, but where it is convenient or necessary or where there is an opportunity to obtain funds for a constructive purpose it is sometimes advisable to borrow on a second mortgage.

When there is need and when the time comes the average home owner does not know where to go.

Whatever the need, Personal Loan & Savings Bank, acting as agent for a substantial loan fund, has money to loan and facilities to offer to home owners whereby they can arrange for a second mortgage at a reasonable cost and upon convenient terms.

We make loans for a period of one to three years, with interest not in excess of 6¼% per annum, and a commission of 3½% for one year, 6¼% for two years, and 9% for three years, and the monthly payments may be as low as 2% plus accrued interest each month.

The entire plan developed by Personal Loan & Savings Bank as agent for the handling of second mortgages is geared down to meet the requirements of the home owner in this vicinity. We will be glad to have you come in and find out all about the proposition which we are offering in this direction.
